

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2012 with funding from Boston Public Library

Return volume, when bound, tSTACKS

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY BINDING INSTRUCTIONS

BRITISH MONARCHY
Title_
	Volume
	Number
	Part
	Year
	Call No. DA620.B582
	SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS!
	Volume incomplete. Bind with stub
	for Volume incomplete. Bind without stub. Color RED

Form No. 1236

* BA620 B582

Joe, 434 mar ,20,100

After the Title

Trames of the Subscribers.

Rev. M. Edw. Askwell. Will. Ayrey, Gent, M. Rob! Allen , Painter. M.Jn. Ackers, Printer. Mr. Dan! Addison. M! Ja! Will! Arnold. Mr. Jos. Adamson. Mrs Sus. Maria Austin. Mis Catharine Ash.

Jonas Bonnyman, Gent. Ter. Brien, of Dorche. Gent. Mr. John Bland. Mr. John Blaksley. Mr. Tho! Bickham. Mr. Geo. Bickham, Jun! Mr.Jnº. Bickham, Mr.John Bancks, Mr.Chriff.Blackbeck. Mr.Tho: Bakewell. · M.W. Baylis, Pencil-Mak M.Jos. Buckmaster, Mr. Charles Bishop. M. James Beeston. Mr. Sam! Banister. Mr.H.Bradley, of Rolfton Mr. Rich. Burkin. Mr.—Batch. Mr.Henry Bryan, M. Bradley, Merch. Lifton

Mr. Henry Boyley. M:Rob! Bradfhaw. . W. John Bird. --- Connell, $\mathbf{M}.\mathbf{D}.$

Mr. Geo. Bishop.

Mr.—Brant.

Mr. James Bishop. Mr. Tho. Beezly.

Z*ac.Chambers*,Efq^r. W. Cole of Dorcher. Gent. Mr. Martin Clare, M.Edn.Chapman. M! Nathan Crow. Mr. Henry Copland. Mr. - Chartwrite,

M!:Will!" Caslon, Mr. Jos. Champion. Mr. Joseph Clare. Mr. Charles Corbett , M.Ja. Cartwright. Mr.D.-Cartwright. Mr. Tho. Cam M. Will, Cooke. M. Will. Clarke. Mr. Jos. Channing. Mr. Benj "Cole). M. Benj. Collins. Mr.—Conick, of Illingt. Mr. Richd Cooke. M. Cath. Cole. Mr Sarah Chandler.

Mrs Eliz. Collens.

Jn. Deane, of Chard, Gent. Mr. Sam! Dale. Mr. Tho! Denne. M:Ed:Dawgs. Mr. Tho. Davies. Mr. John Dutton. MrJohnDawkes. M. Benj. Dod. Mr. - Defs. Mr. Edw? Duncombe. Mr.Nath.Dove. Mr. Peter Dean. Cap. Doural, of Illington. M! Silas Duncombe. Mr.CharlesD'Oyly.

Mr. John Dent. Mr. Tho! Evans. Mr. Tho. Elliot. Mr.—Emmet.

Mr. Tho. Darby.

Rev^d James Fofter, D.D. Harry Freston, Elgr. Felix Feast, Efq. Mr. John Faber. Mr.Meth,Favell. Mr. John Fenning. Mř.Gwynnett Fréeman

M.Will. Fuller. Mr. Benj. Fenner. M:-Fowler. Mr. Alex. Forman. Mr.—Floate Mr. John Fisher. Mrs Urbanė Fennell .

W.mGardner of Richm. Efg." Mr. Rich & Gofling. Mr. John Gamball. Mr. - Goupy. Mr In. Gent, Large Paper. Mr. Edm. Gilding. Mr. Jos, Gearing.

Mr. Sam. Goodin. Mr. Benj. Gray. Mr. - Gerard.

Mr.Will^mGoodnyn. M!-Griffith. M. Anthony Gray. . Nr. - Glafs.

M.Jn. Griffith, Printer. Mi Susanna Green. M^{rg}Mary Grey.

Arch. Hamiltone, Efq. May Hill , Efq^r. Rich! Hafsel, Esq. John Harrison, of -New-Inn, Gent,

-Heardman, Gent. Large Pap. Mr.Rich^a Holmes. Mr. John Hallifax. Mr. Rich Hill.

Mr. John Hancknritz. Mr. Price Holloway,

Mr. Tho: Hux. M.Tho. Hawes, of Islingth Mr. Fran, Hopkins.

Mr. Ja. Hopkins. Mr. Sam. Holborn. Mr. Jos. Halfhide). Mr. — Hill .

Mr. Rich. Heath. Mr. Jos. Haynes. Mr. John Hart.

Rev. M. Hammond. M. Henry Harris. M. Will'm Hudson. Mr.- Hunt. Mr. Francis Higdon. M. Larkin How, Print. Mr. Will!" Haddock? Tho. Ingram , Efqr. Mr. John Juby . Mr.—Jones . Mr. Edw. Jemmit.
Mr. Tho. Jordan.
Mr. John Jones. Mr. Henry Johnson. M. In. James. Mr. - Jefferys. Henry Kemp, Efqt. M. Will "Kippax. M! John King. M!.— Kay. M!.— Keith. Mr. Aaron Kemp. M. John Kelton. M'. Timon Knolles. Tho Langford , Efq. Henry Longland, Esq. -Loyd, of Lincoln's-Inn Gent. Mr. Geo. Langford. Mr. Henry Lewis, Mr. Henry Lowth. Mr.—Leman. Mr.Edw.d Lens. M. Dan! Lister. Mr. Frant Llwyd). Mr. Sam ! Lenston . John Makeman, Efq. Tho: Methnold, Esq. Walnin Meefe, Efq. Mr. James Mechell. Mr.— More). M'. Ednv. Morffatt. Mr. Edw^a Meßenger. M:-Merridon ,Large Papt M. Hector Mawdsley. M. Joseph Mole:

.M! Will!" Mundee. M.Rob! Mathews. Mr. John March. Mr. John Moory. Mr. Rolf. Marson. Mr. Tho Moore. M. Will. Miller. Mr. - Norton. Mr.Richa Newman. Mr. Jnº. Nelson . Mr. John Norman . Mr. Henry Overton. Mr. James Oram Mr.Rich Oldershaw. M. Austin Oldisworth. Mr.Rob! Oldisworth. Mr. — Oldfield. M. Edw. Owen, Printer. MrGeo. Lfalmanazar. Mr. Geo. Lowell . Mr. John Lelah . M. Will. Dearson. M!Will!!!Palmer. M.Will. Price. M.Jn.Loyner,of Islingtⁿ M. Tho! Layne. M.R. Penny, Printer. Mr.—Latterson. M.W.Parker. Mr.— Pool. Mr.— Phillips. Mrs C.Parkes, Jun. Tho: Ryves, Efq. Mr.Will... Rufsell. M. Arthur Rhodes. M. John Read . M. John Roupell . M. Henry Roberts. $M'. Will!^{ar{m}} Rowlandson.$ Mr. - Richford. Mr. Will ... Rofe. Mr. Tho, Richardson. Right Honble the Garl of Strathmore Large Pap John Short, Efq.

Ja: Sloane, Gent. Mr. — Still. Mr. John Sage). Mr. Nath. Seafon. Mr. Tho. Sexton. M.Edn. Seymour. M.Cha. Jeton, Engraver in Ordinary to his Majesty. Mr. Tho Smith. M. Tho. Smith of Derby. M: John S! Clair. M: Sam! Shoemaker, Merct in Philadelphia. M. Tho. Sidgrove). M! Mathen Skinner. M. Aquila Imyth. Will "Thomas, Efq." Tho. Tregonwell, of Anderston, E/q. M. Will " Taylor, Mr. Francis Torond. M. — Toten. Mr. Will. Templeman. M.—Tibbit Mr. Mich! Tichbourn . Mr. John Underwood . Mr. Step^{n.} Underwood . Mr. John Vanhuffelen. Mr. John Vinter. John Warburton, Efq. Tomerset Herald. In. Willis, of E. Orchard, Gent. Rob, Willis, of Dorche, Gent. Tho. Wright, Gent. M.Andr.Wright. Mr. Tho. Woollerton. Mr. Tho, Willdey. M! Geo. White. Mr. John Wiltshire? Mr. Jn. Wendlebourough. Mr. Elea. Westlock. Mr. John Withers. Mr. Ellis Webfter. Mr. John Williams. Mr. B. Wilton. Mr.H. Yates.>_

THE ONTENTS.

The Engraver to y Reader2
Introduction3
The British Monarchy 6
a Map of y King's Dominions 7 a Map of the British Ifles 9 a Defcription of y British Isles. 10
Would by Frederica14
A Defcription of Ireland15 a Map of Scotland 19
A Defoription of Scotland 20
A Map of England & Wales25 A Defcription of England & Wales.26
ADefoription of the Counties39
Introduction to the Counties40
Cornvall 41
Devonshire 44
Dorsetshire 47
Somersetshire 49
Wiltshire 53
Hampshire57
Berkshire 60
Surrey 63
Sufsex 66
Clause transfice 2 70
Orband shine 2 7/1
Gloucestershire 72 Oxfordshire 74 Buckinghamshire 77
Bedfordshire 70
Bedfordshire
Middlesex 84
Efsex 91
Efsex 91 Suffolk 94

1000	Page
Norfolk	97
Cambridgeshire	101
Huntingdonshire	104
Northamptonshire	100
Leicestershire	109
Rutlandshire2	_112
Lincolnshire	114
Nottinghamshire 2	-117
Derbyshire	119
Warnickshire	121
Worcestershire	124
Staffordshire	126
Shropshire?	129
Cheshire	-131
Herefordshire?	133
Monmouthshire	135
South Wales	137
North Wales	141
Yorkshire	144
Durham	140
Lancashire?	_151
Westmoreland	_154
Cumberland	_156
Northumberland	150
Northumberland 2 A Fable to the Counties.	161
. A. Short Description of	À a
the American Colonies	164
A Short Defoription of the American Colonies The American Island	1184
The Electoral States	186
Ofrican & Indian Settlem	187
African & Indian Settlem Alphabets in all y Hand made ufe of in this Book	4) made ule of in this Book	189
made uje oj vn vido 1300K	7190

The Seader.

This being the Last Berformance that I propose to publish of this Nature, I shall use my utmost Endeavours to execute it in such a Manner; as may render it an acceptable Service to the Curious. I humbly hope therefore You will not only encourage so useful an Undertaking Yourself, but recommend it to such Friends, as you shall think proper. Your Compliance with this Request will be esteem'd an Act of Indulgence shewn to

Hour most obedient, and most Obliged, humble Servant

London Lockober, 1743.

The said the said of the ... Tops to special in the me

INTRODUCTION.

It has been observed, that Mankind in general are not more distinguished by Reason from the Brute Creation, than one Man is distinguished from another in Proportion to his Neglect or Cultivation of that Reason by the Liberal Arts. Among the first and most necessary of These has GEOGRAPHY been always reckoned, without fome Tincture of which, all our Ideas of remote Transactions, Events, Productions, or whatever falls not under the Cognizance of our Senses, must be ever confused and imperfect. And yet, (strange to reflect on!) how few have acquired This, even in that Part of it only which most nearly concerns them, the CHOROGRAPHY of their own Country?

To remedy, in fome Measure, a Defect so obvious, and

INTRODUCTION.

and to promote a Study at once fo advantageous and easy, the present Work is designedly calculated: That by recommending Principles of useful Knowledge with all the Beauties of Lenmanship, and Embellishments of Picture, the most Incurious, and especially Young Persons, may be allured to inform their Judgments, and to furnish their Memories with such Particulars, as must be of Service to them ever after: In a Word, to fit them for the best Conversation, and give them a necessary Superiority in such Company as have neglected the same Improvements.

Of the Foreign Dominions, and even of the more remote Members of the British Islands, our Accounts will be very concise, and yet we hope fufficiently comprehensive. South Britain, the Seat of Wealth, Henty, Arts, Lopularity, and Government, deserves our more particular Nonice. Here, besides our General Description of this noble Spot, we shall lay down, from the best Authorities, the Situation, Boundaries, Circumference, and Area of each County; the Number of Cities, Market-Towns, Corporations, Boroughs, Representatives in Parliament, Villages, Hundreds, Parishes, Rectories, Houses, and Supposed Inhabitants it contains, with

They will be the second of the

INTRODUCTION.

nith the proportionate Share they pay to the Land Tax;
the Diocese it lies in, the Titles it gives, the chief Commodities and Manufactures it affords, the Circuit it belongs to, and the Distance and Bearing, of each Capital from London: Also, an Account of the Air, Soil, Rivers, and Curiofities, &c. with a yet more particular Survey of the Great Metropolis, and the Two Universities.

This, with what we have specified in the Title, may give a pretty full and just Idea of our Design, which we hope will be favourably received by the Public.

THE Conarchus

The Dominions of the prefent King of Great Britain, if we consider them as to Extent of Territory, Fertility of Soil,—Number and Genius of the Inhabitants, Productions and Manufactures, Riches and Commerce; with other Advantages of Nature and Industry; are not, perhaps, second to any upon the whole Face of the known Globe. In feveral of these Particulars they may be excelled by some one Empire, but in others they are equalled by none; and upon the Whole, not surpassed by the most boasted Monarchy.

The first natural Division of these Dominions is into two general Parts, or Classes, the Latter of which bears indeed a very small Proportion with the Former. I, The Rossessions belonging to the Crown of Great Britain, and convey'd together with it to the present Royal Family, by the Act of Settlement; and, II, His Majesty's Hereditary Estates as Elector of Hanover, and the Acquisitions in Germany lately made in that Character.

As

A continuent of a facility

The BRITISH MONARCHY.

As King of Great Britain his Majesty reigns in all the four Parts of the hitherto discover'd Morld: In Europe he has the two chief Islands, with an infinite Number of others dependent on them: In Asia and Africa he has Forts and Settlements, for the Conveniency and Protection of Trade; and in America he has vast Tracts of Continent, well peopled and improved, besides feveral Island Plantations, equally profitable to the Crown and to the Subject. As Elector he has all the Sovereignties of the Lunenburg Branch of the Family of Brunswick, to which his late Majesty added the Dutchies of Bromen and Ferden.

His Crown, from Time immemorial, and by the Courtesy) of Princes, has been called Imperial, and claims rank at least—next to that of France. And the his Electorate, as the last erected, is the ninth in Order, in Strength and Revenue it is not at the most behind more than four of those Sovereignties.

The Predominant Religion in all these Dominions is in general Protestantism, the under various Denominations. — Episcopacy prevails in England, Treland, and some of the Plantations; Presbytery in Scotland, and New England; Quakerism in Pensylvania; and Lutheranism in the Electoral States. Neither of these is however without Mixture, not only of one another, but of Popery, and even Judaism.

In the British Dominions the Government is limited? the King having only a Lart of the Legislative Dower, and enjoying the Executive under certain Restrictions: But over his natural-born Subjects his Authority is absolute, like that of most other Gorman Princes.

Concerning

A MAP of the King of GREAT BRITAIN'S Dominions in Europe, Africa, and America.

BRITISH MONARCHY.

Concerning the foregoing Map.

Tho'the Scale we are obliged to make use of on this Occasion be exceedingly Contracted, we thought it proper to exhibit in one View all that was possible of these Dominions, leaving out only the Settlements in Asia, which would have reduced our Scale yet considerably more. In this Map, by the Parallels of Longitude and Latitude, which we have laid down upon a Globular Projection, the First Meridian passing by y Canary Isles, y Readers will see the Bearings and Distances of these Countries from each other, and from all that lie between or confine upon them, and form some proportionate Idea of their respective Dimentions.

BRITISH ISLES.

The British Isles lie extended in the vast Atlantic or Western Ocean, between the 50th and 60. Degrees of North Latitude, and from about the 7th to the 19th Degree Eastward from the First. Meridian. On the East they are divided from Norway, Denmark, Germany, & the Netherlands, by the German or North Sea: The English Channel divides them on the South from France; and on the South West, West and North, the Ocean furrounds them without Distinction of Name.

Great Britain, the largest not of thefe Islands only, but of all the Islands in Europe, gives denomination to all the Rest. It contained antiently the two Kingdoms of England and Scotland, and the Principality of Wales. But thefe are all now united, and have both their Sovereign and Senate in common, tho not without fome Difference of Customs, & Language, that no way affect the general Constitution.

Ireland,

the second respective of the second s

The BRITISH ISLES.

Treland, which has also the Title of a Kingdom, is the second of thefe Islands in Magnitude. It lies West from Britain, from which it is Jeparated by S. George's Channel and the Trish Sea. In this latter lies the Small Island of Man, that likewise gives the Regal Title to a Subject of Great Britain, and _ Anglesey, which is reckoned among the Counties of Walles ._ The Hebrides, or Western Islands, lie North of Ireland, and West of Scotland; in Number upwards of 40._ The Orcades, or Orkney Islands (to which some add)_ Schetland) are above 30, & are the most Northerly of all & British_ Dominions. The Sorlings, or Scilly Islands, are many_ in Number; but none of them confiderable; they lie to the West of the Lands End of England. To the South of Hampshire lies_ the Isle of Wight, esteemed a part of that County. Furtheryet to the Southward, and on the Coast of Normandy, wehave Jersey, Guernsey, and Alderney, which are indeed_ rather the Residues of the Antient Dutchy of Normandy,_ than Members of the British Isles. And to these we may. add Minorca, in the Mediterranean Sea, as it makes at prefent a part of the British Monarchy Lroper, and is provided for as fuch in the Annual Supplies.

The Superficial Contents of all these Countries, according to the best Authorities, is 105,634 Square Miles; of which England; including Wales, contains 49,450; Scotland, with the Islestaround it, 27,794; Ireland, 27,457; and the other Isles 933 Miles. If we compare this Extent of Territory with that of other Nations, we shall find it exceed that of the United Provinces above ten times; Lortugal, near four times; Italy, near one third; Switzerland,

The second of th

with man or water first

The more recognition of the contraction of the cont

The state of the s

The BRITISH ISLES.

Initzerland, with its Allies, almost nine times: That, Spain exceeds it about one third; France, including the Aquisitions, near as much; Germany, above two fifths; and that,
Poland, with Lithuania, is above one half bigger.

As to the Number of Inhabitance, the most modern and probable Computations make them amount to ten Millions and a half; whereof eight Millions are allotted to South Britain, the Metropolis alone containing near one; one Million and and half to North Britain, and her Isles; and one Million to Ireland.

By comparing the British Monarchy in this Article with other Nations, we shall perhaps better conceived her proportionate Strength than by only measuring her Surface of Territory. And in this Respect if France exceeds her about one third; Spain falls below her a full half, and is not much more than one fifth part as populous.

Her Quantity of Shipping (another Great Proof of her Importance) was towards the End of the last Century, according to Sir William Petty, two to one against Spain and Portugal united, and against France no lefs than five to one. If this proportion hath since received fome little?— Variation to the advantage of France, in the Mercantile? Branch, we are more than ever fuperior not to France only, but even to Holland, the other Maritime Power, in Shipsof War, the Bulwark and Strength of the British Empire.— The Name of Great Britain, formerly known, but long in Disuse, was complaisantly revived upon the Acception of King.

James the First, and established at the Union under Queen Anne.

That_

Sale garage The first the state of the stat

The BRITISH ISLES.

That Princefs was the last, as Ring James was the first of the House of Stuart that reigned over the whole Island.

Their Family had, indeed, for many Generations, been Sovereigns of Scotland; during which time the Plantagenets and Tudovs reigned in England; two Races of Monarchs that began, the one in Henry the second, and the other in Henry the feventh, and ended, the former in Richard the third, and the latter in Queen Elizabeth.

Ireland was an Acquisition of Henry the fecond, who was called over thither upon a Difference among her Princes.

It was however in no great Subjection till the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, and not totally Subdued but by Oliver Cromwell.

The Government in both Kingdoms consists of the three Estates, King, Lords, and Commons. In Ireland the Royal Person is represented by a Viceroy, called the Lord Lieutenant.—

He is usually appointed for three Years: But the fame Nobleman has often, latterly, been continued for three Years longer.

We shall begin with the Description of this fubordinate Kingdom, as the most natural Method of purfuing our Defign _

The property of the state of th

mount of its interis constitute the level of the first of

The same of the second of the same that I have the

Alle Marking

I the robbin south

A relanos

Divided into the Provinces and Counties.

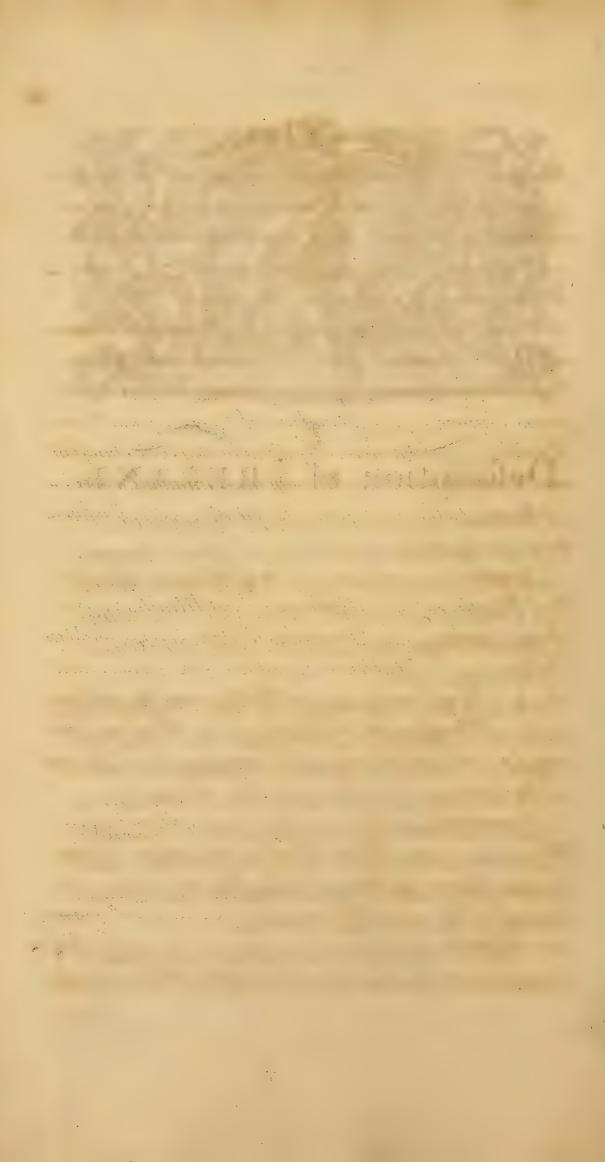

Description of IRELAND.

Ireland is bounded on the East by St. George's Channel and the Irish Sea, which divide it from Great Britain; North of it, at a confiderable Distance, lie the Western Islands of Scotland; and to the West and South it is furrounded by the Atlantic Ocean, which extends between the two vast Continents of the terraqueous Globe.

In length, from Fair-Head in the North to Mifsen-head in the South, Ireland is near 280 Miles; in breadth from Heath-head near Dublin to Dogs-head in Galway, about 170 Miles. It lies between 5 Degrees 35 Minutes and 10 Degrees 20 Minutes West-longitude from London, and between 51 Degrees 15 Minutes and 55 Degrees 18 Minutes North latitude. The chief City, Dublin, is reckoned about 270 Miles north west from London: Its latitude 53 Degrees 20 Minutes, Longitude 6 Degrees 25 Minutes.

We have in this Kingdom four large Drovinces, each of them fubdivided into its respective Counties, and containing pretty near an equal Part

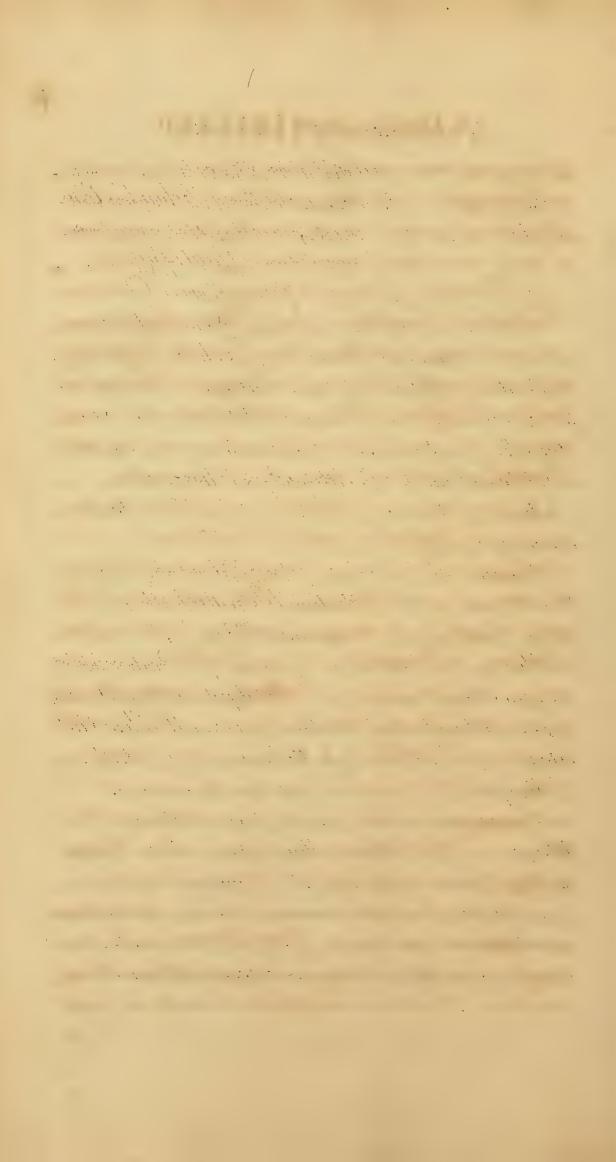

A Description of IRELAND.

In the Province of Ulster are the Counties of Dunagal, or Tryronnel, chief Town Dunagal; Londonderry, or Colerain, chief Town — Londonderry; Antrim, chief Town Antrim, fome fay Carrick—fergus; Tyrone, chief Town Dungannon; Down, chief Town Down; Datrick or perhaps Dromore; Fermanagh, chief Town Innifkilling; Monaghan, chief Town Monaghan; Ardmagh, chief Town Ardmagh; and Cavan, chief Town also of the fame Name; London—derry is the Capital of the whole Drovince.

Leinster contains the Counties of Longford, chief Town Longford; West-Meath, chief Town Mullingar; East-Meath, chief Town Trim; Louth, chief Town Drogheda; Kildare, chief Town Kildare; Dublin, chief Town Dublin, the Capital both of the Province and of y Kingdom; King's Country, chief Town Philipstown; Queen's Country, chief Town Micklow; Catherlagh; Chief Town Micklow; Catherlagh, chief Town Catherlagh; Kilkenny, chief Town Kilkenny; and Wexford, chief Town likewise of the same Denomination.

Connaught is thus fubdivided: The Country of Mayo, chief Town Mayo, or more justly Killala; Slego, chief Town Slego; Letrim, chief Town Letrim; Galway, chief Town Galway; which is also the Capital of the Province, and Roscomon, chief Town accounted Roscomon, tho' Athlone be a place of much more Importance. Some reckon Clare Country to be in this Province, as they ascribe Louth to Ulster: But we - follow the most modern and exact Division. It may be here remarked, that Connaught is the most thinly peopled Part of Ireland, as Lein-ster is the most populous; because the former lies farthest remote from as the latter lies nearest to, the Sovereign Island of Great Britain.

Follow

A Description of IRELAND.

Munster is divided into the following Counties: Clare, orz. Thomond, chief Town Enis, near which is Clare-abbey that gives Name to the Country; Limerick, chief Town Limerick; Tipperary, chief Town Clonmel; Kerry, chief Town Dingle; Corke, chief Town Corke; and Waterford, chief Town also Waterford, which is usually called the Capital of the whole Province: But perhaps, at this Day, both Limerick and Corke might dispute with it this pre-eminence.

Each of the Counties of Ireland is again Jubdivided into Baronies, as those of England are into Hundreds, and Wapentakes: And as to the Ecclesiastical Division, there is in every Province an Archbishop, with a certain Number of Suffragans. In Ulster, the Archbishop of Andmagh has under him five Bishops, and is called the Lord Primate of all Ireland: In Levinster, the Archbishop of Dublin has three inserior Bishops, and the Title of Primate of Ireland: In Connaught we have the Archbishop of Tuam, who has five Suffragans; and in Munster the Archbishop of Cashell, who has the same Number. Neither of these Places, except Dublin, which has a University, and is a large, populous, a trading City, is now considerable for any thing but its Archiepiscopal Title. I here are in Ireland many Protestant Difsenters, and more Papists, tho the Hierarchy of the Church of England be the National Establishment.

The Air of this Kingdom, on account of the many Lakes and Bogs, is more grofs and impure than that of Great Britain under the same Parallel; which exposes the Inhabitants, in many parts, to frequent Fluxes and Rheums. The Soil is exceedingly fertile, but generally more proper for Lasture than Tillage. For this reason the Irish feed a prodigious Number of Sheep, whose Wooll is said to be even preserable to that of England. They also raise and manufacture large Quantities of Hemp and Flax, and of late Years equal the Dutch in the goodness of their Linen, which they export in great Abundance. Their other principal Commodities are Butter; Cheese, Tallon, Hides, Honey, Wax, pickled Salmon, pipe Staves, &c. To which we may too justly add unwrought Wooll, tho'it be strickly Prohibited, for the use of the French Manufactories at Abbeville and elsewhere.

For

The way is a first the control of the state of the control of the 100 100 100 No. 100 No. 100 By the state of the state of

A Description of IRELAND.

The principal Rivers of Ireland are four, the Shannon, which runs fouth and fouth west into the Ocean; the Blackwater, whose course is east and fouth east; the Barrow and the Sure, which unite their Waters. The three last fall into S. George's Channel, towards the bottom: And to these we may add the Boyne, made famous by the Victory obtained on its banks by King William. The principal Lakes are Lough Neagh, samous for its petrifying Quality, and Lough Dirg, in the Days of Superstition, called S. Datrick's Qurgatory. Other Curiosities are, the Giants Causey, projecting far into the Sea on the North of the Island, and not determined whether a Work of Nature or of Art; several span, and mineral Waters; and surprising Fossils, bying deep under ground, and resembling Trees, the Florns of Beasts, and other supersicial Productions.

The Reers of Ircland are at present 131; 22 Spiritual, and 109 Temporal. The House of Commons elected like ours by the Counties, Cities, and Boroughs, consists of 298 Members. The Courts of Justice at DUVIN have the fame Names, Forms, and Officers as at Westminster: And in general, the Government is an exact Copy of ours, except that the Lords have been deprived of their power of hearing Appeals.

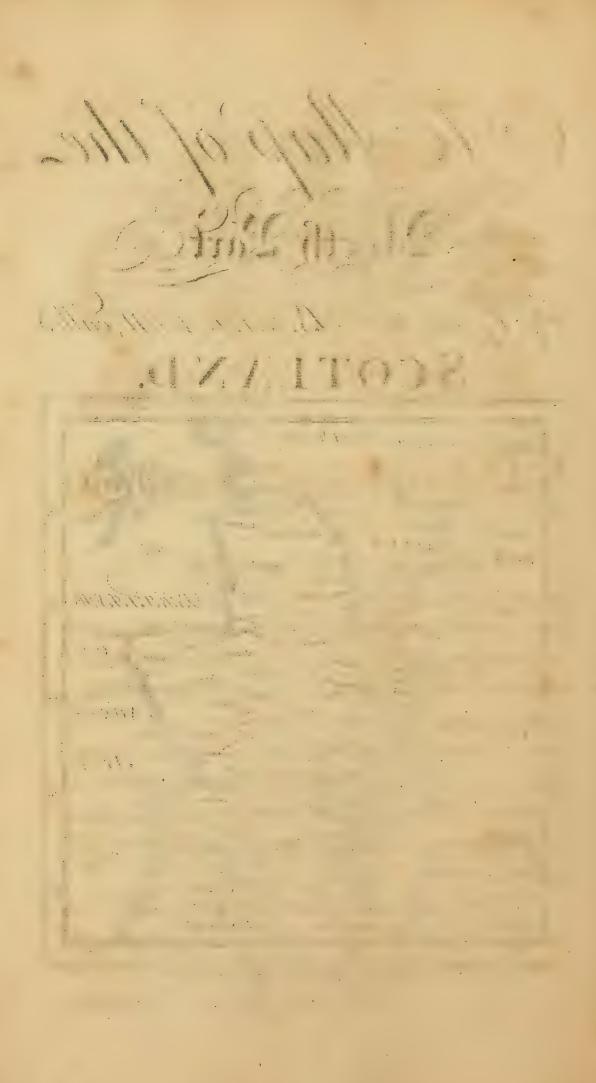

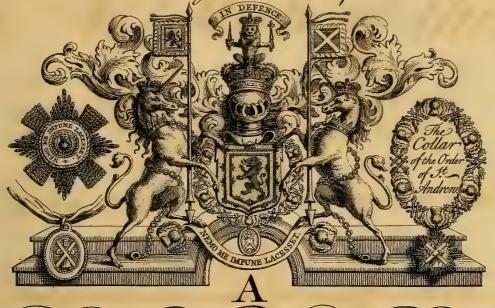

SCOTLAND.

GBickham Fecit

The Antient Royal Arms of Scotland

Selection of Scotlands

Tootland since the Union called North Britain, is bounded on the East by the German, by fome called the British, and by others the North Sea, which divides it from Denmark and Norway; on the North it has the Northern or Deucalidonian Ocean, in which lie the Islands of Orkney, Faro, & Schetland: On the West the Atlantic Ocean, interspersed nearly with the Western Islands, feparates it from that part of North America called by us New Britain, and by the French, Terre de Laboureur; and on the South the Irish Sea, the Tirth of Solway, the Rivers Efke and Tweed, and the Chiviot Hills are its feveral Boundaries.

The Length of this part of Great Britain, from Faro-head in the North to the Mull of Galloway in the South, is 320 English Miles; and the Breadth, from Bucan Nefs in the East to Ard-namurchan and the state of t

J. 80

LA Description of Scotland.

MUTCHAN Zoint in the West, about 190' of the fame Miles. If we take in the Isles, as fome Geographers have done, it has a much larger Extent. For by this latter Computation, it extends from 1 Degree 25 Minutes to near 9 Degrees West Longitude from London; and from 54 Degrees 35 Minutes to above 60 Degrees North Latitude; whereas the Main Land is included between 54 Degrees 35 Minutes and 59 Degrees 20 Minutes of Latitude, and between 1 Degree 25 Minutes and 6 Degrees 15 Minutes of Longitude. Edinburgh, the chief City, is 305 English Miles North by West from London; and in Latitude, according to the exactest Observations, 55 Degrees 58 Minutes.

Scotland is generally divided into North and South by the River Tay, or into the Highlands and Lowlands from the Face of the Country, and the Manners of the Reople. The great Number of Isles, and the uncertainty of the Divisions, would make it tedious to give the fuperficial Contents of each Part; and the Contents of the whole has been already mentioned. The Counties, or, as they are here commonly called, Shires, with their Capitals, may be thus enumerated.

Caithnefs, the most North-easterly, & Strath Navern, the most North-westerly Shires, have for their chief Towns Wick and Tung. In Sutherland we have Dornock, and in Cromarty a Capital of the same Name. Ross has Tain; Inverness, Inverness, Inverness, Lochaber, Innerlochy; Badenoch, Ruthvan. The three latter, with the Island of Skyl, are sometimes included under the general Name of Inverness. Perth is thus subdivided into Perth, Menteith, Stormount, Strathern, Athol and Broadalbin,

A Description of Scotland.

Broadalbin; chief Towns Perth, Dumblain, Dunkel, Drumond, and Blair. The Shire of Merns has Dunnoter-Castle; Aberdeen, Bamf, and Nairn, Capitals of the same Denomination, and Murray affords us Elgin.

More Southerly the Divisions are not always better disinguished. In Argile Shire, besides the part properly so called, we have the Country of Lorn, the Isles of Mull, Ila, Arran, Jura, Bute, and the Peninsula of Cantire; Towns, Inverary, Dunstafage, Dovard, Dunnigvag, Brodich, &c. In the Shire of Air we have Cunningham, Kyle, & Carrick; chief Towns Air, and Irwin. In Barwick shire, we have Mers and Lauderdale; Towns, Duns and Lauder; Berwick being a distinct Country, and belonging to England. Rochurg has Tiviotdale, Selkirk, Eusdale, & Lidisdale; chief Towns Jedburg, Selkirk, and Hermitage; Dumfries, has Nithisdale and Amandale; chief Towns, Dumfries and Arran; and Galloway has Wigtown, and Kircudlright, chief Towns of the same Denomination.

Distinct Shires are Invertable, chief Town Peebles; Lothian, East, Mid, and West, chief Towns Edinburg, the Capital of if Kingdom, and Haddington; Clydesdale, chief Town Glafcon; Renfrew; Lenox, chief Town Dumbarton; Sterling, chief Town Sterling; Clackmannan, chief Town Clackmannan; Fife and Kinrofs, chief Town Cowpar; Angus, chief Town Forfar. Other Denominations, for many of thefe Divisions, are Sherifdoms, Stewarties, Bailiaries, and the Constabulary of Haddington, comprehending East Lothian. Principal Islands, not already enumerated, are Inc.

Romona).

the Miller Smill have a shirt hour bearing and the state of t Secretary that the second of And the first the first field of the first the first first Sometiment filled the contract of the second Letter Miller Sampling Come to Branch of the South friend his his his fill of the south of Some fill the state of Same of the continue of the second of the se of the form of the property of the first of the first of and the state of the state of the state of the state of The second second NA CONTRACTOR OF THE STATE

L'A Description of Scotland.

Lomona or Mainland in the Orkneys, chief Town Kirkwall; the Mainland of Schetland, chief Town Lerwick; Lewis in if West, chief Town Stornvay; and the Islands of North and South Vist.

The rest are not enough confiderable to be mentioned in this Epitome.

Scotland, while it was under Episcopal Government, had two Archbishops, of I. Andrews and Glascow, and twelver inferior Bishops: But at this Day Presbitery is the established Religion, the Aministration of which is in the Hands of a Synod, called the general Asembly, to whom the King nominates a Lord High Commissioner: The Universities are reckoned four; I, Andrews, Aberdeen, Edinburgh, and Glascow. The Episcoparians, residing in this part of the United Kingdom, are in much the fame State as the Protestant Difsenters in England.

The Air of Scotland is generally very pure, and exceeding wholesome; which is known by the great Age of many of the Inhabitants. The Soil, tho in most places far from fertile when compared with England, does yet produce fufficient for the Necessities of Life. The Seas and Rivers are almost alive, so prodigiously are they stocked with Fish. Salmon, in particular, is here excellent Good, and in furprizing Quantities. In the Mountains are some Mines, and plenty of the best Coals. The Cattle here are small, but in great Numbers. Other Commodities are Linen Cloth, Fallow, Hides, Honey, Lead, Iron, Irain Oil, coarse Woodlens, &c. Their Linen Manufactory, especially, is at present in great perfection, and seems to vie with the Irish before-mentioned: The principal Rivers of Scotland, besides the Eske and the Tweed, which divide it from England, and run, the former Westward and the latter Eastward, are the Tay & the Spery, which both, after an Eastern Course, fall into the German Sea, and the Clyd, which empties it self in the West, over against the Isle of Bute. The Firths, or Gulphs, are those of Solway, Forth, Tay, Murry, and Dornock; all, except the first, on the Eastern Coast. The Great Indentions made by these, and the Irregularity of this part of our Island's Figure, occasions, that no Spot in all Scotland is above 60 English Miles from the Sea.—

All March

The state of the s

A Description of Scotland.

The Lochs, or Lakes, are here many, as in Ireland; some of them traditionally samous, among the Vulgar, for strange Qualities.—
Those of Lomond and Ness are the principal. Geographers—also mention the Deafstone, and several Remains of Roman Antiquities, as other Curiosities of North Britain.

Scotland was formerly a limited Monarchy, tempered, like that of England, with the Aristo-democracy of a Parliament. — After her Kings came to reign in England, a Lord high Commissioner, with the Rower of a Vice-roy, used to represent the Royal Rerson during the Sessions. But since the perfect Union of the two Kingdoms, made in 1707, Scotland sends 45 Commoners and 16 Reers, to represent her two Estates in the Darliament of Westminster. The whole Body of her Reers, who elect these 16, are 151 in Number: But several more of them have likewise Seats in the House of Lords, by their being English Barons. In Civil Affairs, the Administration of Justice in Scotland is lodged with the Lords of Session, in Number 15, one of whom is President. Here is besides a Court of Exchequer, as in England.

Map of the South,

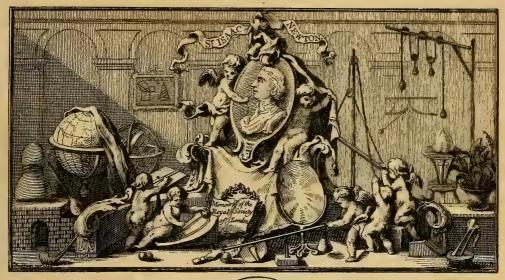

Part of Great Britain,

Called England and Wales.

GBickham Fecit

elcription ENGLAND.

England, or South Britain, is bounded on the East bythe German or British Sea, which divides it from the Netherlands and Germany: On the South East the Streights of Dover, and on the South the English Channel feparates it from France: S. George's Channel and the Trish Sea wash it on the West, and flow between it and Treland; and on the North, where it is narrowest, the Rivers Tweed & Solway, and the Hills that lie between their Heads, make the Boundary between it & Scotland.
The most Southerly Latitude of England, at the Lizard
Toint in Cornwall, is about 49 Degrees 50 Minutes; and the moft Northerly, at the Mouth of the River Tweed 55 Degrees 40 Minutes:
The Difference between which is 6 Degrees within 10 Minutes. This makes the whole Length 407 Miles, at the Rate of 69 & English Miles

7,000/100

ego e en som eg i subper e e en en en

A Description of ENGLAND.

to a Degree. Its Breadth from the Land's End in Cornwall, 6 Degrees 10 Minutes West, to the South Foreland in Kent, one Degree 20 Minutes East from London, is feven Degrees and a half; which, by the Standard of 38 Miles to a Degree (the true Quantity in this Latitude) makes about 285 Miles. London, the Capital, not of England only, but of all the British Dominions (and for Number of Reople and Opulence of all Europe) lies in 51 Degrees 31 Minutes of North Latitude. As we make it the primary Point of Longitude, we can only speak of it comparatively in that Particular; and in this Manner we find it 17 Degrees 26 Minutes East of the Meridian commonly drawn thro' the west point of the Island of Fero; and 2 Degrees 25 Minutes west of the Meridian of Paris, which is usually calculated from by the French Geographers.

The Divisions of England have been many. The Romans distinguished it by Britannia Prima, Britannia Secunda; and Maxima Cæsarienfis. The Limits of these are not quite certain, and the Inhabitants of each passed under various Denominations. The Saxons, after driving the Antient Natives into the Mountains of Wales and Cornnall, for want of other Enemies, began to divide among themselves, and by Degrees, between the Years 455 and 582 erected feven distinct Kingdoms, by the Names of Kent; South Saxons, or Sufsex; East Saxons, or Essex; West Saxons, or Wessex; East Angles, Northumberland, and Mercia. These included, according to the present Division; the first, the County of Kent only; the second, Sufsex and Surry; the third, Essex Middlesex, and part of Hartfordshire; the fourth, Cornwall, Devon, Dorset, Somerset, Wilts, Hants, and Berks; the fifth, Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridge, and the Isle of Ely; the sixth, Lancaster, York, Durham, Cumberland, Westmorland, and Northumberland; the feventh, and largest, Gloucester, Hereford, Worcester, Warnick, Leicester, Rutland, Northampton, Lincoln, Huntingdon, Bedford, Buckingham, Oxford, Stafford, Derby, Salop, Nottingham, and Chester.

A Description of ENGLAND.

But these County Names, the we mention them to shew the Extent of each Kingdom in the Heptarchy, were not introduced till above four hundred Years after the Erection of the Kingdom of Kent, and near a Century after Egbert, King of Wessex, united all the Kingdoms into one Monarchy; calling it England; which Name it retain'd without alteration till the Union, when, by way of Distinction from Scotland, it was called South Britain.

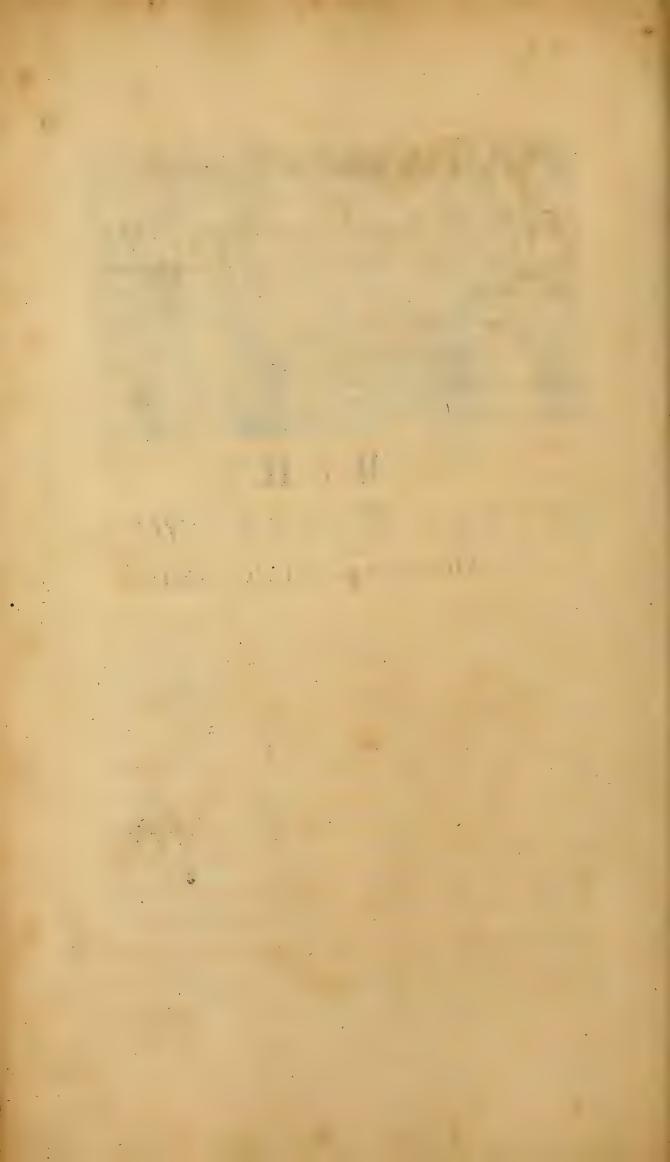

While the Heftarthy continued, tho' the Kingdoms were all distinct, and perpetually at War with each other, fomething of the Air of a Monarchy prevailed over the whole, the Prince that was most Lowerful generally treating the Rest as so many Dependents and Tributaries: And as the Conqueror always kept the Dominions he acquired from the Vanquished, it was by this means that they all, at last, fell into the Hands of Egbert, about the Year 825. This being one of the most remarkable Revolutions our Ifland has undergone, we shall take leave here, by way of Ornament, to introduce the Licture of the Lince who effected it.

EGBERT,

KING of the WEST SAXONS, First Monarch of all England.

This Prince was one of the bravest of the Saxon Sovereigns, who were most of them remarkable for their Valour. He had befides the advantage of having been instructed under Charlemagne, King of France, Founder of the German Empure, & the greatest Prince of his Age. Under him he acquired that Art of Politicks, which taught him to take advantage of the Divisions & civil Difsensions of the neighbouring Sovereigns. His Kingdom had been all along one of the most powerful of the Heptarchy; & it fo fell out in his Reign, that the Kings of Mercia and Northumberland, the two others of most extensive Command, and of greatest Authority, not being on good Terms with their great Men, could not make against him that Stand, which might have been expected from their manifest Natural Power. Add to Pelcription of England.

this, that the Male Issue in several of the Kingdoms had failed, and the Chieftains were divided among themselves with regard to the Succession.

Upon the whole, Egbert appears to have been a Prince of great Ambition and equal Policy. The latter induced him after his Conquests, to allow a fort of nominal Royalty in some of the extinguish'd Kingdoms, that he might not be hindered by intestine Disputes, from making head against the Danes, who in his Time began their Incursions upon France and England. These Danes, who by the French were called Normans, feem to have been a Mixture of the Northern Nations, and not the People only who inhabited the Country now called Denmark.

We hope to be excused for thus far deviating into History, upon that Period of Time which gave Name to the Country we are now describing. To proceed then with the Description.

The Church of England, including Walls, is unequally divided into two Archbishopricks, otherwise called Provinces. The Archbishop of Canterbury, who is Primate of ALL England, and the first Leer of the Hingdom next to the Princes of the Blood Royal, has under him in England seventeen Bishops, and in Walls four. Both he and the Archbishop of York have the Title of Grace, which is not else given to any but Dukes. His Grace of York is called Primate of England, but not of ALL England. He takes place next to the Lord high Chancellor, and has under him three Bishops who are Leers, and one, the Bishop

Validition = - 10, 100

March 2

12. The obligation of my maps about and in and the second of the second o

Company of the distriction of the Section of is theotopy of the some bearing in mit with the

The state of the line of the state of the contract of the cont

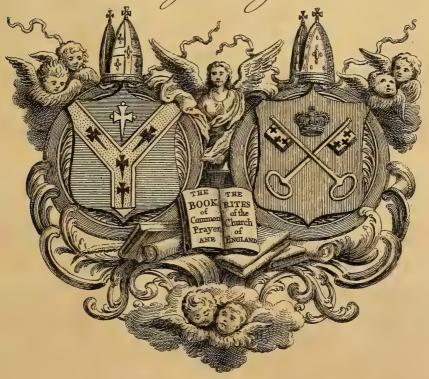

and the second of the second o

Description of England.

Bishop of Sodor and Man, who is not so; he being fubject to a Subject of England, the Lord of Man, an Honour now held by the Duke of Athol. The Bishop of London is next in rank to the Archbishops, and then follow those of Durham and Winchester: All the rest take place according to the Date of their Consecration.

It cannot be amifs to fubjoin here a Table of the Contents of each Diocese, which will more fully explain the Ecclesiastical Division of England, and is exhibited in the following Pages.

The Arms of the Archbishopricks of Canterbury and York.

The Province of Canterbury

CANTERBURY,

(for its peculiar Diocese)

Contains _

Part of Kent ...

ROCHESTER, the Rest of Kent.

LONDON, Efsex,Middlefex,&

Part of Hertfordshire.
CHICHESTER,
Sufsex.

WINCHESTER, Hampshire, Surry, the Isles of Wight, Guernsey, and Jersey.

SALISBURY, Wiltshire, & Berkshire.

EXETER,
Devonshire, & Cornwall

BATH and WELLS, Somerfethire.

GLOUCESTER, Gloucestershire.

WORCESTER,

Worcestershire, and Lart of Warwickshire.

HEREFORD,

Herefordshire, & Part of Shropshire.

LITCHFIELD COVENTRY.

Staffordshire, Derbyshire, and the Rest of Warwick & Salop.

LINCOLN, Lincolnshire, Leicester shire, Huntingdonshire, Bedfordshire, Buckinghamshire, & the remainder of Hertfordshire.

ELY, Cambridgeshire, and

NORWICH,

Norfolk and Suffolk.

OXFORD,
Oxfordshire.

PETERBOROUGH,

Northamptonshire, and Rutlandshire.

These four following ...

ST DAVIDS, Pembroke, Cardigan, & Carmarthenshires.

LANDAFF,
Glamorgan, Monmouth,
(an English County)
Brecknock, and Radnorthires.

St. ASAPH, —
Most of Flint, some of Shropshire, and Montgomeryshire, and all—Doublish Original

Denbighshire.

BANGOR, Anglefey, Caernarvon, and Part of Montgomery.

The Province of York.

YORK (for its peculiar Diocese)

Contains

Most of Yorkshire, and all

Nottinghamshire.

DURHAM, Durham, Northumberland, and two Rarishes in Cumberland.

CARLILE, two thirds of both Cumberland and Westmorland.

CHESTER, Cheshire, Lancashire, Part of Yorkshire, Part of Cumberland and Westmoreland.

SODOR and MAN, the Isle of Man only.

MARINE MARINES

a dimensi i paggara

the chimbers

r goden wij in it in the

The rest of the field of

March 19 3

.

.

Description of England.

The Juridical Division of England is into six Circuits, called the Western, Oxford, Midland, Northern, Norfolk, and Home Circuit. These the twelve Judges divide among themselves twice every Year, two going each, when they hear and determine Causes both Criminal and Nisi Brius. Walles hath her separate Judges, who have four Circuits in the North and South Brovince, each containing three Counties. Middle fex and Cheshire are not reduced to the Circuits; the first, because by its Vincinity to London it has Sessions in Common with that Capital; and the second, because being a County Palatine, it has its own respective Judges.

As the Advantage of the surrounding Sea is a fecurity against Enemies, so is it against the violent Colds to which England would be otherwise exposed: For the Tides and constant Motion of the Sea fend in such a kindly Vapour, as qualifies the sharpness of the Air to such a Degree, that in some Parts of France and Italy the Winters are severer than with us. The Svil, in a great Measure, owes its Fertility to the same Cause, the Vapours nourishing every Vegetable, and surrishing gentle Showers in their proper Seasons. Cornwall, Wales, and some other Parts of South Britain which lie towards the West, are Mountainous, like the Western Parts of Scotland; but the Inner Parts are, generally, a plain Champain Country. There is one remarkable Ridge of Mountains, which runs thro'the whole Island almost from North to South, sommer singer

Sugland Constitution of which fome Writers therefore call the English Apennine.

M. Gordon fays, that the Excellency of Englands is best gathered from the Elogies bestowed upon her, both by Ancient and Modern Writers; that She is the Granary of the Western World, the Seat of Ceres; that her Vallies are like Eden, her Hills like Lebanon, her Springs as Risgah, and her Rivers like Jordan; that She is a Paradise of Rleasure, and the Garden of God. Our Ancestors were indeed so sensible of their own Happiness, that they looked upon Great Britain to be the True Fortunate Islands of the Poets.

Without Exaggeration, England has within its felf—Meat, Drink, Clothing, and Utenfils fufficient not only—for its Inhabitants, but a great deal also for Exportation. Herochief Commodities of the latter fort are Corn, Cattle, Tin, Copper, Lead, Iron, Timber, Coals, Wooll clandestinely, Cloths of & greatest variety, Stuffs, wrought Silks, Linen, Hides, Tallon, Butter, Cheefe, Beer, dried Herrings, &c. Cutlery Ware, Clocks & Watches, and all curious Mechanical Works, in which there is at present no Country in the World can pretend to be her Rival.

The three principal Rivers of England, famous for their— Plenty of Fish, but more famous for the extensive Commerce carried carried on in their Channels, are the Thames, which falls into the narrow Sea over against Flanders; the Severn, which empties it felf Westward into the Bristol Channel; and the Trent, which, after a long Courfe thro' the Middle of the Kingdom, is loft in the Humber Frith, the Receptacle likewife of many other Waters. Rivers of lefs note we shall mention in treating of the respective Counties.

The filler of the first of the paths in the file of the state of the s

San Marine Service Control of the Co

The most remarkable Curiosity in England is Itone Henge on Salisbury Plain, lately proved by D'Stukely to have been a Temple of the Druids, and perhaps the oldest Piece of Antiquity in this part of y World: But of this, and the other Remarkables either for Art or Nature, I shall speak more as I pass thro' each County.

England has two Universities, Oxford & Cambridge, which perhaps for Magnificent Buildings, rich Endowments, ample Priveleges, as well as for Number of Students, Libraries, and learned Men, are hardly equal d in Christendom. Youth are here educated in the Doctrine of the Church of England, which

The state of the state of the state of the said of the o Proprio place, a livery lowery the silvelite of the soof maring all strongs o river of marker of markers in soil of the respective comments

A sure the maje remarkable Conseques in Congland in a liver of the series of the serie history is a series come to entering grant of the con-

Solut speak in no conflicted they good Country which for ingo for Maynifice of their information of a first seen comments of a solution of a land of the comments of a solution in the contract of a land of the contract of a land of the contract of a land of the contract of the contract

" in The Church of Suglared

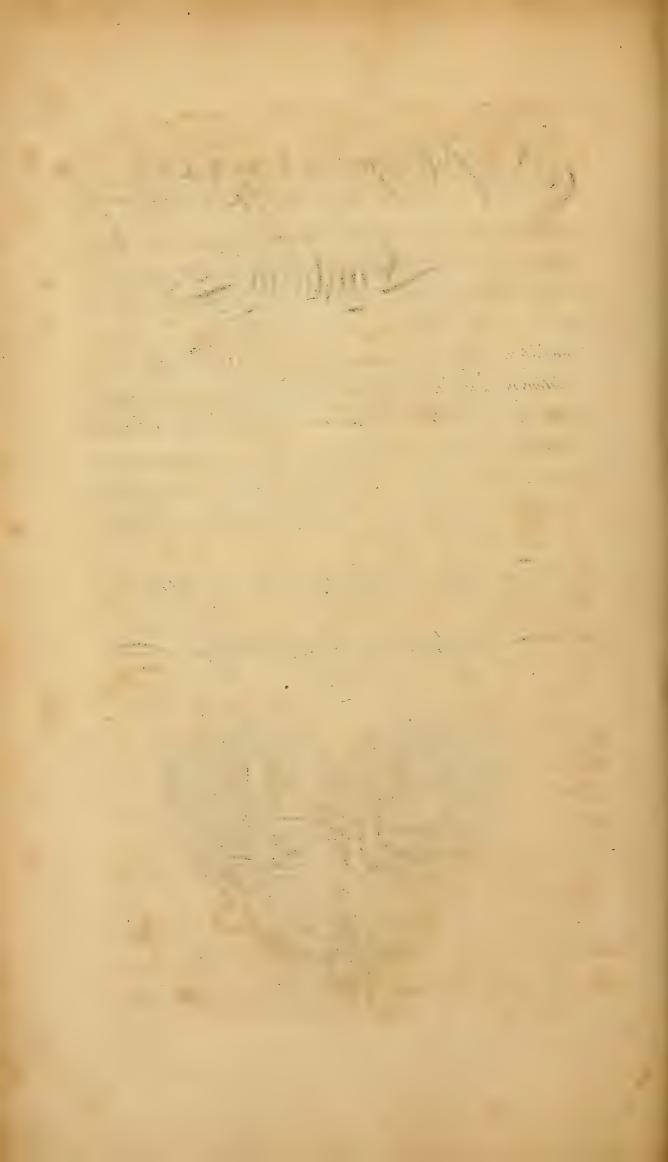

escription of malano

which is professed by the greatest Part of the English Nation:

However there are among them, especially in the West, great Numbers of Protestant Difsenters; and the Roman Catholicks, within a few Years past, are thought to be increased to no inconsiderable Party. The English Language, as now refined; is as copious, expressive, & manly a Language as any in Europe.

The Arms of the two Universities of Oxford and Cambridge

A Description of ENGLAND.

The Temporal Leers of England, exclusive of the 16-Representatives of the Scotish Leerage, are 180; with them and the Bishops, 222. The Commons of South Britain are 513; to whom if we add 45 for the North Lart of the Island, the whole Number is 558. These two Houses, with the King, are the Supreme Legislature. The Great Officers of State, that precede Dukes, are Nine. 1. The Lord High Iteward, at present appointed only pro tempore, at a Coronation, the Trial of a Leer, &c. 2. The Lords High Chancellor, who keeps if Great Seal, and is ufually made the occasional Lord High Steward: The Lord Reeper's -Office is much the fame as the Chancellor's. 3. The Lord High Treasurer. No Man has enjoy'd this Place fince the famous Earl of Oxford, the Business of it being now executed_ by Commissioners; the first of whom, however, has nearly as much Power as if he were alone. 4. The Lord President of the Council, who proposes all Business to that Board? and reports to the King what is done in his Absence. 5. The Lord Privy Teal, who figns Grants, Charters, and Rardons, before they pass the Great Seal, and hath some Business where his Signature alone is fufficient. 6. The Lord Great Chamberlain, an Office hereditary in the Noble Family of the Lindseys, Dukes of Ancaster. 7. The Lord High Constable, created only occasionally. 8. The Earl Marshal, hereditary in the Noble Family of the Howards, Dukes of Norfolk, y the story James a little graph of a A Say to a There were the second is in inter a rolling with last. soing this they ping American Company V. N. . . .

Description of England.

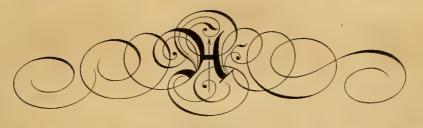

who, because they cannot officiate, being of the Romish Religion, chuse to act for them a Relation of some Protestant Branch.

9. The Lord High. Admiral, whose Office, like that of the Treasurer, has been in Commission ever fince the Reign of Queen Anne: The whole Naval Force of the Realm is a immediately under-his Direction.

As the Lords are the Supreme Court of Judicature, the chief Courts under them are, the Chancery, the King's Bench, the Common Pleas, and the Exchequer. The Lord High Chancellor, the first Temporal Peer in the Kingdom, and Speaker of the Rouse of Lords, presides in the first, a sisted by a Master of the Rolls, and eleven other Masters: The Business of his Court is Equity only. The Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas, each having a Lord Chief and three other Justices, are for the Common Lan: The Exchequer, whose Judges are a Chief and three other Barons, may take Cognisance both of Lan and Equity. In the latter Case, the Barons sometimes call in the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

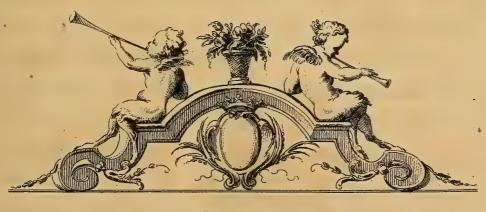

DESCRIPTION

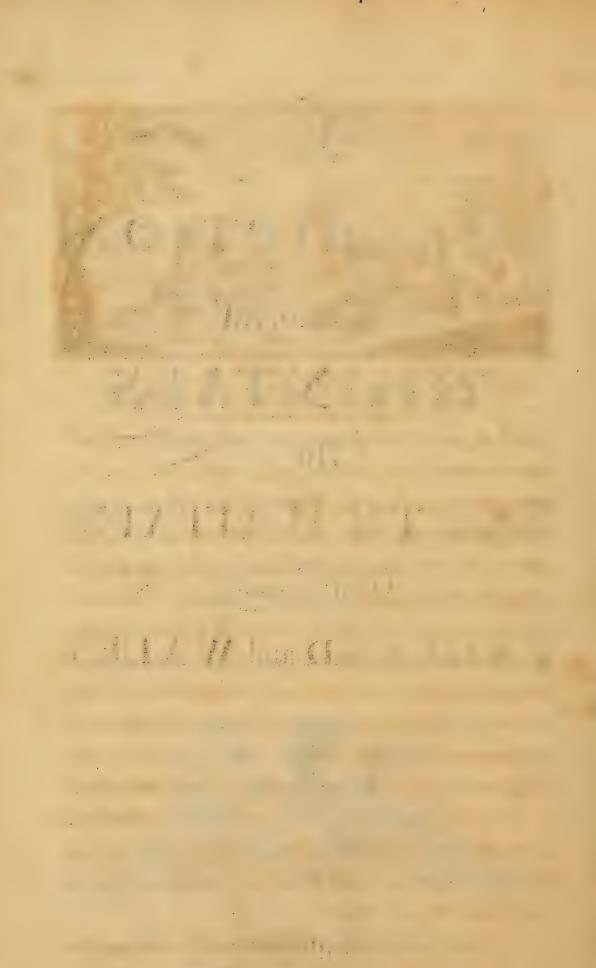

SOUTH BRITAIN;

ENGLAND and WALES.

Condon:

INTRODUCTION

In the feveral Descriptions of the Counties of England that have been hitherto published, we have observed that two Methods have been followed by different Authors: The one, to place them Alphabetically, without Regard to their Situation; and the other, to follow the Order of their Situation, without Regard to the Alphabet, beginning in the South West & continuing to the South East, & fo taking them, as they lie in Lines, quite up to the North.

We were advised to follow the latter of thefe Methods, as much the most Natural. A near similitude of Soil, Produce, and Manners may be expected, & will be usually found in Countries that lie Contiguous, which will all gradually change as we proceed: But to leap at once from Northamptonshire to Northumberland; & Or; which is much farther, from Cornwall to Cumberland; as we must in the Alphabetical Way, is to be continually carrying the Reader into a New World, in order, perhaps, to bring him back again the next Page.

We might mention, that Moll's County Maps run in our Order.

This Country, the most Southerly and Westerly Lart of Great Britain, projects into the Sea from Devonshire, from which it is divided on the East-by the River Tamer; between the Bristol Channel on the North and West, and the English Channel on the South. It is thought to derive its Name from the British Word Kern (Horn) and the Saxon Word Waules (Strangers) because of the Native? Britons who fled thither from the Saxon Invaders.

The Length, Breadth, Area, Inhabitants, & other Particulars that can be expressed in Numbers only, shall be given among the other Counties in a general Table.

Its Air is clear and healthful, tho fharp: The Face of the Country mountainous and rocky; yet has it all forts of Soils. Tin, and Lead, an Ore called Mundic, and Slate for Tiling, are its chief Com-

The second secon

The state of the s

and the second of the second o

Cornwalls

Commodities. The Cattle here are finall; the Sheep hornlefs, but their Flesh and Wooll very fine. They have Plenty of Fish particularly Lilchards. The Cornish Chough, a kind of ravenous Cron; is the Most remarkable of their Wild Fowl.

The Natives are large, strong, active, sociable; fond of intermarrying with each other, great Wrestlers, & expert at a peculiar Diversion called Hurling. Most of them speak English; but some Darishes, near the Land's End, have still a Language of their own, derived from the antient British.

It fends more Members to Parliament than any other County, and, within one, as many as if whole Ringdom of Scotland: Which is Juppofed to be owing to particular Privileges acquired by the Eldeft Sons of the Crown, who ever fince the Black Prince, have always been Dukes of Cornwall, as well as Princes of Walls. The present Boroughs are, Camelford S. Tves Launceston _ Forvey Leskard Westlow & Lestwithiel ___ Eastlon 2___ S.+Germans 🚄 Truro Grampound_ S Michael Bodmin 2 Genryn! Newports ___ Helston , Tregony ___ I Mans : Saltash Bossiney_ Kellington.

Each of these fends two Members, and the County two more.

Most of them are inconsiderable Places.

Launceston is esteemed the County Town, because the Afsizes, and Elections for Knights of the Shire are held there.

But

CORNWALL.

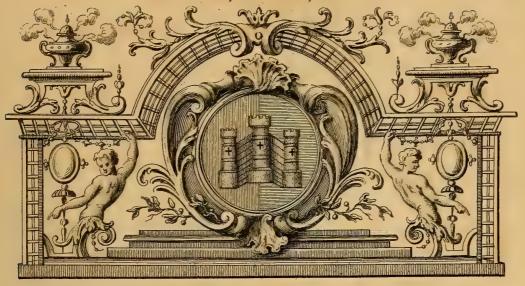

But Falmouth, a Seaport, upon a most commodious Harbour; tho' it chuses no Members, is larger than any three of the Boroughs that do chuse them. Other Places worth mentioning, are Helford, Pensance, and Padston, Towns; Biscarv-woane, and the Hurlers, Monuments of British Antiquity; I. Burien's, an independent Deanery; Mountsbay, a fine Harbour; Mount-Edgecumbe, Anthony, Arwenack, & Port Elliot, the Seats of the Edgecumbes, the Carens, the Killegrens, & the Elliots.

The Rocks or Islands of Scilly, Supposed by Some to have been formerly a Part of Cornwall, by others taken for y antient Cassiterides, have been reckened as belonging to this County, ever fince they were conquered by Athelstan. They are distant 30 Miles from the Land's End; the intermediate Sea, supposed to have overflow'd the narrow Isthmus, and therefore called the Lionness, being of a pretty equal Depth. They are in number about 140. It Mary's, the most fruitful and large, is about 9 Miles in Circumference. They abound with Rabbits and Water Fowl: But are for nothing so remarkable, as for the many Shipwrecks, that have happened upon them; of which that of Sir Cloudesley Shovel, in 1707, with 4 Ships of War, not a Man being saved out of all the Crews, will be ever remembered in the British Annals.

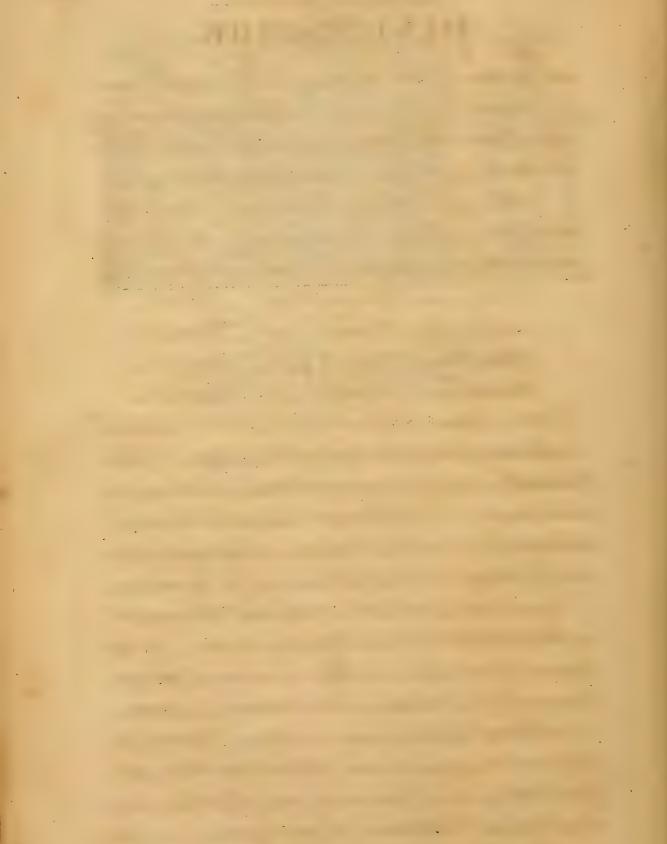

The Arms of the CITY of Exeter ._

Devonshire has the Bristol Channel on y North, Cornnvall on the West, the English Channel on y South, and on the East the Counties of Dorset & Somerset. The Name is British, from the Words Deunan and Duffneynt, both implying y Situation of the Towns, whare mostly in deep Vallies. I he Air in y Vallies is mild; on y Hills, sharp and healthful. In y Western Parts the Soil is adapted to y Breeding of Oxen, and in the Northern Parts to Sheep; The Eastern and Middle Parts yield plenty of Corn, and the best Pease in England? South Devonshire is esteemed a very Garden. Burning of Turf, to manure y Ground, is from y Practice of this County called Denshiring. Fin, Cyder very strong & rough, Loadstone, Slate, Corn, Cattle, Wooll wrought and unwrought, are here the chief Commodities. The chief Rivers are the Ex, the Tan; the Dart; and

DEVONSHIRE.

and the Tamer, which divides it from Cornwall. In this County if Gentry are as well bred, & the Yeomanry and Lower Leople as unpolished, as in any Part of England. The Merchants and principal Tradesmen imitate the Gentry. Anciently Devonshure had more both Boroughs & Corporations then at prefent, when the former are reduced to if following twelve, which each of them fend two Members, as well as if County. Exeter __ Barnstable __ Afhburton_ Totnefs __ Plymton __ Dartmouth_ Phymouth - Honiton - Beeralston -Okehampton_ Tavistock ___ Tiverton_ Exeter is a large, antient, fine City, & Episcopal See; has fix Gates, twenty Churches, and five Meeting Houses, besides Chapels. J. Leter's Cathedral is a magnificent and curious Fabrick. The Bridge is long, and built upon. The four principal Streets meet in the middle of the City. Here is an old Castle, where y Courts are kept; and feveral Hofpitals, of which one lately founded, is for if Sick and Lame. A great Trade is carried on, in Manufactured Woodlen, especially at Lammas Fair; and in the Weekly Serge Market. The Plea-Jantness of the Situation invites hither a great many Gentlemen, who are almost as numerous as the Merchants. Totnefs is famous for its loyal Addrefs; Llymouth, for its Harbour, Magazines,& Docks; Dartmouth and Barnstable, for Merchandize, tho' the latter has loft much to Biddiford, which is no Borough; Tiverton and Llymton, for their FreeSchools; and Honiton, for its Situation in a pleasant Country. Crediton, an Old Town near Exeter, fuffered much lately by Fire, as did Tiverton in 1731. Ilfarcomb and Torrington are great Trading Places.

Devonshire.

Other Remarkables are Torbay, where King William landed; Edystone Lighthoufe, upon a Rock over against Plymouth; Lundy Island, in the Bristol Channel, inaccefsible at every place but one; Ugbrook, Haynton, Powderham, Halden, and Belmarsh, the Seass of the Lords Clifford and Walpole, Sir William Courtenay, Sir Thomas Chudleigh, and M. Shepherd; the great Organ at Exeter, and a Lit that Springs by Intervals at North Taunton.

DORSETSHI

Dorsetshire is bounded on the West by part of Devonshire and Somersetshire, on the Morth by the Counties of Somerfet and Wilts, on the East by Wiltshire and Hampshire, and on the South by the English Channel. The British Words Dour Trig, from which the antient Inhabitants derive their Name, fignify Dwellers by y Waterfide. The Air is generally wholesome; more mild and pleasant towards the Coast, & Sharper on the Hills. The Soil is rich and fertile; the Northern Part, divided by a Range of Hills from the Southern, was formerly Woody, but now good Pasture; and the Southern feeds incredible Numbers of Sheep. Chief Commodities are Corn, Cattle, Wool, Cloth, Fish, Fowl, Hemp, Beer, Lortland frome for Building, and Lurbeck Clay for Tobacco-Pipes: Principal Rivers, the Stour, the Frome, and the Didle. The Manners of the Natives, in general, are a little more polished than in fome other Western Counties. They are proud of the Secretary of the Secretary of the second

Marie Committee of the Committee of the Dorsetshire?

faying of King Charles II. that he never faw a finer Country than Dorsetshire.

In this County are nine Boroughs, whose Representatives_ with the two Knights of the Shire, make up twenty Members_ The Boroughs are

Dorchester Weymouth _ Corfe-Castle _

Lyme-Regis Melcomb-Regis

Loole, and

Bridport_

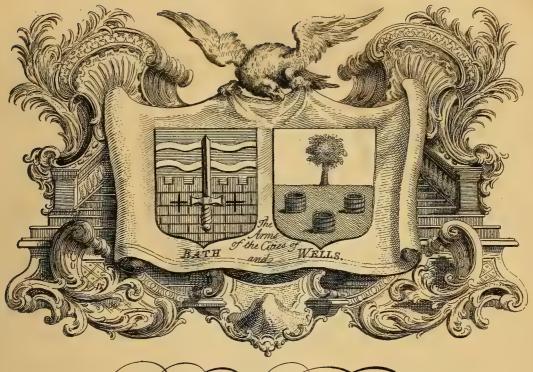

Wareham

Shaftesbury.

Dorchester is large, pleasant, & antient, Lyme Regis, a place of increasing Trade; Weymouth& Melcomb-Regis are united. Lurbeck, wherein is the Borough of Corfe-Castle, is without Reason called an Island. Other Remarkable Towns are Blandford, twice destroyed by Fire, the last Time in 1731; Sherburn, antient, large, & well frequented; and Winburn, noted for its fine Collegiate Church.

Curiofities of this County are, an entire Amphitheater, and Remains of the Ickening Street, both near Dorchester, & Roman Antiquities; feveral Barrows, or old British Tombs; an extraordinary Chasm, caused by an Earthquake; a Swannery in Lortland Inlet, containing at least 7000 I wans; Hook Castle, Granbourn-house, Buckland, Winburn S. Giles, Sherburn Castle, and Luddle Town, the Seats of & Duke of Bolton, the Earl of Salisbury, Earl Laulet, Earl of Shaftesbury, Lord Digby, and Lord Walpole.

Somerletsbree

This County, one of the richest and largest in England, has Dorsetshire on the South, Devonshire on the West, the Severn Sea on the North, Wiltshire on the East, & a Part of Gloucestershire on the North East. It takes its Name from Somerton, formerly & Shire Town, but now objected by Briftol, Bath, Wells, all of them Cities, & a great many large Towns. —
The Air is the mildest, and & Soil, for the most part, the richest in the Kingdom: Single Acres here have produced from 40 to 50, and even 60 Bushels of Wheat. The Eastern & Western. Parts are hilly and Stony; but the Country in general is lon; & as the Soil is fo rich, very dirty for Travellers in Winter. The Product is various; Coal, Lead, & Copper, in the Hills; in the Plains, Grain of all Kinds, of which it fends out great Quantities: Woods thrives thrives here as well as any where in JKingdom, & Teazles better:

SOMERSETSHIRE

It has Lapis Calaminaris more than any other County, and about

Alendip Hills Quantity of Oker: Its Oxen are as large & the Flesh as fine, as in Lincolnshire; but of late Years & Country) runs more upon Dairies, which produce excellent Cheese, than — upon Grazing. The Sheep here are large, and the Bull-Dogs—the boldest in England.

All sorts of Woollen Cloths are manufactured here, as well as Stockings & Buttons; and in the South East part of y County are made great Quantities of Linen. The Value of the Woollen Manufacture alone, in the first Hands, has been rated at a Million a Year. And as to foreign Commerce, Bristol has more of it than any City in England, except London: The Rivers are Severn, Avon, Parret, Frome, Ax, Tor, and Tone: The principal Hills, Mendip, Pouldon, and Quantock.

In the main, the Leople are plain, and honesthearted; but too justly charged with Bluntnefs in Conversation, and a Contempt of Letters. There are reckoned among them not lefs than 40,000 Difsenters. Great Men, both in Arts and Arms, have been produced in this County.

Somersetshire fends Eighteen Members to Parliament; two for the County, two for each of the Cities of Bristol, Bath, and Wells, and two a-piece for the Boroughs of Taunton, Minehead,

Bridgewater, Ilchester,

and Milbourn Port.

Bristol

The Arms of the City of BRISTOL.

SOMERSETSHIRE

Bristol is fituated not wholly in this County, but partly in Gloucestershire. It is, however, independant of both, being a County of it self. It is very Populous, fupposed to contain 100,000 Inhabitants; but the Streets are narrow, the Flouses too much crouded, and the City it felf is of no great Antiquity. Here are principally observed, the Key, large & commodious; the Bridge, firong & high; the Parish Church of S. Mary Radcliff, & fifteen Glashouses, the Custom of using no Carts, but Sleds, and the hot mineral Waters. Several noble Edifices, publick & private, have been lately erected here.

Bath lies about 12 Miles higher, upon the fame River-Avon. It is antient, having been famous for its medicinal Waters in the Time of the Romans. Of late Years it has prodigiously encreased: But if Diseases draw many people hither, Gallantry & Diversions entice many more. Here has been a publick Hospital lately erected.

Wells

A Report of the State of the St

Somersetshire?

Wells is a fmall but neat City, admired, as well as Bath, for its Cathedral: Taunton, Frome, & Bridgenvater, are large; Uchester, Minehead, Glastonbury, & Milbourn, Port, are antient Towns.

Curiofities in this County are, the Glastonbury Thorn, by fome fupposed to be miraculous; Roman Coins & Antiquities, at Ilchester, & on Camalet Hill; a fubterraneous Room, with a chequered Pavement, at Bathford; the Ruins of Glastonbury Abbey, and that at Athelney; Minehead Harbour, capacious & fase; and Wokey Hole, at the Foot of Mendifu Hills, where continually drips a petrifying Water.

The Noblemen's Seats are, Clevenden Court, the Earl of Bristol's; Henton St. George, & Ken Court, Earl Paulet's; Market-Bruton, Lord Berkeley's; Cannington, Lord Clifford's; and Buckland House, Lord Hawley's: Principal Gentlemen's, Orchard-Wyndham, Mells, Hunt-nvorth, Long-Afhton, Briftleton, & Nettlecomb; belonging to Sir Charles Wyndham, M. Strangenvays Horner; M. Dortman, Sir John Smith, Sir Robert Cann, and Sir John Trevelyan.

the property of

Wiltshire is bounded on the North by Gloucestershire, on the West by Gloucestershire and Somersetshire, on the South by Dorsetshire and Hampshire, and on & East by Hampshire and Berkshire. It has its Name from Wilton, once the chief Town, but now mostly remarkable for & fine Seat of the Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery; as that is so called from the River Willey, on which it stands.

The Air of Wiltshire is freet & pleasant, the former hat Sharp upon the Hills during Winter. In the Northern Parts if Soil is Mountainous and Woody; in the Middle it is crofs'd by the famous Downs, remarkable for feeding Sheep, and here diffinguish'd by the Names of Salisbury & Malborough; on the South, it is very rich and fertile. The principal Commodities are Sheep, Wood, Wood, Stone, and of late fine Malt Liquor. This,

WILT SHIRE.

This with Somersetshire is the chief Seat of the Woollen Manufacture for fine Cloths. The two Avons, called the Upperand Lower, with the Madder, the Willey, the Bourne, the Ifis, and the Kennet, are here the Rivers most worthy of Notice.

The Inhabitants of Willyhire are reputed a brave, rough, blunt Leople, that fpeak a broad Dialect, even more unpleasing than their Neighbours of Somersetshire; and this Dialect prevails too much even among their Gentry, who are not refined by a Town Conversation.

This County sends more Members to Darliament than any other in England, Cornwal only excepted. Befides the Knights of the Shire, & the Reprefentatives of y City of Sarum, which are two each, they chuse 30 for the following Boroughs.

Wilton __ Calne __ Great Bedwin_

Downton Devizes Ludgershall

Hindon __ Chippenham _ Old Sarum _

Heytesbury - Malmsbury - Wooton Bafset -Westbury - Cricklade - Marlborough -

Salisbury, the Capital, is a large, well built, populous, pleasant City, and Episcopal See. The Cathedral, the most regulary Gothic Building in the Kingdom, with y highest Spire, is said to have Doors and Chapels equal in Number to y Months, Windows to the Days, and Litlars & Lilasters to the Hours, in y whole Year.

The Manufactures here are confiderable, and the Market-place very spacious with a fine Town-House. Old Sarum a Mile North of the New, tho'it chuses two Members, is now reduced to

The second of th

and they have got to the step which we have

Mest adactivet, the post privates of second and the second second

WILTSHIRE.

a fingle Farm-house. Devizes, Chippenham, Calne, Westbury, and fome others, are noted for if Wootlen Manufacture; as are also Trombridge, Bradford, and Warminster, large Towns, tho' not Boroughs.

Stone-henge, the greatest Antiquity in England, lies about Six Miles North of Salisbury, & is much resorted to by Travellers. The Vulgar tell wonderful Tales about the Number of its Stones. It is thought to have been the chief Heathen Temple of our British Ancestors, and the Barrons, or Hillocks of a peculiar Form, that lie round it to a considerable Distance, have been proved to be the Sepulchres of great Men. Abery, near Marlborough, is another Temple of the fame Structure.

In this Country is also the Wandryke, a great Ditch that runs.

crofs it, and thought to be an antient Boundary!

Seats here, befide Wilton already mentioned, are Tokenham, Allington-house, and Marlborough-house, att belonging to the Duke of Somerset; Eddington, the Duke of Bolton's; Damerham, Duke of Newcastle's; Ambrestury, Duke of Queenstrury's; Tilshead, Earl Godolphin's; Charlton, Earl of Berkshire's; West-Lavington, Earl of Abingdon's; Long-leat, Viscount Wermouth's; Lediard-Tregoze, Viscount St. John's; Wardour, Lord Arundel's; Wishford-Hatch, Littlecot, Ramsbury, Wolf-hall, Bishops-Canning, Willerry, Cholderton, & Cosham, belonging to Sir Richard Hon, Messieurs Hyde, Popham, Jones, Seymour, Ernley, Grevil, Gracherode, and Colonel Ducket.

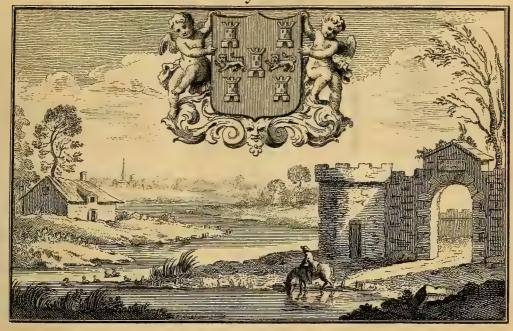

WILTSHIRE.

At the Devizes, in this County, were found A.D. 1714,—and fupposed to have been buryed there in 234, these Household Gods, in Number 19, with a Medal of Alexander Severus; which Rieces of Antiquity are here exhibited, being great furiofities.—

2 amplivre

Hampshire (properly the Country of Southampton, from the principal Town) is bounded on if North by Berkshire; on the East by Surry & Sufsex, on the South by the British Channel, and on the West by Dorsetfhire & Willfhire.

The Air is mild & wholesome, but towards the South fubject to Sea Vapours. The Soil is rich. The chief Commodities are Corn, Cattle, Wool, Wood, Iron, excellent Honey, and the best Bacon, in England. Kersies, Stuffs, and fome Cloths, are here manufactured. Rivers are the Teles, Avon, Itomre, Itching), and some others.

The Leople in general have y Advantage of y more westerly)
Counties from their greater Vicinity to London: But in y New Forest one may expect as much fimplicity & want of Breeding, as in any Lart of the Kingdom.

Besides_

But the state of t

Jana Bridge

.

.

Hampshire?_

Besides the Knights of y Shire, & the Citizens of Winchester, Hampshire chuses two Burgesses for each of y following Towns,

Southampton, Stockbridge, Whitchurch,

Portfmouth, Christchurch, and Retersfield, Limington, Andover.

To which if we add the Six Members for y Ifle of Wight (a Bart of this County) chosen at

Newport, Yarmouth, Newton,

the whole Number of Representatives will be Twenty-Six?

Winchester is famous for its Cathedral & College, y former finished, and the latter founded, by y famous Bishop William of Wickham. A Palace was begun here by King Charles II, but never finished.

Southampton has been more confiderable than at prefent; but is full a good Town, and a County in itself. But the Place in this County now most worthy of notice is Portsmouth, the best Fortification in England, the chief Rendezvous of the Royal Navy, and a great Marine Arfenal. It is of late Years vastly increased. The Haven may contain a thousand large Ships.

New Forest, between the Avon & Hampton Water, was made by William the Conqueror, who laid waste for that Purpofe thirty fix Parishes.

Silchester, on & North Edge of this County, now only a Farmhouse and a Church, is the antient Vinodunum of & Romans, whose Walls, almost entire, are two Miles in Compass.

Noblemen's Seats here are Basing-House & Abbotton,

I while the might of the state of the property of the state of State of the state . . in separation a market of a second se in the property of the second of the second The second of the second of the second of the second of Mark harry of the war hay the Duke of Bolton's; Rockburn-house, Earl of Shaftesbury's; Hursborn, Earl of Portsmouth's; Farnborough-place, Earl of Anglesea's; Eadesworth, Lord Dormor's; Whorvel, Lord Delaware's; and the Earl of Peterborough's, at Southampton.

Hampshire.

Wight-Isle, called by the Antients Vectis, lies on the South of this County in the British Channel.

The Air is pleasant and falubrious, and the Soil fertile?, affording Corn enough in one Year to Jupply the Inhabitants for Seven. It is divided into East and West Meden. Newport, the Capital, near the Middle of the Isle, is large and populous. The Port to it is Conves, on the Northern Extremity. Wight was once a Kingdom, made so-by King Henry VI, in favour of Henry Beauchamp, Earl of Warnvick. The Wool here is exceeding fine. In fhort, fome Writers call this Island the Garden of England, as Sicily was called formerly the Garden of Italy.

A Prospect of Stone-Henge, on Salisbury Plain, which is in Wiltshire.

The Arms of Reading.

The arms of New-Windsor.

BERKSHIRE

Berkshire, Supposed to be so called from Berroc, a Wood, is divided on the North & North East, by the Thames, from Oxford and Buckingham Shires; on the West it is bounded by the Counties of Gloucester & Wilts; on the South East, by Surry; and on the South by Hampshire.

This County is equal to any in Pleasantnefs, and in if West and North-West Parts none is more fertile. The Air is generally healthy, which contributes to make Lands let dearer here than in other Counties at the fame Distance from London. Corn of all Kinds, but in particular fine Barly & Malt; Timber, and fome Woollen and Sailcloth Alanufactures, are its chief Commodities. Its Rivers, besides the Thames before mentioned, are the Kennet, the Ocke, the Loddon & the Lambourn; which last, tho but a Rivulet, has this remarkable Quality, that it is fullest in Summer, when other Rivers decrease.

Abbingdon

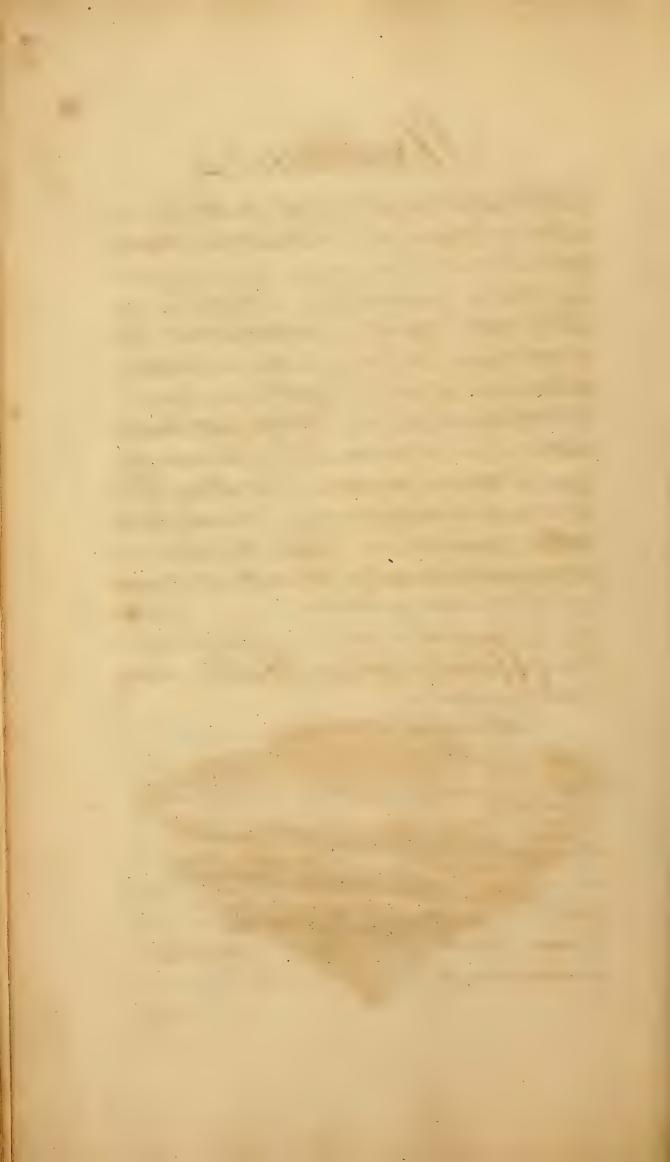

Berkshire ?_

Abbingdon is one of the Boroughs that fend but one Member to Parliament. The other three, which, as well as the County, send two each, are

New-Windsor, Wallingford. Reading, Reading, the County Town, is larger than fome Cities. IP was antiently famous for its Abbey, fince for Clothing; & now for its Trade in Malt & Meal. Abbungdon, which commonly has the Afsizes alternately with Reading, & always the County Election, has a fine Market House. Wallingford has been very large, & Wantage was the Birth Llace of y^e great King Alfred. Yet nothing in this County is for worthy of Notice as Windfor-Castle, a Site inferior to none in Europe, and a noble Eitadel. It was made illustrious by King Edward III, who not only) raised most of the Buildings, but inshituted here y order of y Garter, the Installations of which are to this Day in S. George's Chappel. It has been improved by several of our Monarchs, who made it their Royal Residence.

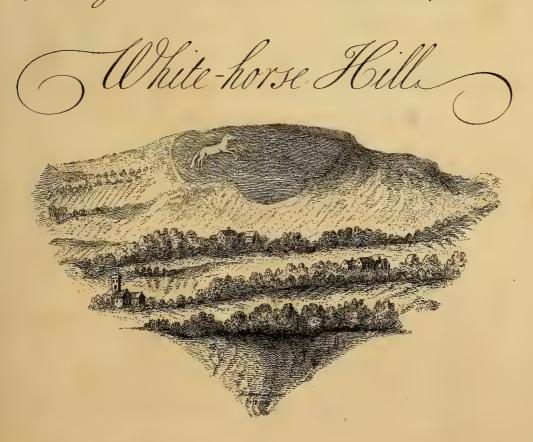

The White Horse, in the Hill fo called, is fupposed to be a Work of King Alfred, & the noblest Monument of Saxon Antiquity in y whole Kingdom. It covers an Acre of Ground, & is thought to have been cut in memory of a signal Victory. The Neighbouring Leople, from Time immemorial, have a Kind of Festival called Scouring the Horse; when they cleanse it of Weeds, whereby the Chalky Bottom shill preserves a fine Effect at a great Distance. Near Reading is a Natural Curiosity, thought to have remained ever since the Flood. It is a Bed of Oyster-Shells, fourken fourteen or sixteen Feet under the furface of a Hill, and covered with variety of different Strata, which retain the true Figure & Colour, but moulder at a fmall Prefsure. In this County are also Remains of Roman Antiquities and Fortifications, with fome of the famous Causeway, called Icknild Itreet. Here is also a fingularly merry Cuftom in two Manors, whereby Midons recover their Copyhold, after having forfeited it by Incontinence.

Berkshire?

Hurley is a Seat of the Earl of Strafford; Swallow-field, once the Earl of Clarendon's, has fince had several Dof-sefsors; at New-Windfor; the Duke of S. Albans has a Seat, as the Earl of Godolphin and Lord Delaware have at the Old: Bafselden is Lord Fane's; Whiteham, Earl of Albingdon's; & Hamstead-Marshall, Earl of Craven's.

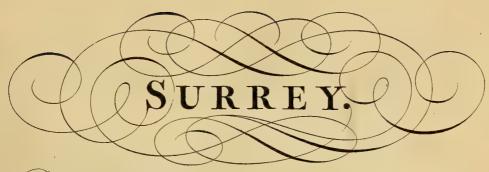

Surrey has Middlesex on the North, Kent on the East, Sufsex on the South, and on the West Hampshire and Berkshire. It takes its Name from its situation on the South of the Thames, which divides it from Middlesex.

The Air of Surrey is very Invect & wholesom, which makes it abound in Gentlemen's Seats. The Middle of the County is barren; but the Skirts, on all fides, very fruitful.—
Corn, Hops, Box-Wood, Walnuts, and Fuller's Earth, are here the chief Commodities, Surrey not being famous for any Considerable Manufactures. Besides the Thumes, there are in this County the Rivers Wey, Moulsey, and Wandle, all which run Northward into the Crince of English Rivers.—

It is observed of iReople in the Midst of SUTTEY, that they are generally of a pale Complexion, like the Natives of C Licardy Picardy in France. Their Manners in general cannot but receive Advantage from their Vicinity to London, and the great Concourfe of Gentry.

Befides the two Knights of the Shire, Surrey chuses two Representatives for each of the following Boroughs, Guildford, Blechingley, Gatton— Southwark, Rygate,— Haslemere.

Kingston, is frequently called the Shire Town, the it be no Borough; but the County Jail is of late Years removed to Southwark; and Guildford, where the Knights are chosen, and which has the Afsizes as well as Kingston, deserves more properly that Appellation. It is at this Day in a pretty flourishing Condition. Southwark, if largest Borough in England, is commonly reckoned a Part of London. Other remarkable Places here are Richmond, one of the pleasantest Villages perhaps in Europe; and Epsom, a great Resort of People of Fashion, on account of the Well's and Races.

Curiofities in this County are, feveral Roman Antiquities, at Walton, Darking, near Aldbury, and fome other Places; the Subterraneous Passage of the River Moulsey, or Mole; Rumney Mead, where King John gave Magna Charta, and Coopers Hill near it, made famous by & celebrated

Loem

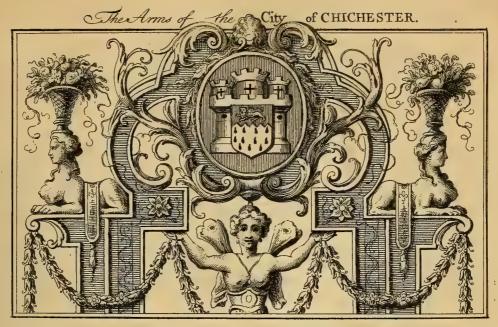

Pub Robert Tohn Danham :

Loem of Sir John Denham:) As it would take up too much

As it would take up too much Room to mention all a Gentlemen's Seats, we shall for the future confine our selves a only to those of the Nobility: There are in Surrey; (besides the Royal Palace at Richmond, & the Archiepiscopal Seat at Lambeth,) Wimbledon, the Dutchess of Marlborough's; Claremont and Pepper-Harrow, the Duke of Newcastle's; Sudbrook, the late Duke of Argyle's; Nonesuch, & Duke of Grafton's; Weybridge, & Earl of Portmore's; Aldbury, the Earl of Aylesford's; Great Bockham, the Earl of Effingham's; Durdans, Lord North and Guild ford's; Peckham, Lord Baltimore's; Beachworth, Lord Windsor's; Woodcot, Lord Baltimore's; & Battersea, late Lord St. John's.

The sound hands to be a sound to the sound t

SUSSEX.

Sufsex is bounded on the West by Hampshire, on the North by Survey, on the North-East and East by Kent, and on the South by the English Channel.

Its Name is explained by its Situation, and signifies as much as South-Sax.

The Air is here various; along the Sea-fhore aguish; in the Weald foggy, but not unwholefom; upon y Downs, sweet and healthy. The Soil varies equally; the Downs yielding a fine Grafs, to feed Sheep; the Middle of the Country Meadows, and rich arable Land; the North Parts Wood, which affords Fuel for the Iron Works. The principal Rivers here are Arun, famous for Mullets, Adur, Ouse, & Rother, which all discharge themselves to the South.

In this plentiful Country the Commodities are numerous, as Corn, Cattle, Malt, Wool, Wood, Glaß, Fish, Fowl, and and Iron; which last is also a considerable Manufacture? The Wheat-Ear, a small delicious Bird, not much inferior to an Ortolan, is taken on the South-East Downs. Besides the Arundel Mullet, the Chickester Lobfter, if Amerley Irout, the Selfey Cockle, and the Sufsex Carp, are all deservedly admired.

The Numbers of great Families in this County makes the Conversation polite: But the ruder Class of Inhabitants are famous for Smuggling, for which they lie exceedingly convenient?

Sufsex, befides the two Knights of the Shire, sends to Parliament Representatives for Chichester, Lewes, Steyning, Steyning, Storeham, Shoreham, East-Grinfted, Midhurst, Bramber, Arundel.

Chickester is a neat compact little City, having four Gates to the four Cardinal Points, & a Street leading from each to if Center, where they all meet. In the Cathedral are Dictures of all the Kings from Cifsa down to this Time. Lewes is a Place of great Antiquity, large, and containing many handsom Flouses.

Sufsex Shews the Remains of feveral Camps, Roman, British, and Danish. It Rooke's Hill affords a delightful Profpect, both by Sea and Land. In 1723 was differently Foundation Stone of a Temple of Neptune, built in the Reign of y Emperor Claudius. Charlton Forest, belonging belonging to the Duke of Richmond, hath feven charming Vistas, shooting from its Center like the Rays of a Star. The Village of Charlton is famous for its meeting of Foxhunters. Beachy Head is infamous for the Number of Ships loft there, in stormy Weather, and for an inglorious Sea Fight off it in King William's Reign. At Levensey Haven William the Conqueror landed, and afterwards defeated and Slew Harold at the Place now called Battle Abbery. Winchelsea, now a poor Town, was a noble City till swallowed up by the Sea in 1250.

Santage and the santage of the

Noblemen's Seats here are, Arundel-Castle, Duke of Norfolk's; Letnorth, Duke of Somerset's; Good-nood, Duke of Richmond's; Halland, Duke of Nenr-caftle's; Buckhurst, Duke of Dorset's; Halnaker; Earl of Darby's; Winchelfea's, Afhburnham, belonging to the Earls of those Names; Bolbrook, Earl of Thanet's; Stanstead, Earl of Scarborough's; Up-Rark, Earls of Tankerville's; Condrey, Lord Viscount Montague's; Earidge, Lord Abergavenney's; Hills, Lord Trnin's.

A Roman Coin.

and interpolation 11/1/1/2011 . Some of the property of the Post of of the last from

This County is bounded on the North by the River Thames, on the South by the Channel & Sufsex, on if West by Surrey, and on the East by the German Sea.

It is liable to Inconveniences from the Vicinity of the Sea; but the worst Parts of Kent are not founhealthy as the worst Parts of Efsex. The higher Parts of the County are healthy & the Soil is generally good. Corn, Cattle, Fruit, particularly Pippins, Codlins & Cherries, Wood & Madder for dying, Hops, Wood, Flax, Saintfoin, Samphire, Fowl and Fish, especially Fordnuch Trout, are its chief Commodities. Medway, on which is y famous Royal 🛪 Dock at Chatham, is if chief River peculiar to this County.

The Inhabitants, tho' most open to Invasions from the Continent, justly boast of preserving more antient Privileges than any of their Fellow Subjects.

Besides the two Knights of the Shire, chosen at Maidstone, and the four Citizens for Canterbury and Rochester, Kent fends to Parliament ten Burgesses, two for each of y following Towns.

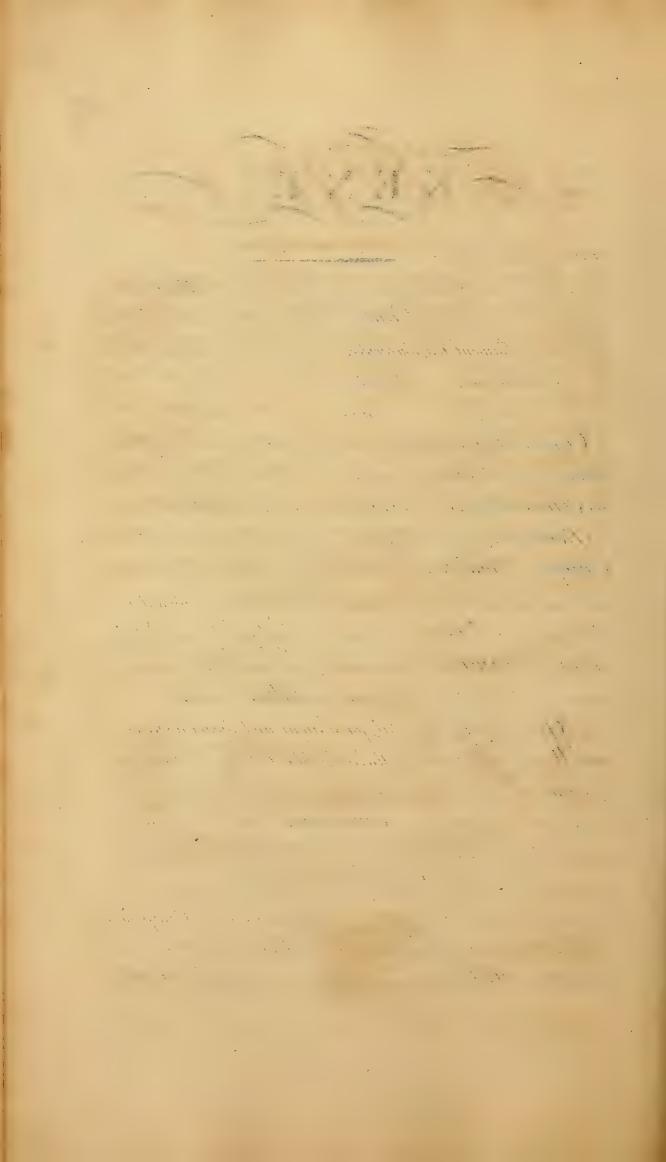

Maidstone, Queenborough, Dover,

Rumney, and Sandwich.

Canterbury is antient and large, was the first Seat of Christianity among the Saxons, and is now a Principal Receptacle of the French Protestants. Its Cathedral is a noble Gothic Building. Rochester, antient likewise, has one of the finest Bridges in Europe. Maidstone, another Old Place, is full large, populous, neat, and convenient for the County Business by being situated in the Center of it. Dover, the great Thorough fare between England & France, has been much larger than it now is, and is noted for a Castle said to be begun by Julius Casar.

Greenwich Hofpital, for antient and disabled Seamen, and Woolwich Dock and Warren, added to those at Chatham, for building and furnishing Men of War, are two of the great Ornaments of this County. Tunbridge Well's is a great Resort of the Gentry, both on account of the Wasers, and the Pleasantness of the Place. Deptford, a very large Village, is also of great Use to the Navy. As to Antiquities, a large Camp near Woolwich, part of the Roman Walling Street Road at Shooter's Hill, Monumental Hillocks on Black Heath, and a Monument of Stones near Aylesford, are fome of if principal. Noblemen's Seats here are Knowle, the Duke of Dorset's; Heathfield, Earl of Thanet's; Eastwell, Earl of Winchelfea's; Penshurst, Earl of Leicester's; Leigh's-Court, Earl of Rockingham's; Chevening, Earl Itanhope's; Westram, Earl of Jersey's; Aylesford, Earl of Aylesford's; onBlack-Heath, Earl of Dartmouth's; Wingham, Earl Cowpers; Hover-Castle, Earl of Waldegrave's; Leeds-Castle, Lord Fairfax's; Charlton, Lord Percival's; Linsted-Lodge, Lord Teynham's; Fair-Lawn, Lord 🗕 Barnard's; and Motte, Lord Rumney's.

and ?

R696.5

Roman Antiquities, found at Reculver, in-This County.

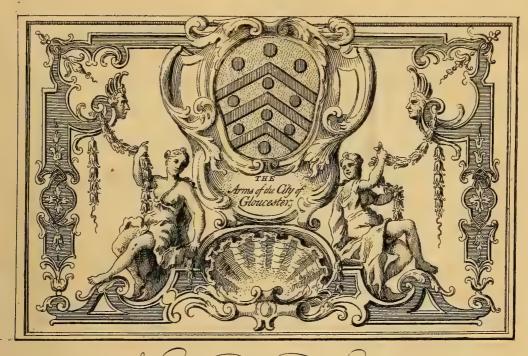

A British Monument, called Kitts Coty Howe, near Maidstone.

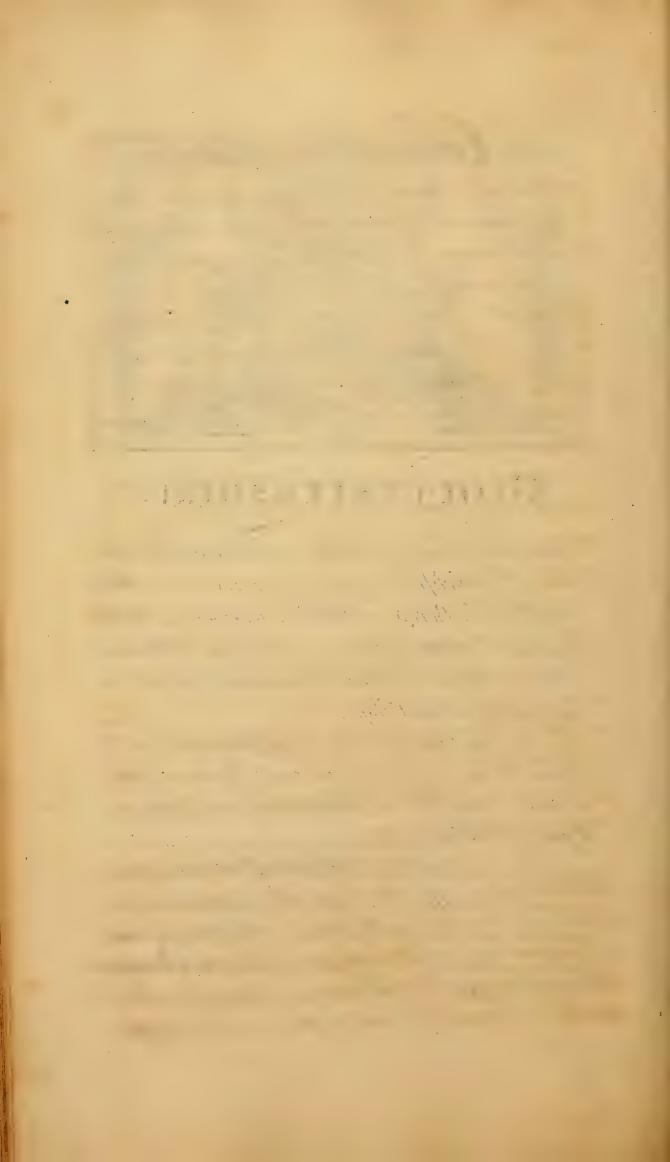

, till all find you man the Allerthan Allerthan in the second

GLOUCESTERSHIRE!

This County borders on the North upon Worcester Shire, & Part of Warrvickshire; on the East upon the Counties of Warrvick, Oxford, Berks, and Wilts; on the South upon Wilt-Shire and Somersetshire; & on the West upon the Shires of Monmouth & Hereford. Its Name is from y Capital, which signifies Fair City.

Of the three Divisions of this County, Cotes wolde, the hilly Eastern Part, has a fharp Air, but breeds abundance of Sheep; the Vale, on both fides the Severn (the principal River in Gloucester Shire) produces that fine Cheese we fo well know, and enjoys a mild Air; the Forest of Dean, bordering upon Monmouth & Hereford Shires, has Pasture, Tillage, fine Oaks, and Mines of Iron & Coal. The Cloathing Trade has been greater here formerly then at present; but Gloucester-Thire has fill a considerable part in this Manufacture, and produces produces Corn, Salmon, Cyder, & Bacon, besides the Commodities we have mentioned. Gloucestershire fends two Knights of the Shire, & two other Reprefentatives for each of the following Places.

Ploucestershire.

Gloucester, Cirencester, Tenksbury.

Gloucester is antient, pleasant, and has a venerable Old Cathedral. As the Inhabitants are not fo noted for Industry as those of Bristol, their Irade is much gone off to this City. Circncester is also antient, and has been very large, as appears by the present Roman Ruins.

Among the Curiofities of this County, the principal is that beautiful Collection of Painted Glafs in Fairford Church, which, in twenty eight Windows, exhibits the chief Histories of the Oldand New Testament. It was taken in a Brize Ship, in the Reign of Henry VII, by Mr. John Tame, who built if Church in order to put it up. The Designs are Abert Durer's, & in the opinion of Sir Anthony Vandyke, can hardly be exceeded by the Lencil. Roman Lavements have been found at Wood-Chester & Cromhall. Cheltenham has fine Medicinal Waters. The Bristol Stones are found in a Rock, on the side of the Avon next this County, thro' which lay two of the great Roman Highways.

Noblemen's Seats are Great-Badminton, Duke of Beauforts; Berkley-Castle, Earl of Berkley's; Course-Court, Earl of Coventry's; Stowel, Earl of Stafford's; Cambden-houfe Earl of Gainsborough's; at Circncester, Lord Bathurst's; Sandywell, Lord Connay's; High-Meadon's, Lord Gage's; Over-Norton, Viscount Say & Sele's; Kempsford, Viscount Weymouth's.

The state of the s

The Arms of the City of Oxford

ODFORDSHIRE,C

Exfordshire, so called from the Capital City, is bounded on \mathring{y} North by the Counties of Warnrick and Northampton; on the East, by Buckinghamshire; on the South & South West, by Berkshire; and on the West, by Gloucestershire.

The Air of this County, which is free from Frens or standing Waters, is freet & wholesom equally with any. The Soil is various, but in general fertile both for Corn & Grafs. As to Manufactures, that of Blankets at Witney is the principal. The chief Commodities produced here are Corn, Malt, Cattle, Fruit, Freeftone, several forts of Earth useful in Medicine, Scouring, and Dying. The River Ists, which enters this County from Gloucestershire, receives the Same at Dorchester, and this Junction makes the famous Thames. The Charwell falls into & His at Oxford, after having watered great Part of the County, Banbury fends but one Member to Parliament, which, with the two for the Shire), and two for each of the following Places, make in all Nine:

Oxford City,

University,

Woodftock.

Oxford,

. . . . Later Company of the Same " The signific of the the " this Some State State State

	(n)(n)
	rtordin	re.
. Oxford, antient, bed	uniful, and large, is de	lightfully Seated for the
,	•	g peater, a magnificent the Noblest Collections um, one of the richest
(X) 1.1000:	2 2	not to mention D"
Radclyffe's newLit	rary,& befides y twent	ry Colleges following.
Planes.	Founders.	when founded
	King Alfred the Great
	John Baliol,Father to th
222	Walter Merton, Bifhop o
. 0	Walter Stapleton, Bifhop	2.0
5,0riel College	King Edward 🗓	1324
A	Robert Egglesfield,inHo
1 10 0	Will, of Wickham, Bifhop	0401
8, Lincoln College	Rich Heming, Bifhop	of Lincoln1420,
· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	Hen:Chicheley, Bifhop
	W.mof Wainfleet, Bifhop
~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~	W.m.Smith, Bifhop of 2,	ρ
12, Corpus Chrifti College
13,Christ Church College	- 1110.0	. 0
14, Trinity College	Sir Thomas Pope
15,S. John Baptift College	Sir Tho White, L.d May	yor of London1557, 16, Jefus College
17, Wadham College
18, Lembroke Cottege	Tho: Teisdale, & Rich! N	Wightwick1624,
. 19, Worcester College	Sir Thomas Cooke	1700,
. 19, Worcester College . 20, Hertford College	Psy Patent from K. G	Peorge II 1740,
	And these five Halls:
. Alban Hall,	Edmund Hall,	S.Mary's Hall,
New Inn Hall,	and st	Mary Magdalen Flall.
		Woodftock
		0

OXFORDSHIRE.

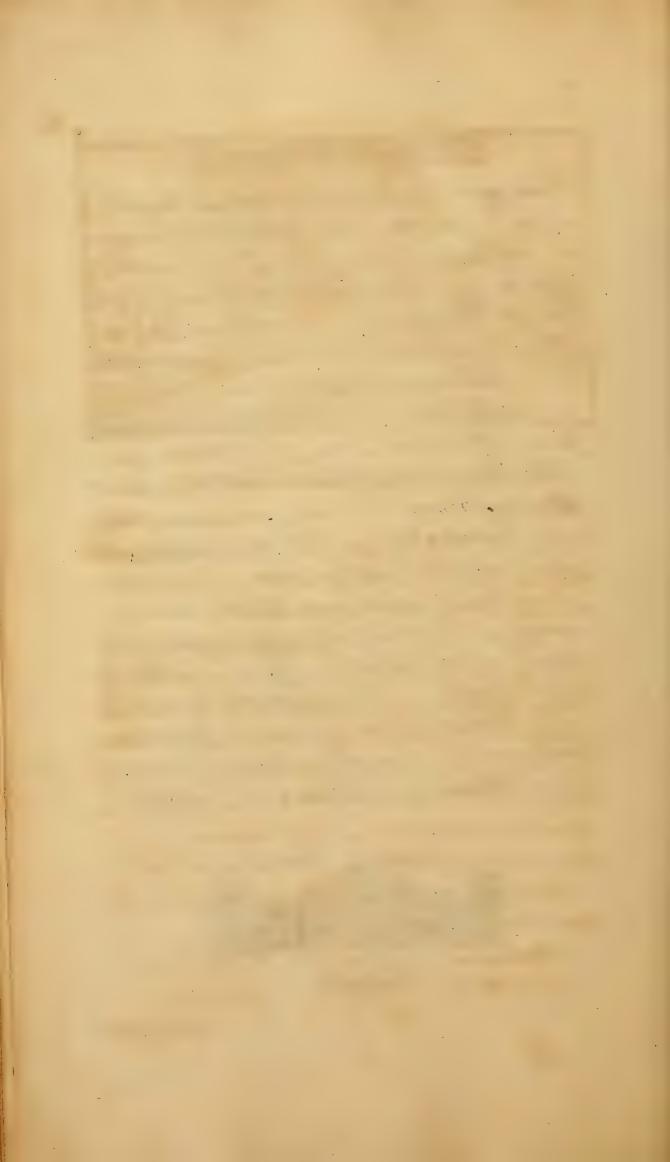

Woodstock was antiently famous as a Royal Manour, and for the Labyrinth built there by King Henry ${ m II}$, for his Concubine Rofamond: It is fo at prefent for the Grant made of this Manour to y Duke of Marlborough, and the Stately . Palace of Blenheim, erected at the Qublic Charge, in memory of his Victory near a Village of that Name, in Germany. — Dorchester was once a great City, and Episcopal See.

Curiofities in this County are, a Tefselated Lavement, found near Woodstock; Remains of a Roman City, at Aldcester; a Petrifying Water, near Somerton; very antient British & Roman Coins; Remains of the Consular Way), called Akeman Street; and Rolle rich Stones, supposed to be erected by Rollo the Danish Leader

Noblemen's Seats here, besides Blenheim already mentioned, are Atterbury, the Duke of Argyle's; Heythorp, Earl of ShrewSbury's; Rycot, Earl of Alvingdon's; Ditchley, Earl of Litchfield's; Sherburn-Castle, Earl of Macclesfield's; Charlbury, Earl of Llymouth's; Cornbury, Earl of Clarendon's; Stanton-Harcourt, Viscount Harcourt's; Caversham, Lord Cadogan's. _

A Scale of 100 Feet

Buckinghamshire, so called from the Saxon Word Buc, is Sounded on the East by Bedfordshire, Hertfordshire & Middlesex; on the South, by Berkshire; on & West by Oxfordshire; and on the North, by Northamptonshire.

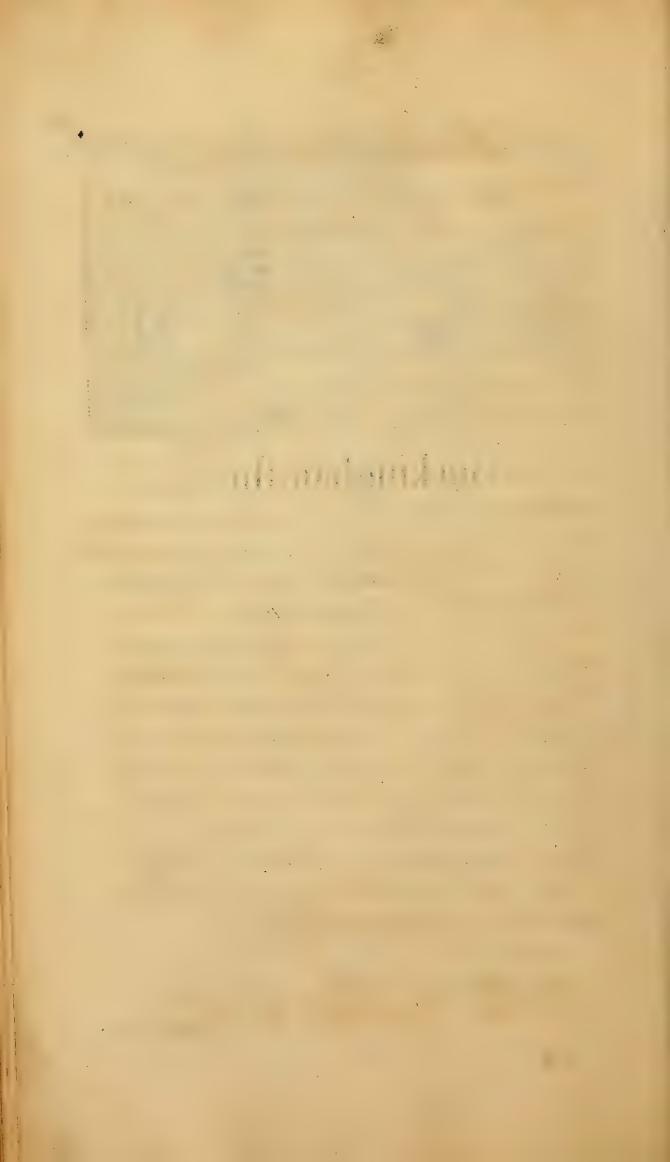

The Air in general is good, especially in if higher Larts. The Soil, for the most Part a Chalk or Marle, is so very rich, that this County is famous to a Proverb for Bread & Beef. Here are great Manufactures of Bone-Lace and Paper. The natural Commodities, Cesides those mentioned, are Timber, especially Beech, fine Wool, and Sheep fo large, that Ten Lounds has been given for a fingle Ram. — Besides the Mumes, which washes its fouthern Borders, y chief Rivers of Buckinghamfhire are the Coln and the Oufe.

Besides the two Knights, this County fends to Parliament hvo Representatives for each of the following Boroughs:

Buckingham, Great Marlow,

Ailesbury, Chipping Wicomb, Wendover, Agmondesham.

Buckingham

Buckinghamshire.

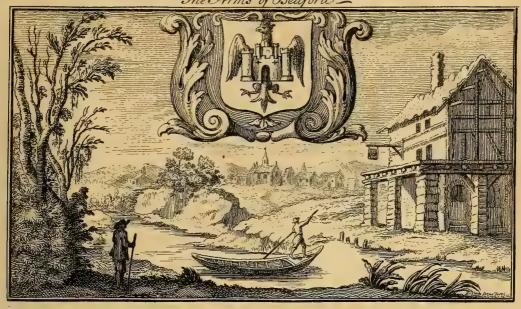

Buckingham is old, has a ruinous Castle, and three frome Bridges over the Oufe: Ailesbury, antient likewife, is become, thro' & Conveniency of its Situation, the most populous and best Frading Fown in the County. Chipping Wicomb, or Fligh Wickham, has one noble large Street.

Curiofities here are the Chiltern Hills, remarkable for being covered with Stones, which yet promote the Fertility of the Ground. The famous Watting Street Wary croses this County. An artificial Cave was found near Cliefden, some Years funce, ninety Foot deep, & thirty Foot in Circumference, the Bottom henry out of a hard Rock. In 1665 an Earthquake shook this County.

Cliefden-house, begun by George Villiers Duke of Buckingham, carried on by the late Earl of Orkney, and finish'd by the present Prince of Wales, deserves rather the Name of a Palace than a Seat. Stone, near Bucking-ham, the Seat of Viscoumt Cobham, has the finest Gardens in England. Other Noblemen who have Residences here are, the Duke of Bridgenater, at Ashridge; Duke of Devonshire, at Latimers; Duke of Montagu, at Ditton-Park; Duke of Portland, at Bulstrode; Duke of Bedford, at Cheney; Earl of Hertford, at Piercey-Lodge; Earl of Chestersield, at Ascot; Lord Dormer, at Peterley. _______

Beofordshire.

This County, so called from Bed (Lodging) and Ford, (a Pafsage over a River) is bounded on the North by North-ampton & Huntingdon Shires, on the West by Buck-inghamshire, on the South by Hertfordshire, and on the East by Part of the same and Cambridgeshire?

The Air of Bedfordshire is temperate, clear, and confequently healthful; the Soil exceeding fertile, especially on the North fide of the OUSE. Fullers Earth, of so great Consequence to the Cloathing Trade, that the Exportation of it is forbid by Act of Parliament, is one of the most valuable Commodities: Besides which, here are Cattle, Venison, Fond, Timber, Woad, Wheat and Barley in great Plenty, and remarkably good. Great Quantities—of Grain are fent down the OUSE to King's Lynn, where it is Shipp'd for Flotland. As to the Manufactures, the chief are Bone Lace, & Straw Wares, particularly Women's Flats. ——Among Bedfordshire?

Among the rare Plants found in this County, none is more northy our Notice than the Wood, which being of great Advantage to those who deal in it, it may not be improper in this Place to give an Account of the Manner of cultivating it.

It is form every Year, and the old Woad plucked up, unless that which is faved for Seed: The Time of Sowing it is the beginning of March, & it is cropp'd about y Middle of May. In a dry Year it is best; but grows more plentifully in a wet one. It is ufually cropp'd three or four Times a Year, according as it comes up; but the first Crop is the best, & every one afterwards gradually worfe. As foon as it is cropt, it is carried to the Wood-Mill, and ground as fmall as may be? 'till it becomes fit to ball: When ball'd, it is laid upon Hurdles to dry, and afterwards ground into Dowder: Thus ground, it is Spread on a Floor, & water'd, which is call'd Couching: Here it Smoaks & heats, and is turned every Day 'till it is perfectly) dry and mouldy, and this is called Silvering. After Silvering it is weighed, & put in a Bag, containing 200 Weight, and then sent to the Dyer as fit for Sale, who tries how it will drye, and fets a Price accordingly. The best Woad is worth 18 Lounds a Ton.

With this Plant the antient Britons ufed to dye their Bodies, to appear the more terrible to their Enemies: And by) them it was called Ceruleous, or Sky-colour'd.

Besides

BEDFORDSHIRE

Besides the OUSE, which divides this County into two Parts, meandring thro' a Course of seventy Miles in the Distance of twenty, the principal River here is the Tvel, which falls into if former about half Way between Bedford & S. Neots.

Representatives in Parliament are only four, two for the County, and two for the fingle Borough

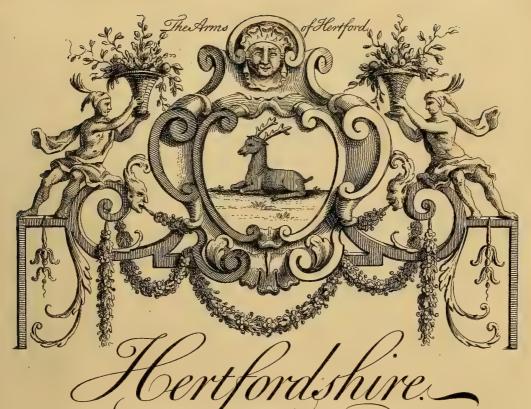

Bedford.

This Town is well built, especially the High Street, and very populous. There is now a fine Bowling-Green, where the Castle formerly flood. Dunstable, a well inhabited Place, has no Springs, but is well fupplied always with Rain Water from four Public Ponds. Woburn, almost consumed by Fire, has been handsomely rebuilt within these few Years past.

Curiofities in Bedfordshire are, Roman Urns at Sandy, & Coins both there & near Dunstable; Maidin-Bourg, a large fortified Camp; a fmall Stream near Woburn, that gives Wood the Appearance of Stone. Some Years ago a Gold Mine was discover'd at Pollux-Hill, which is now neglected, the Profit falling short of the Expence?

Noblemen's Seats are, Woburn Abbey, the Duke of Bedford's (His Grace, now first Lord of the Admiralty, having here a fine Yatcht, in a most Magnificent Bason) Wrest-house, the Honourable M." Yorke's; who Married the Marchioness de Grey, Heiress of the last Duke of Kent; at Ampthill, the Earl of Ailesbury's; Bletsoe, Lord S.! John's of Bletsoe; Hannes, Earl Granville's; & Bromhall, Lord Trevor's.—

j'.

Probably so called from Hert (Hart) and Ford, is bounded on the North by Cambridgeshire, on the East by Efsex, on the South by Middlefex, and on the West by the Counties of Buckingham and Bedford.

The Air is fo clear and healthy, that it is commonly) recommended by Physicians to Valetudinarians, on which account Lands fell here at an extraordinary Price. The Soil is for the most part rich, but in the northern Parts has a Mixture of Marl; which makes it produce excellent Wheat & Barley; & these, with Malt and Wood, are the chief Commodities. The Pastures & Meadows are reckoned but indifferent: Nor are here any considerable Manufactures.

Principal Rivers are the Lea, which for the most Lart divides this County from Efsex, and the Coln, which crosses the West Bart of the County from North to South.

Befides

THE RELEASED STRUCTURED

In the second of the second for the first

My water the state of the state of the state of the

The Marie of the same

The state of the s

Bilip Alexander

HERTFORDSHIRE.

Besides the two Knights of the Shire, here are only four Burgefses chosen to the Darliament, for the Towns of Hertford, and S. Albans.

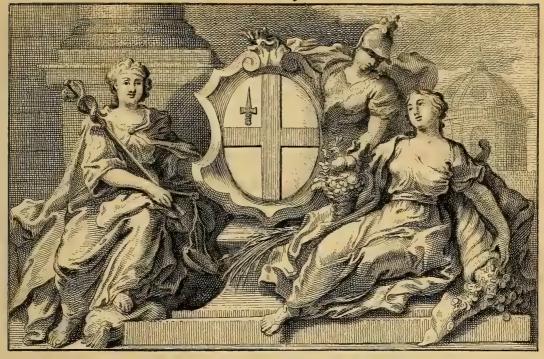

Hertford, the Shire Town, formerly famous, has loft much of its ancient Grandure to Ware, thro' which now runs the great Northern Road, and from whence there is good Navigation to London. The Site of S. Albans is near that of the antient-Verulamium, the Capital of King) Cafsibelan when Julius Cafar invaded this Island.

The present Town is large, handsome, and populous, — having three Churches: That remaining of the Abbey is much visited by Travellers.

Curiofities are, the Body of Humphrey the good Duke of Gloucester, found in the faid Abbey Church; Great Variety of Coins and Urns at Eftree; Veins of Sea Sand, with Mufcles among it, three Miles from Rickman-fworth; Skeletons found between Caldecot & Henxworth, with Urns, Pateras, & Lacrymatories near them; & the Remains of a large Roman Camp in Harborough Field.

Noblemen's Seats are, Holy-Well at S. Albans, the late Dutchefs of Marlborough's, now the Honourable M. Spencer's; Aldenham, the Duke of Newcastle's; Hatfield, the Earl of Salisbury's; Cashiobury, the Earl of Efsex's; Coln-Green, Earl Comper's; Standon, Lord Afton's; Langley, Lord Raymond's; Totteridge, the Earl of Anglesea's; & Gorhambury, Lord Grimston's.

Middlelex.

Middlesex (so called from its Situation between the East, 2 West, and South Saxons) is bounded on the North by 2 Hertfordshire, on the East is divided from Essex by the 2 River Lea, on the South from Surrey by the Thames, and con the West from Buckinghamshire by the Coln.

The Air is extreamly Wholesom, not the great Ropulouscnefs of London making it more fubject to Epidemical Disceafes than other Rlaces, and the Country round it being a ?— (merc terrestrial Paradife. To this the Soil, which is generally)?

ca Gravel, is thought to contribute. For Corn it is equal to any?

Part of England, and for Rasture by Nature, and Gardening)— Chy Art, it excells if whole Kingdom. The chief Commodities—care Corn, Cattle, and Fruits, and the Manufactures too many)—
To be enumerated.

Besides the Lea above mentioned, which is Navigable? _ the

The state of the second of the second

A Commence of the

the Thames, with which no other Stream may compare, and the Coln, here are the River Brent, which falls into the Thames at Brentford, and the New River, which, being brought out of Hertfordshire by Art, fupplies the greatest Part of the City of London with Water.

The two County Members are by Act of Parliament chofen at Brentford, which fends no Burgefses. The other Representatives are only Six Citizens: For London, four......Westminster, two.

We Shall confider thefe united Cities as one, and divide them only when we come to fpeak of their Government.

In this large Senfe then London extends along the Thames about Seven Miles and a Half, but not with proportionable Breadth. It is one of the most antient, as well as the largest City in Great Britain. The Number of Houses is by some computed at near 150,000, and the Inhabitants at above a Million: But perhaps Southwark ought to be included in this Computation, as well as in some others that follow.

London abounds in all the Necessaries & Conveniences of Life, for which it is chiefly indebted to the Thames, that is Navigable below from the Sea up to the Bridge for large Ships, and from feveral inland Counties above for great flat bottom'd Barges. In a Word, the Universe affords fearce any Thing ufeful or curious, that is not here to be purchased.

The

To Deliver State of the Ber . Soul this

Middlesex.Zm

The Number of Parishes, within and without the Malls and Liberties, are near 140, for which there are upwards of 100 Churches, many Parishes being united since the great Fire in 1666. We do not give exact Numbers, because they continue increasing. Besides these the English Protestant Dissenters, and Foreign Christians of various Denominations, have many more than 100 Places of Worthip: Not to mention the Jens, who have two large Synagogues.

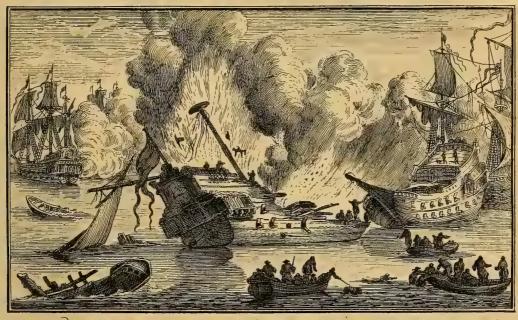

If Paul's Cathedral is one of the most magnificent, and Westminster Abbey one of the most venerable Structures in Europe: And it is observed in general of & Churches in London, that the for numerous, they are all different in & Building. But those, as well as the other Publick Edifices, are too much hid in the Closeness & Irregularity of the Streets: A Defect that the great Sir Christopher Wren would have remedied, after the satal Fire, if he could have got his new Plan of the whole City accepted.

The Number of fine Streets, many of them lately built, is very great; and of Squares, here is that fractious one of Lincolns Inn Fields, & the fine ones of S. James's, Handover, Großvenor, Cavendish, Soho, Red-Lyon, Bloomsburry, Golden, Devonshire, Leicester Fields, and many others. To mention Palaces & fuperb Houses would be almost endless. Let the Names of S. James's, Montague, Buck-ingham, Marlborough, Burlington, Devonshire, Southampton, Powis, Lindsey and Leicester Houses suffice on this Article.

The

MIDDLESEX.

The chief Fervel of London is Dit Coal from Newcaftle, which because brought up by Sea, is frequently called Sea Coal.

The Markets for Butchers Meet are Leadenhall, which alone might supply a large City, Whitechapple, the Borough in Southwark, Honey Lane, Newgate, the Fleet, Spittle-Tields, Brooks, Clare, Hungerford, Newport, St. James's, Carnaby, and several more at the Extremities.

Billingsgate is the sole great Market for Fish; Covent-Garden the principal for Vegetables; Queenhithe and Bearkey for Grain; Smithfield for live Cattle, Gran & Flay, the two latter-being also sold in the Haymarket & Whitechapple; Leaden hall for Hides & Leather; Blackwell Hall for Cloth, and all along & Thames for Timber, Stone, Coals, Wood, & other Commodities.

Conveniences in London, befides that of Water already mentioned, are the great Number of Boats, Carts, Coaches, and Chairs; by which Goods & Persons may be foon carried from one Part to another; and the Penny Poft, by which Business may be every Day transacted without going from home.

The

MIDDLE SEX.

The Citizens, who in Proper London, but not in Westminster, have an exclusive Charter, are divided into 62 Companies.— The twelve principal, from one of which every Lord Mayor used to be chosen, are, Mercers, Goldsmiths, Salters, Grocers, Skinners, Gronmongers, Drapers, Merchant Taylors, Vintners, Fishmongers, Haberdashers, Clothworkers.

The Walls of London are in most Parts demolished, but the Eight Gates are still remaining. Bishopfgate was not long fince rebuilt, and some of the rest have been lately repair'd and beautified. Newgate and Ludgate are Prisons, the former for the County, and the latter for insolvent Citizens.

Among the other Publick Buildings, we will mention only) the Tower, the CronnArfenal, Prifon, Mint, and Record-Office; the Custom House, where all Goods are entered; the London, Old Bridge, and the New one erecting at Westminster; the Monument, to perpetuate the Memory of & Tire; the Royal Exchange, where the general Trade of the Nation is chiefly) carried on; Westminfter & Guild Halls; the Invo Temples; Lincoln's Inn, Gray's Inn, Serjeants Inn, & the Eight Inns of Chancery; the Colleges of Civilians, Physicians, GreSham, the Royal Society, the London Clergy at Sion, & the Heralds at Arms; the Schools of Westminfter; St Pauls, Merchant Taylor's, & Mercer's Chapple; the Hospitals of Christ-Church, St Bartholomen's, Bedlam, St. Thomas's, Guy's, the Charter House, St. George's, Westminster; Chelsea

MIDDLESEX.

Chelfea College, & Bridewell; the New Bank, the South-Sea & Eaft India Houfes, & Offices of Treafury & Admiralty; to which might be added others not unworthy of Notice.

London is governed by a Lord Mayor (for whom a fine) Manfion House is now erecting) twenty Six Aldermen, who of late Years are all Justices, two Theriffs, a Recorder, Chamberlain, Common Council, and a great Number of Inferior Officers.

Here is a Selsions House, where the Sessions are held eight Times in a Year, for determining Criminal Causes within the City of London, and the County of Middlesex. In this Court the Lord Mayor sits as Judge, with the Recorder; but one or more of the 12 Judges, with some Aldermen, or other Justices of the Reace, are commonly on the Bench.

The Sefsions House for the Justices of Peace of Mid > dlesex is held at Hicks's Hall, in S! John's Street, in the Larish

Parish of Clerkennvell. Here the Grand Jury meets also eight Times a Year, to find the Bills of the Indictment of the Criminals, who are to be try'd thereupon at the Old Bailey.

Westminster has a High Steward, an Under Steward), a High Bailiff and Constable, and fourteen Burgefoes.

In the City and Liberties of Westminster are sen Parishes, viz. 1. Margaret's, 1. John the Evangelist's, 1. Martin's in the Fields, 1. James's, 1. George's Hanover Square, 1. Anne's, 1. Laul's Covent Garden, 1. Mary le Strand, the Precinct of the Savoy, and 1. Clement's Danes.

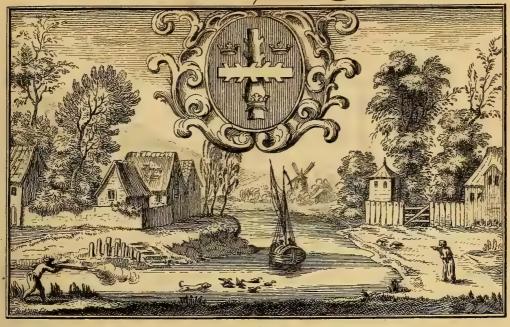

The chief Curiofities in Middlesex are, the Phyfick Garden at Chelfea, the High Crofs at Tottenham, & feveral Remains of Roman Antiquities.

Besides the Palaces of Kenfington & Hampton Court, this County has Sion-house, the Duke of Somerset's; Cannons, the Duke of Chandois's; Gerrard's Cross, Duke of Portland's; Holland-house, Earl of Warnvick's; Chiswick, Earl of Burlington's; Villa Carey, Earl of Peterborough's; Cransford, Earl of Berkeley's; with others too numerous to be here inserted.

The state of the s

The Arms of Colchester

TESSEX.

Essex is bounded on the East by the German Ocean, on the South it is divided by the Thames from Kent, on the West from Middlesex and Hertfordshire by the Lea, and on the North from Suffolk by the Stour. Other principal Rivers are & Coln, & Blackwater, & the Chelmer.

The Air in the Hundreds, towards the Thames, is a so bad, that a Rerson born elsowhere can seldom live in it. Hence many Farmers drive a kind of Traffic in Wives, which they inveigle from the Uplands; and forme have bury'd one in a Year to the Number of ten or twelve. This gives if whole a County an indifferent Character, tho' forme of the Northern and Western Parts are equal to Middlesesx or Hertfordshire. In The Soil in general is very good, and particularly famous about Saffron-Walden for bearing if best Saffron in Europe. Fish, especially Oysters, are here in great Olenty, as also Corn, and above all a prodigious Quantity of Bays.

Besides _

Besides the two Knights of the Shire, Efsex fends two Members to Parliament for each of the following Boroughs: Colchester, Harwich, Maldon.

Chelms ford, near the Center of the County, tho' no Borough, is the chief Resort of the Gentry, and the Place where most of the County Business is transacted. But Colchester far exceeds it both in Grandure and Antiquity: It was distinguished in the Civil Wars for holding out a long Siege for & King, and was at last reduced by Famine to furrender at Discretion. Maldon was the ancient Camolodunum, the first Roman Colony in Great Britain, settled by the Emperor Claudius. Harwich is well known for being the Passage to Holland and Flanders.

Curiofities in this County are the Roman Urns found at Layton; the Barrows, or pyramidal Hills, erected by Canute near Saffron-Walden; the Caverns formerly Granaries at East-Tillvury; a Roman Lamp and Urns, found at Coggeshall; King Harold's Coffin, found at Waltham-Abbey, with this plain Infeription, Harold Infelix! & petrifying Spring near Harwich, which makes & Clay Walls of that Town like Stone; the Custom of Dunmow Parva, where a Flitch of Bacon was given to the Man, who, a Year and a Day after Marriage, should make outh, with his Knees upon two pointed Stones, that he had neither repented nor quarrel'd with his Wife: (The Record mentions three Men who within 500 Years won this Flitch;) the Breach at Dagenham, that laid 5000 Acres of Land under Water, but which, after near ten Years Inundation, was at last effectually Stopp'd by Capt. Perry; Lawlefs Court in the Honour of Raleigh, a very fingular kind of Tenure; & the Ruins of a Roman City at Chefterford, where the Foundations of a Temple are very visible.

ESSEX

Noblemen's Seats here are New-hall, Duke, of Montagu's; Havering, Duke, of Ancaster's; Leigh's Driory, Duke, of Manchester's; It Ofyth, Earl of Rochford's; Wanstead, Earl Tilney's; Navestock, Earl Waldegrave's; Audley-End, Earl of Suffolk's; Moulsham-hall, Earl of Fitz-Walter's; Thorn-don, Lord Petre's; Tuffs, Lord Barrington's.

Co Suffolk. De

Juffolk, or Southfolk, fo called from its Situation in respect of Norfolk, is divided from y laft mentioned County) by the Rivers Waveney and Brandon, or Little Oufe: On the East it has y German Ocean, on the South y Stour, which Leparates it from Efsex, and on the West Cambridgeshire. Other Rivers are the Deben, and the Orwell.

The Air of Suffolk is clear & wholefom, which is owing to the clean and fandy Nature of the Shore. The Soil in the Noodlands is a rich deep Clay & Marl: Towards Efsex and Cambridgeshire it has excellent Pasture, and from about Bury to the North & North West affords plenty of Corn. Here was first fet on Foot that great Improvement of feeding Sheep and Cattle on Turnips. Butter & Cheefe are & chief Commodities, the latter fuffering much in Quality to enrich the former: Yet this Cheefe is thought very proper for long Noyages, because of its Dryness. The principal Manufactures are Moollen & Linen Cloths.

Besides

OSUFFOLK.

Besides the two Knights of the Shire, Suffolk fends two Burgefses for each of the following Boroughs.

Ipswich, Dunwich, Orford,

Aldborough, Sudbury, Eye,

I. Edmunds Bury.

Ipfwich, in its most flourishing Condition, had no less than 21 Churches, and has now twelve. It is at present a neat well-built Town, & exceeds in Extent several of our Cines. The Trade, the decay'd within if Memory of Man, is still considerable. Large Ships are brought up by the Tide within a small Distance of if Town. The Marketplace is large: The Town-hall and Council-Chamber make a good Appearance.

S. Edmunds-Bury, so called from Edmund King of y East Angles, who after having been barbaroufly Murder'd by the Danes, and bury'd there, was beautifully rebuilt by Canute y Danish King by way of Atmement. It is delightfully Situated on a rising Ground, commanding very different yet charming Profpects. The Streets are laid out so regularly that most of them cross one another at right Angles. The Guild-hall, Shire-house, Free-school, Wooll-hall, Market-Cross, and Abbey Gate, are remarkably magnificent. At S. Matthen's Fair this Town is a general Rendezvous of all the Nobility & Gentry in the neighbouring Counties, who flock hither for Diversion, as well as to-lay out their Money.

Curiofities in this County are feveral Monuments of Antiquity, particularly at Dunnrich, Ikelingham, Bliburg, Bliburg, Burg-Castle, and Felixton. Southwold-Cape is if most Easterly Loint of the nhole Island. Dunwich was once a Bishop's See, thence translated to Thetford, & thence to Norwich. Land-guard-Fort, on the South of this County, over against Harwich, is a Royal Fortress. Framlingham, Rendelsham, & Bungey, have also been strong Places in former Times. By the Tenure of Hemingstone. Manor, the Lord was obligid every Christmas Day to exhibit a Saltus, a Sufflatus, and a Bombalus; that is, to Cut a Caper, puff with his Cheeks, and let a Fart.

Noblemen's Seats are, Euston & Livermore Halls, both the Duke of Grafton's; Icknorth, Earl of Bristol's; Efton, Earl of Rockford's; Helmingham-hall, Earl of Dysart's; Sudborn-Hall, Viscount Hereford's; Gulforth-Hall, Lord Cornnallis's; and Denham-hall, Viscount Townshend's.

The Arms of the City of Norwich.

NORFOLK.

Norfolk, or Northfolk, so called from its Situation, in respect of Suffolk, is divided from this last mention'd County by the Rivers Waveney and Brandon; from Cambridge & Lincoln Shires by the Fen Drains; and on the North and East it is wash'd by 'g German Ocean. Other Rivers here are the Yare, the Ouse, and the Thirne. The Thirne, Yare, and Waveney fall into the Ocean by one Mouth.

The Air of this County is sharp and piercing, which throws if Seafons backwarder than is usual in if same Latitude:

But the Inland Country is very healthy. In Soil it has greater Variety than any other one County in England: Arable, Lashure, Meadon, Woodlands, light-Sand, deep Clays, Heath and Fens, are all here to be found; and even the worst of them fur from being unprofitable. Chief Commodities are Corn, Cattle, Wool, Rabbits, Honey, Saffron, and Herrings, with some Jet & Amberthrown up on the Sea Coasts. The Manufactures are Worsted), Woollens, in office of a letter, a shipling of the first in a literal or in a property of the office of the state of th

27.000

Secretarian Contraction of the C

Norfolk.

Woollens, and Silk, which employ the Inland Country, as the Fishery, Commerce, and Navigation do the Ports.

Thetford, and Castle-Rising.

Norwich stands upon the Yare, which is so far Navigable without Art. It has many Years been a large & populous City, and so long ago as 1348 lost upwards of 57,000 Inhabitants by a Pestilence. At present it has 32 Parishes, & a Wall near three Miles in Circuit. The Flemings, who in Queen Elizabeth's Time set up here the Wootlen Manufacture, laid the Foundation of the present Wealth of this City. As the Inhabitants are many, so are they remarkable for Industry; and most of their Business being within Doors, the Streets of a Working day look as if the Place was thinly peopled, but of a Sunday are perfectly crouded. It is thought the Wootlen and Silk Manufactures, in and near this City, employ 120,000 People. The Cathedral is large, and has a high Spire; but most of the Monuments in it were destroy'd in the Civil Wars.

Lynn-Regis, or King's Lynn, stands upon the East Bank of the Mouth of the Ouse, and has 15 Bridges over four fmall Rivulets that run thro' it. At the North End of the Town is S. Anne's Fort, with a Platform of 12 large Guns, that commands all the Ships passing near the Harbour. The Inhabitants, as their Situation indicates, are great Merchants:

For

Hearing

Pilis Comments.

Minion !

Mirror .

South the many it for it stations .

The say a relief to the stands of the string that in court now this they as plant on a constraint with the start of the or near do word in the thin

mi-tieger, we himpor

Same Market and Market and Control

in servicia

TORESTA

For by means of feveral Rivers which fall into the Sea in this Neighbourhood, they fupply Six Counties entirely, and part of three others, with most Commodities: Wine and Coals, in particular, they deal in more than any other Corporation in England, except London, Bristol, and Newcastle. They have feveral stately Edifices, and supply their Deficiency of fresh Water-by Conduits and Pipes. One of their Customs is truly laudable, and would, if practised by all the County, take off its Reproach of Litigiousness. It is their Feast of Reconciliation, held the first Monday in every Month, when if Magistrates & Ministers assemble together, to adjust amicably all Controversies.

There are two Churches in this Town, besides St. NiCholas's Chapel of Ease, a Presbyterian, & a Quaker's Meeting-House, with a Bridewell, or Work-House, and several Alms-Houses, a Free-Ichool, a good Custom-House, with a convenient Quay.

Yarmouth

- 40011804

Norfolk.

Yarmouth has one of the finest Quays in the World, that of Marseilles not excepted, upon the Confluence of the Thirne, Yare, and Waveney before mentioned. No Town, in proportion to its Bignefs, has a larger Share of Commerce, upwards of 1100 Ships belonging to this Place alone. In some Years not lefs than 40 Millions of Herrings have been here cured. The Inhabitants have a great Reputation for fair Dealing: They are many, have two Parish Churches, feveral very good Buildings, and a noble Market-place.

Venta Icenorum, now a fmall Village three Miles South of Norwich, was formerly a Roman City. Other Curiofities are, the antient Tenure by Soccage at Germing-ham, where the Tenant pays his Rent by so many Days Labour. Worsted gave name to the Worsted Manufacture, fo very beneficial to England. Roman Coins, and other Monuments of Antiquity, have been found at feveral Places. At Castle-Rising all Testaments, according to the Norman Custom, are proved before the Parson of the Parish. But the greatest Curiofity was the travelling Bed of Sand, which came out of Suffolk into this County, cover'd near two thoufand Acres of Land, Sat last was flop'd by if River Ouse.

Novlemen's Seats here are Norwich Palace, & Duke of Norfolk's; Houghton-Hall, Earl of Orford's; Raynham, and Stifflay, Viscoun+ Townshend's; at Castle-Rising, Lord Dudley's; & Bliching, Lord Hobart's.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

Cambridgeshire is bounded on the North by Lincolnshire, on the East by Norfolk & Suffolk, on the West by the Counties of Huntingdon & Bedford, and on the South by those of Essex and Hertford. Its chief Rivers are the Ouse, which divides it from East to North West, & the Cam, from a Bridge over which & Capital has its Name, as the whole County has from the Capital.

Here is great Variety of Air & Soil; the Southern & Eastern Parts being pleasant & healthy, and the Northern, or Fens, low, watery, and unwholesome. Corn, Cattle, Butter, Cheefe, Coleseed, Hemp, Fish, Fowl, Freestone, Vitriol, and Saffron are the chief Commodities; and the principal Manufactures, Paper and Basket-Work. Saintfoin makes a great Improvement in the Dry and Barren Parts of this County.

Of the Six Members of Parliament, two are for the County, and the other four for Cambridge Town, and University?

Ely, tho'a City, chuses no Representatives. It is chiefly remarkable for its Cathedral Church, and great Plenty of Provisions.

Cambridge

Cambridgeshire.

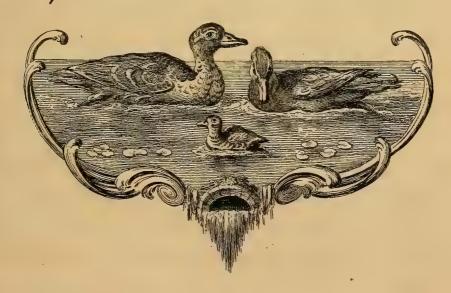

Cambridge is very Antient, and had formerly a fl	rong Castle).
It has now fourteen Parish Churches, and a very plent
The River Cam divides it into two Larts. The Uni that of Oxford, is governed by a Chancellor and Vice C	hancellor:
- Here are 16 Colleges or Halls, 406 Fellowfhips, 660 St	cholarships, and 236 Exhibitions. The Colleges &c. run in the follo	ming Order.
Tiames. Founders. whe	n founded.
1. Peter-house Bishop Hugh Balsham	1257.
2. Clare-Hall Richard Baden
3. Pembroke-HallCountefs of Pembroke
4. Bennet, or Corpus Christi Friers of Corpus Christi	1346.
5. Frinity-HallBishop William Bateman	1353.
6. Gonvil & Caius College_Edmond de Gonvil	1348.
7. King's CollegeKing Henry VI	1441.
8. Queen's College?Queen Margaret of Anjou	1448.
9. Catharine-Hall Richard Woodlark	1459.
10. Jefus College Bishop John Alcock	1497.
11. Christ's College (Countefs of Richmond),	1506.
12. S. John's College
13. Magdalen College Thomas Lord Audley	1542.
14. Trinity CollegeKing Henry VIII.	1546.
15. Emanuel CollegeSir Walter Mildmay	1582.
16. Sidney-fußex College Frances Sidney, Countefs of Suße
Newmarket, on y Edge of this County, is chiefly re	4 . 4 for its Horferaces,& the odd Mixhure of Company attending Wisbich, from its conveniency of Water Carriage, has i Curiofities

Cambridgeshire.

Curiofities here are, if Remains of a British Camp, on the Top of Goymagog Hills; the Decoys, employed for intrapping wild Water Fowl, of which one only is fometimes supposed to fend to London 3000 Couple in a Week; Sturbridge Fair, remarkable for its great Trade, kept 14 days in Septem. in if Fields adjacent to Cambridge, and so called from the little Brook Stour; but above all for the draining of the Fens, a Level of about 300,000 Acres, with a Soil from ten to twenty Foot deep. Part of it lies in the Counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, Huntingdon, Northampton, and Lincoln; but the most in Cambridgeshire. A prodigious Profit arises from what has been recovered by the Drains, and if the whole Spot were equally improved, the Advantage, both to the Cultivators and Government, would be almost immense.

The Noblemen's Seats are, Thorney Abbey, the Duke of Bedford's; Horfe-heath-hall, Lord Montford's; Cheveley, the Duke of Somerset's; Gogmagog, Earl of Godolphin's; and Wimple-Hall, the Lord Chancellor Hardwick's.

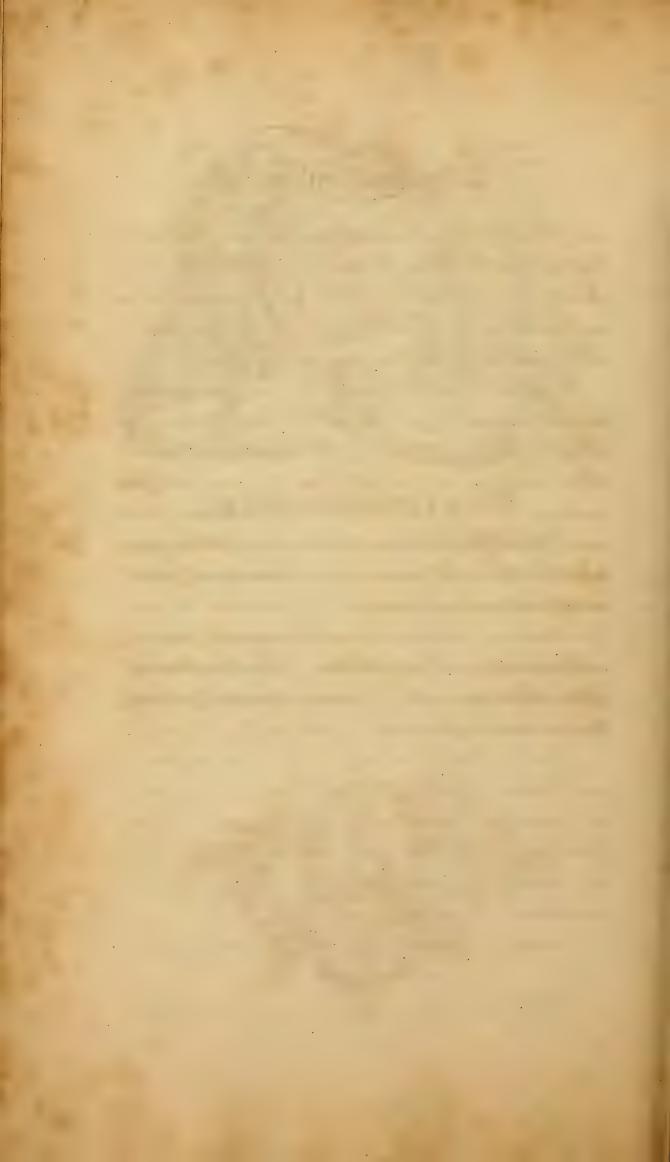

HUNTINGDONSHIRE.

This County is bounded on the West and North-West by 2. Northamptonshire, on the East and North-East by Cambridgeshire, and on the South by Bedfordshire. Its principal Rivers are the Oufe and the Nen, upon the former of which frands the Capital. As the Shires of Huntingdon and Cambridge, with the Ifle of Ely, are under the fame Sheriff, they nominate him alternately.

By reason of the Fens and Meers, the Air is but indefferent as to Health, except on the South-West parts, which are dryer. The Soil is very fertile, in the Low Lands for Pasturage, and in the Up-Grounds for Corn. Stilton Cheese is particularly famous. Other chief Commodities are Grain, Cattle, Fish, and Fowl. Here are no considerable Manufactures.

once

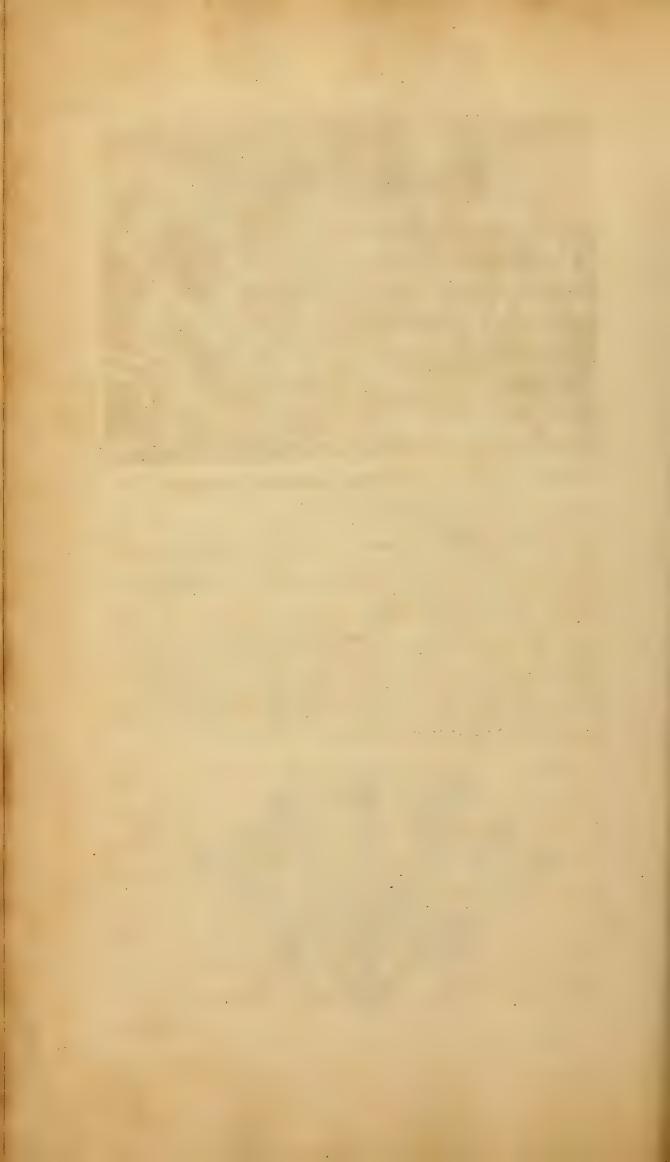

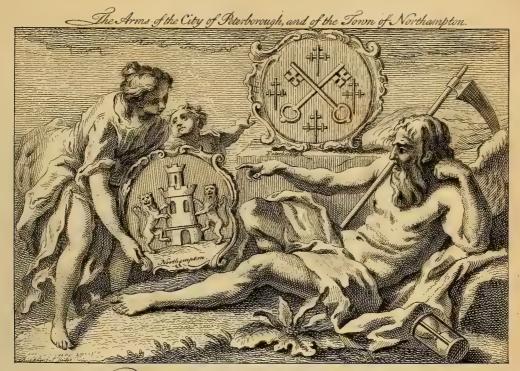

once fifteen Parishes, now reduced to two. It had a fine Castle, built by Edward the Elder, but demolished by Henry II. The choaking up of the River, whereby the Navigation was lost, coccafions the Decay of Huntingdon, y People of which now fubfist chiefly from their Situation on the great Northern Road.

Curiofities are two Springs near S. Neots, one brackish the other fresh, and both Medicinal; the delightful Profpect from Huntingdon Castle-Hill, over Portsholm Meadow; Roman Vestiges at Godmanchester; a Farm at S. Jves, husbanded by Cromwell before he obtained a Seat in Parliament; Whittlefey-Meer, on the North Edge of the County, near Six Miles in Length and Three in Breadth, and Subject to very tempestious Agitations.

Noblemen's Seats are, Kimbolton-Castle, Duke of A Manchester's; Hinchinbrook, Earl of Sandnrich's; Long-Overton, Earl of Lincoln's; Great-Gedding, Earl of Rockingham's; and Bugden, Bifhop of Lincoln's.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

Northamptonshire borders upon more Counties than any other in England: For on the North it touches Leicester Shire, Rutland Shire, and Lincoln Shire; on the East, Bed ford-shire, Huntingdon Shire, and Cambridge Shire; on the West, Warwick Shire, and Oxford Shire; and on if South, Buckingham Shire. The Nen, which runs almost throthe midst of the County, and the Welland, which borders it on the North, are the principal Rivers.

The Air is very healthy, entirely free from Bogs and Fens, except in the little Corner of Reterborough Hundred; which makes it crouded with Seats of the Nobility & Gentry, as well as Towns and Villages. The Soil, fertile both for Tillage and Pasturage, is deficient in Nothing but Fuel, which the want of Water Carriage creates a difficulty in procuring from other Parts. In & whole County there is but one barren Heath. The Commodities are Corn, Cattle, Sheep, and Horses: The Manufactures, Serges, Tammies, Shalloons,

.

Northamptonshire.

Shalloons, Boots, and Shoes.

Befides the two Knights, this County fends two Members each for Northampton Peterborough Brackley.

And for ____ Higham Ferrers ____ only one .

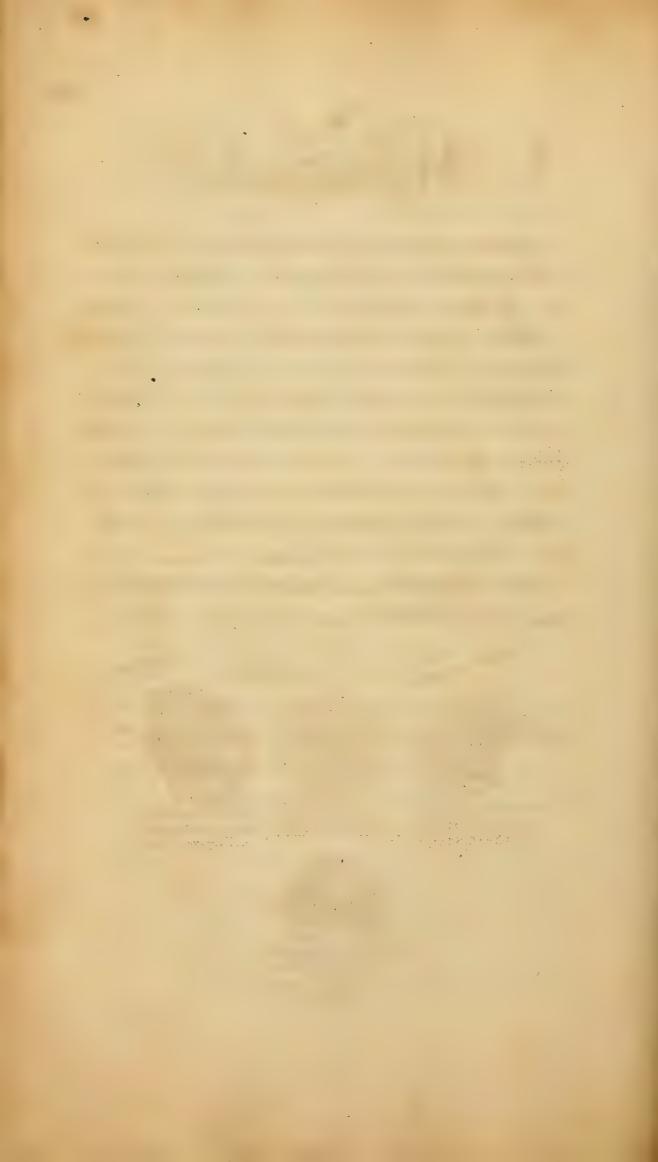

Northampton, thro' the melancholy Accident of having been burnt to y Ground is become one of the handfomest Towns. in England, about the Middle of which it frands. The Streetsare well laid out, and the Churches, effecially All-hallows, at which four large Streets terminate, are worthy of Notice. The Market-place is regular & spacious, and the Horse-market exceeds all others in England. The George Inn, belonging to the Poor, is remarkable, as are also the Rublick Buildings.

Peterborough, the least City, and Seat of the poorest Bishoprick in all England, is however remarkable for its Cathedral, one of the noblest & most antient Gothic Buildings in Europe.

Curiofities. The antient Fofs Cordyke, below Leterborough, was made by the Romans to drain the Fens: The Forty-Foot Roman Way alfo begins at Peterborough.

Other Roman Antiquities are at Caftor, Goldsborough, Daventry, and Chester: A+Oxendon is a remarkable Eccho; at Culworth are found the Aftroites, or Star-frones; and in the fame Parts are good Mineral Waters. Nafeby is thought a Contraction of Navelfly, fignifying it to be if Navel or Middle of England: But it is more remarkable for y Defeat there given to King Charles I, by Fairfax and Cromwell, which occafioned the Ruin of that Monarch's Affairs.

Noblemen's

Corthamptonshire.

Noblemen's Seats are, Grafton-Regis, Duke of Grafton's; Althorp, Duke of Marlborough's; Boughton, Duke of Montagu's; Burleigh, Earl of Exeter's; Caftle-Abbey, Earl of Northampton's; Easton, Earl of Northampton's; Easton, Earl of Pomfrets'; Easton-Maudit, Earl of Sufsex's; Dean, Earl of Cardigan's; Rockingham-Caftle, Earl of Rockingham's; Aftwell, Earl Ferrers's; Horton, Earl of Halifax's; Apethorp, Earl of Westmoreland's; Drayton, Earl of Peterborough's; Harrington, Earl of Dysart's; Milton, Earl Fitzvilliams's; Newbottle, Earl of Thanet's; Boziate, Viscount Longueville's; Winnvicke, Lord Craven's; Paulsbury, Lord Bathurst's; Word ford, Lord St. John of Bletsho's; at Kirby, Viscount Hatton's.

- milionamilia 145

There is the property of the supplied on the second of the

Friday Company Just 1

Allering State of the second that

Leicestershire.

Leicestershire is bounded on the North by Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire; on the East, by the Counties of Lincoln and Rutland; on if South by Northamptonshire, and on the West by Warnrickshire. Four Rivers, if Avon, the Stour, the Anker, and the Welland, which all rife in the South-West of this County, do afterwards take very different Courses. Of these the Stour, which receives the Wreke some Miles below Leicester, is the Stream to which the County is most beholden.

By lying at a proper Distance on every fide from the Sea, the Air of Leicestershire is very fiveet and wholfome. It has a great many Streams, but no large flanding Waters. — Except in the North-East, the Soil is very good, and peculiarly famous for Beans: But the North-East is better provided with Firing than the South West, and feeds abundance of excellent. — Sheep.—

Leucestershire.

Sheep. Other Commodities are Corn, Fish, Flesh, Fowl, Wool, _ and Horses for the Collar. The chief Manufacture is that of Stockings.

Leicestershire fends four Members to Darliament, two for the County, and two for the Borough of Leicester: ____

Leicester is an old Town, a great many Roman Antiquities being found in and about it. It was a Bishop's See — under the Kings of Mercia, and at the Conquest in a very — flourishing Condition. At prefent it is large and populous, — has five Parishes, and a great many good Buildings about the — Caftle, which demands the first Place among the Curiofities of — the County: It was built by Henry the first Duke of Lane—cafter for his Refidence, & contain'd an Enclosure of 26 Acres, — within a thick Stone Wall eighteen Foot high. The Hall and — Kitchen are yet remaining, the first ferving most amply for the — County Business.

Other Curiofities are, the famous Roman-Walling-street—
Way, the Boundary between this County and Warnvickshire;

the Remains of some large Buildings near Borough, supposed to have been a Lagan Temple; a Well near Lutter; worth (of which John Wickliff was formerly Rector) that;

petrifies Wood; the Field near Bosnorth, in which Richard,

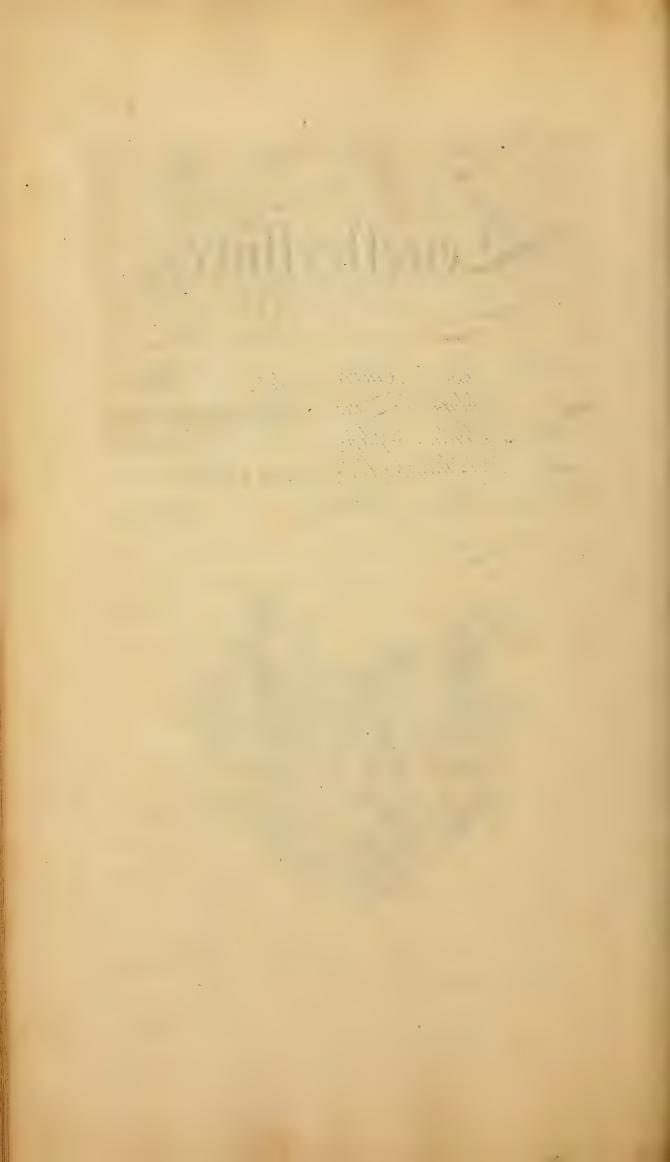

III lost his Crown and his Life; and a beautiful Biece of Mosaic—
Work, found near Leicester some Years since, that represented—the Fable of Action.

Noblemen's _

Noblemen's Seats are, Garrenton, Duke of Montagu's; at Afhly-de-la Zouch and Dunnington, Earl of Huntingdon's; Stapleford, Earl of Harborough's; Groby, Earl of Stamford's; Stanton-Harold, Earl Ferrers's; Stanton-Brudenel, Earl of Cardigan's.

The Arms of the Town of Okeham.

RUTLANDSHIRE.

The fmalleft County in England, said to be so called from one Roet, who obtain'd of a Mercian King this fpot, by riding round it in a Day, is bounded on the North & North-Eaft by Lincolnfhire, on the South and South-Eaft by North-amptonfhire, and on the West & South-West by Leicester = Thire. Its Rivers are the Welland, which bounds it almost half the Circuit, the Guash, and a great many fmall Streams that fall into These.

England has no better Air than this County affords. —
The Soil is exceeding fertile, efpecially in the Vale of Catmofs. —
The chief Commodities are Corn, Cattle, Wool, and Wood. —
Members of Parliament it fends only y two Knights of the Shire.

Okeham, the County Town, fituate in the Vale of Cat-mofs, has a fine Church, Free-School, and Hofpital, with fome Remains of an antient Caftle, built by Walkelin-de-Ferrariis, who, bore a Horseshoe for his Arms. Hence comes the antient

Cuftom

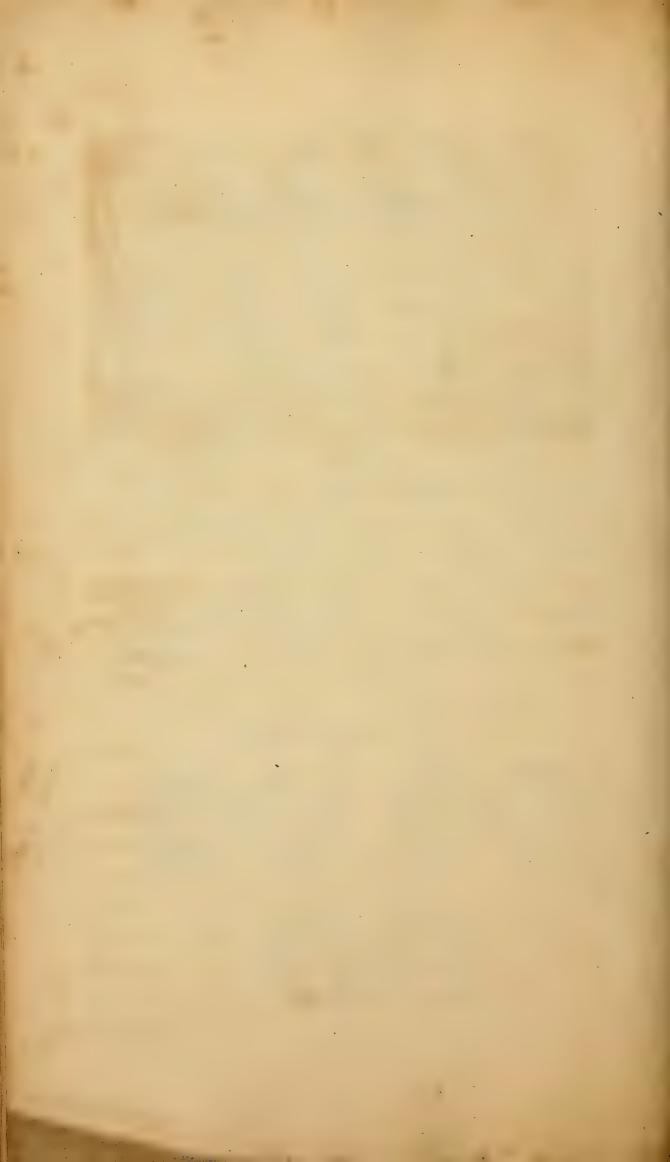

Custom of this Town, which still substists, for every Baron, the first time he passes thro' it, to forfit a Shoe from his Florse, or redeem it by paying for another. This Redemption Price is sometimes so high, that the Shoe which commemorates it is gilt with Gold. They are all fix'd up, with y respective Noblemen's Names, at the Castle Gate?

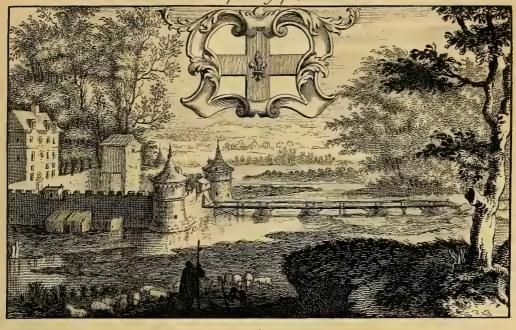

Curiofities here are, Roman Coins at Market-Overton, the antient Maradunum; and the Cuftom of Kelton, where every Inhabitant pays two Shillings a Year to the Sheriff, which is faid to be for the Queen's Boots.

Noblemen's Seats are, Martinsthorp, Earl of Denbigh's; Burleigh on the Hill, Earl of Winchelsea's; L Exton, Earl of Gainfborough's; Afton, Earl of Cardigan's.

Roman Coins.

LINCOLNSHIRE.

Bounded on the North by the Humber Aftuary, which divides it from Yorkshire; on y East by y German Ocean; on the South by the Counties of Cambridge, Northampton, and Rutland; and on the West by Leicestershire, Nottinghamfhire, & Yorkfhire. The River Trent washes & Western Edge of this County, which has befides, the Witham, & the Welland. As Lincolnshire has three Divisions, the Air must be confidered according to each: In Holland, which lies partly under Water, it is moift & bad; in Kefteven, more healthy,as the Country is less fenny; in Lindsay, the dryest Part, generally healthy, especially on the Western Side. The Soil isvery rich, producing in the inland Parts plenty of Corn, and in the Fens excellent Pasture, which feeds the largest of Cattle. Thefe Cattle, Wool, Horfes, Fish, Fond, all in great Abundance, are the Commodities: And of late Years Hemp has been cultivated, in the Fens that have been drain'd, with very good fuccefs.

Lincolnfhire,

LINCOLNSHIRE.

Lincolnshive fends to Garliament two Knights, and two Citizens or Burgefses for each of the following Places.

Lincoln, Stamford, Grantham,

Bofton, and Grimfby. Lincoln, formerly the most flourishing City in Britain, is pleafantly fituated upon the Witham. The Romans, who found a Town here called Lincoit, extended the Buildings fouthward from the Top of the Hill. The Saxons also added to it continually, and it was often besieged by the Danes. At the Conqueft a ftrong Caftle was built here, which made it frequently i Seat of if War between King Stephen and y Emprefs Maud. The Bifhop's See was removed hither from Dorchester in Oxfordfhire. It has a large Gothie Cathedral, but none of the most beautiful. In its prefent frate the Buildings are generally old, tho'in the upper Part there are feveral good modern Houses. It has fifteen Parifh Churches, which are all that are left out of fiftytwo, & enjoys Liberties, as a County, 20 Miles in Circumference.

Stamford, on the River Welland, was once a flourishing City, and for fometime an University. At prefent it confifts of Six Parifhes: The Inhabitants are numerous & wealthy, and the Buildings neat. Here are still the Remains of two Colleges.

Bofton, near y Sea on the River Witham, is fuppofed to have the largeft Parifh Church without Ailes in y World, being in y clear 300 Foot long & 100 wide: It has 365 Steps, 52 Windows,

Willes Sinhing

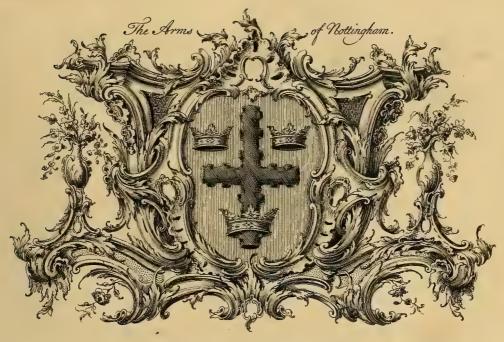

Lincolnshire.

and 12 Pillars, answering to the Days, Weeks, and Months in the Year: The Tower near 300 Foot high, is of great use to Mariners, as it may be seen at 40 Miles distance.

Curiofities are, a Roman Camp at Hunnington, called Julius Cæfar's Camp; the Remains of Thornton-Abbey, near the Humber; the famous triangular Bridge, at Crowland-Abbey. Here have been found, if Skeleton of a Crocodile, fix'd in a flat Stone; the Skeleton of a Man, with a Fable, Book, and Candleflick, fupposed to be immured for fome great Crime; a Golden Helmet, discover'd by a Ploughman; Roman Coins, and many other Rarities.

Noblemen's Seats are, Belvoir-Castle, Duke of Rutland's; Grimfthorp, Duke of Ancafter's; Eferby, Earl of Briftol's; Bolingbroke-Caftle, late Lord Visc! Bolingbroke's; Knath, Lord Willoughby's of Larham; Belton, Lord Tyrconnel's; and two of y Earl of Lincoln's.

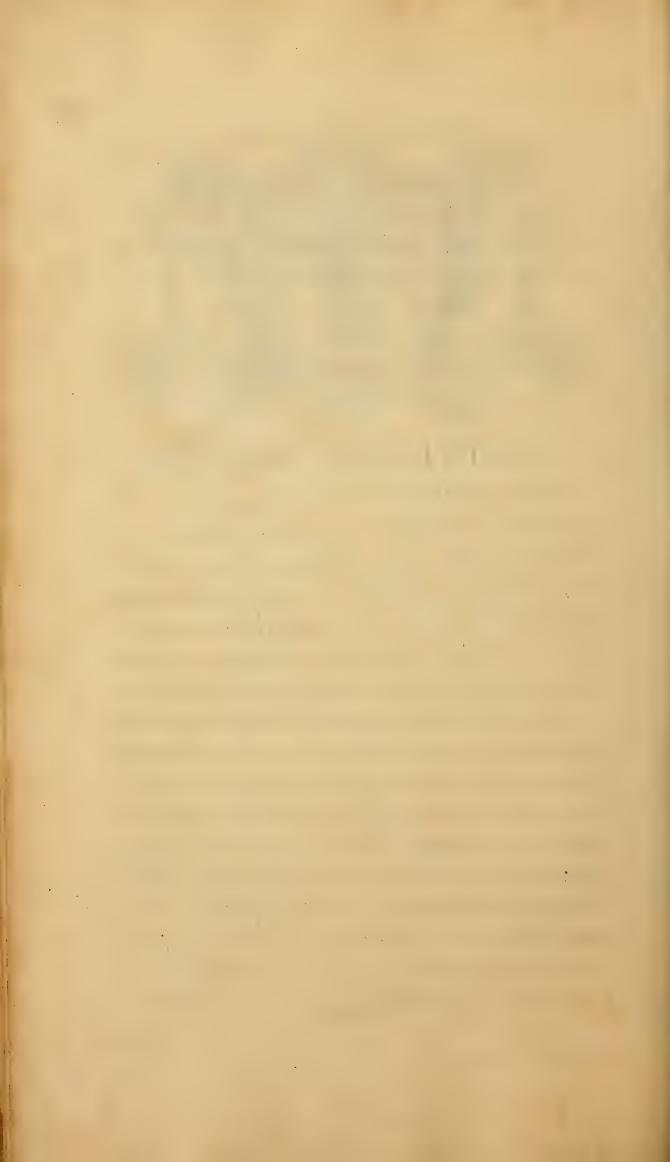

NOTTINGHAMSHIRE.

Nottingham shire is remarkable for being bounded on y four Cardinal Points of y Compass, by four single Counties, a Circumstance which is not found in any other County in England. It has on the North Yorkshire, on y East Lincolnshire, on the South Leicestershire, and on the West Derbyshire. The principal Rivers are Trent and Talle, the first of which receives y latter at the North Extremity of this County, and then running forwards till it meets with other Waters, it contributes largely to make that great Confluence or Estuary called y Humber.

The Air is very healthy, & the Soil various. On the Eaftern fide it yields great plenty of Grafs and Corn; but y Western Parts are mostly woody, & in some Places barren of every Thing but Coal. Enclosing of the Grounds, contrary to what is observed of other Counties, is here thought pernicious. The chief Commodities are Corn, Malt, Wool, Liquorice, Coal, Wood, Fish, & Fowl, with a Stone that when burnt makes an excellent Plaiser. The Manufactures are Stockings, Glafs, and Earthen Ware.

Befides

Cottinghamshire

Befides the two Knights of the Shire, two Burgefses are elected here for each of the following Towns.

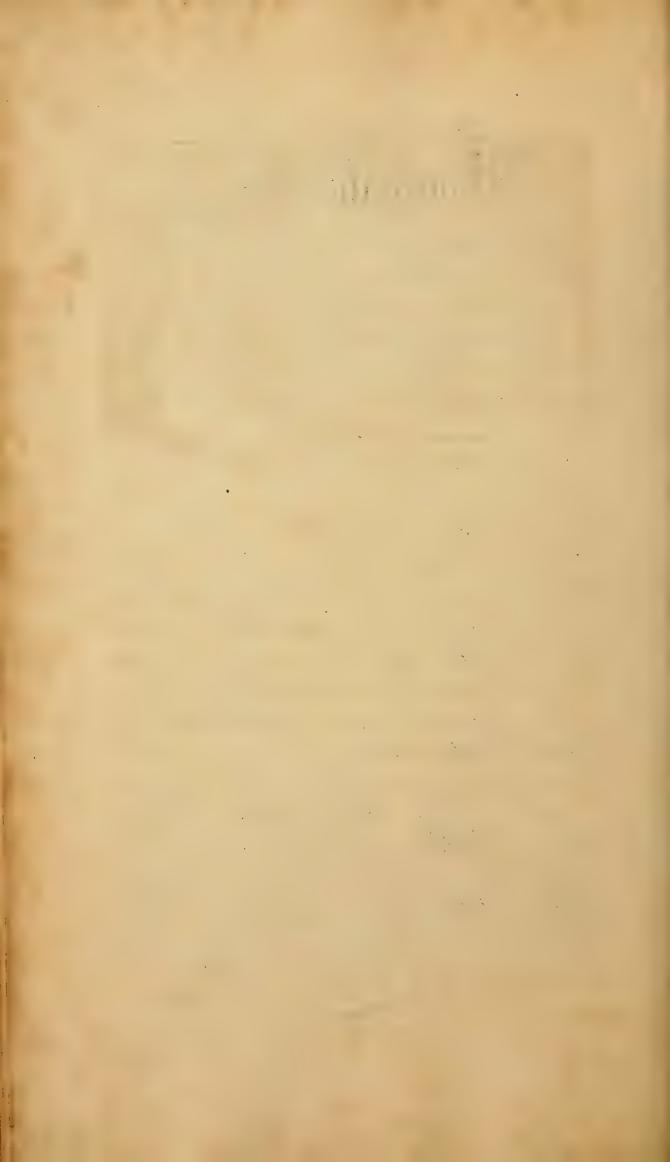

Nottingham is pleafantly fituated on y afcent of a Rock, about a Mile North of Trent, overlooking the delightful Meadows that border that River. It is, as the Name in Saxon fignifies, a Town of Dens or Caves, which are cut into y Rock, in fome Places two or three under one another, to the Depth of 70 or 80 Steps. This Convenience of Cellarage, & the Goodnefs of their Malt, enables the Inhabitants to brew excellent Ale, of which they make confiderable Profit by fending it to different Parts. Here is a good Caufeway, with Arches at proper Diffances, acrofs the Meadows from the Town to the Trent, over which

Among the Curiofities are reckon'd Littleborough and Long-Billington, both Places of Note among if Romans, and now affording great Numbers of Coins, & other Antiquities.

there is a noble Stone Bridge. The Town is large & well built, having a frately Market-Place, & a Town-house erected upon Riazzas.

Noblemen's Seats are, Workfop-Manor-Houfe, the Duke of Norfolk's; Nottingham-Caftle, g Duke of Newcaftle's; Thoresby, the Duke of Kingfton's; Shelford-Abbey, the Earl of Chefter field's; Wol-lerton-Hall, Lord Middleton's; Newftead-Abbey and Linby, both Lord Byron's.

The Arms of Derby Town.

DERBYSHIRE.

This County, which lies in the Middle of England, borders on the North upon Yorkfhire, on the East upon Nottinghamfhire, on the South upon Leicestershire & Warwickfhire, and on the West upon Staffordfhire and Chefhire. Its principal River is the Derwent, which crosses it from North-West to South-East: Besides which it has the Dove, in great Part its Western Boundary, the Erwash, and a little of the Trent and the Mersey.

The Eastern Parts of Derbyshire are pleafant & fertile, particularly in Barley: Nor is the Peak, or Western Part, deftitute of Commodities among its Wonders. It has, however, a sharper, more various, and confequently lefs wholefom Air than the more level Country. Produce of & whole, befides Grain and Grafs, is Lead, Antimony, Marble, Alabaster, a Coarfe fort of Chrystal, Iron, Pit-Coal, and Grindstones.

Only four Members are sent hence to Larliament, twofor the County, and two for the Capital Derby.

This

erbnihrre.

This Town stands on the Western Banks of if Dernvent, over which it has a good None Bridge. The Buildings are handfome, and the situation pleasant; which makes it a great Resort of the Gentry, especially those who reside in the less delightful Peak. Here is a stately Town-house, & sive Parish Churches. The Derby has a Staple for Wool, it is more remarkable at present for Malt and Ale. The Year just concluded, 1745, will be memorable in the Annals of Derby for the Progress thither of the Scotch Rebels, and their sudden Return from thence, after having alarmed London it self.

No County in England hath more Curiofities than this, tho' feveral have more Antiquities. The famous Throwing) Engine, erected by S. Thomas Lombe, late Alderman of London, at Derby it felf, merits a long Defcription. It has 26,586 Wheels, and 97,746 Movements, and with one Man can twist as much Silk, in a better Manner, than Fifty can do without it. Among the Wonders of Reak, feven are usually mentioned: Chatfworth, the Duke of Devonshire's fine Seat, looks like Laradife in the midst of a Wildernefs, and is therefore justly reckoned if first. The others are, Mam-Tor Mountain, which continually moulders away without any vifible Decrease of it felf, tho' it raises another Hill beneath; Elden-hole, a Chafm in y fide of a Mountain feven Yards wide, but unfathomable as to Depth, 884 Yards of Line having been let down into it without finding a Bottom; Buxton-Wells, where Cold and Hot Waters spring within 5 Foot of each other, the latter being thought preferable to those of Bath, and were in Esteem among the Romans; Tydeswal Spring, which at unequal Times ebbs and flows with a gurgling Noise; Pools-Hole, which opens within like a Gothic Cathedral, and exhibits various Representations thro'y petrifying of the Waters that dishil from the Top and Sides of it; and the Devil's A-se, which after a lofty Entrance, is cross'd by 4 subterraneous Itreams, and in many Places presents a noble Appearance.

Derbyshire_

Noblemen's Seats here, befides Chatsworth, are Hard-wick, another of the Duke of Devonfhire's; Bolsover and Haddon, the Duke of Newcaftle's; Bratby, the Earl of Chesterfield's; Sutton, late Earl of Scarsdale's; and Shirley, Earl Ferrers's.

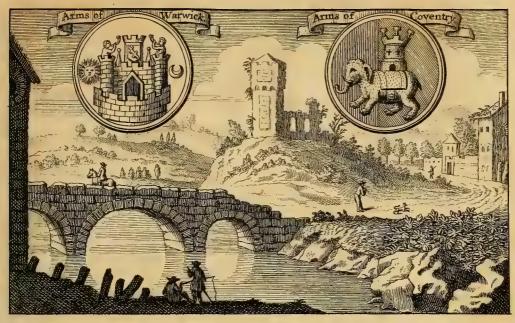

Poole's Hole?

The Devil's A-fe.

WARWICKSHIRE

This County is bounded on the North by Staffordshire, on the East by Leicester & Northamptonshires, on & West by Worcestershire, on the South-West by Gloucestershire, and on the South by Oxfordshire. Avon is & principal River, next to which are the Tame and the Arrow.

Warnvickshire is divided into y Woodlands, North of Avon, and the Feldon, South of that River. The Air is in general allowed to be good fince the Thinning of the Woodlands, for the Consumption in the Iron Works. The Soil is rich, producing excellent Corn and Cheefe, befides which the Commodities are chiefly Wood and Wool.

Warnick, the County Town, is large, handfome, populous, and has two Parish Churches: But is chiefly noted for y Castle, in which, among other Curiofities, are deposited the Iword and Armour of the famous, and partly fabulous Earl Guy.

Coventry is a large and antient City, united not Litchfield arwicklhire.

as an Epifcopal See; has a good Manufacture, & is very populous; but the Houfes are not over-convenient. The chief Things remarkable here are, & Beautiful Crofs, and the annual Cuftom of Lady Godiva's Riding, of & Rife of which they tell a long Story. But Birmingham, tho' neither City, Borough, nor Corporation, would perhaps deferve the first Rank in this County, if we were to be guided in our Comparison by either & Number or Wealth of its Inhabitants, in both which they here annually increase.

Curiofities in Warnickshire are Aulcester, famous for antient Roman Ruins, & part of the Ickenild - Street & Walling-Street Ways, the latter of which divides this County from Leicestershire; Mancester, probably a Fortress of the Old Britons, as it was afterwards of the Romans; Edgehill, where the first Battle was fought between King Charles and his Parliament; the Vale of the Red Horse, with the Figure of a Horse on the side of a Red Hill, as that in Berkshire is on a 11 hite Chalk; Newnham, of note for its Medicinal Waters, over which Baths have been lately erected by the Duke of Montagu, for the free use of all Comers.

Noblemen's Seats are, Milcote-Houfe, Duke of Dorset's;

Tamnorth-Caftle, Earl Ferrers's; Newnham Laddox,

Earl of Denligh's; Compton in y Hole, Earl of Northampton's; Caftle-Bromwich, Viscount Hereford's; Stonely-Abbey,

Lord Leigh's; Ragby & Popham, Lord Conway's; Warnvick
Castle, Lord Brook's; at Coleshill, Lord Digby's.

The State of the State of Morceltershire.

This County is bounded upon the North by Staffordshire, on the East and North-East, by Warnickshire; on the West, by Shropshire & Herefordshire; and on the South by Gloub cestershire. The principal Rivers are, if Severn, which runs thro'it from the North-West, fouthward, a little inclining to if East; the Temd, running from if West to the South-East, till it falls into the Severn; and the Avon, which comes from the East out of Warnickshire, and running mostly to if South-West, leaves this County within a very few Miles of the Severn, which it falls into in Gloucestershire.

The Air of this County is freet and wholesome, the many Waters it abounds with being all running Streams. The Soil is very rich, and the Afcents in general but moderate. It produces Corn in abundance, particularly in the fertile Vale of Evesham. The Iron and Salt-Works have almost destroy'd all y Wood, and are now supplied with Coal. The other Commodities are Cloth? Cheefe, Fruit, Cyder, and Perry.

Worcestershire

orcestersbire.

Worcestershire sends two Knights to Parliament?
Bendly fends but one Burgefs, 8 the following Places two each;
Worcester, Droitwich, Evesham.

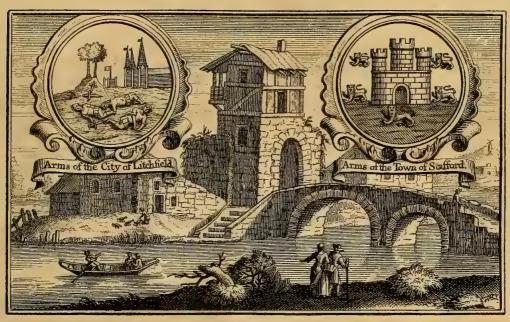

Worcester is pleafantly fituated on & Banks of & Severn, which here runs with a more gentle Course than any where elfe. This City is famous in History on many Accounts, but last for the Battle between the Troops of King Charles II, and Oliver Cromwell, when & latter being Victorious, gave it up to Plunder. It is at this Day large, populous, well-built, and exceedingly well-pavid. The most remarkable publick Buildings are, the Cathedral, the Work-house, the Guild-hall, the stone Bridge, and Berkley's Hospital. The Inhabitants, who are partly Welch, have a large Share in the Clothing Manufacture.

Among the Curiofities, the Salt-works at Droitwich, where the Brine Springs have one of fresh Water in the midst of them, is remarkable. At Dorn are the Ruins of a Roman City), and at Upton was a Roman Station. At Abberton is a bitter, purging, mineral Water; and at Harrow-Hill a medicinal Spring, which, the seemingly very soft, has however a petrifying Quality.

Noblemen's Seats are, Grafton, y Earl of Shrewfbury's; Croom-Court, the Earl of Coventry's, who has alfo Feckenham-Lodge, and Itoke upon Severn; Lenchwich, Lord Graven's; and Whitley-Court, Lord Foley's.

STAFFORDSHIRE,

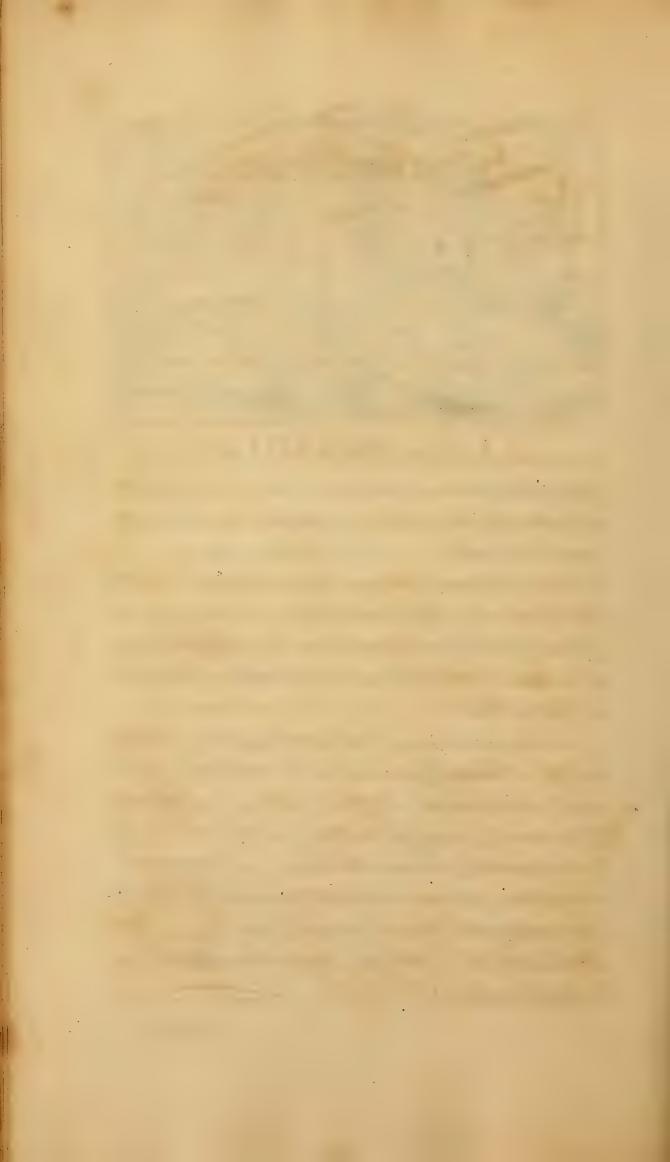

Staffordshire is bounded on the North-East, North, and North-West, by Derbyshire and Cheshire; on the East & South East by Derbyshire and Warnickshire; on the South by Worcestershire; and on the South-West by Shropshire. Its chief Rivers are the Frent, which receives the Son two or three Miles below Stafford, and the Dove, which bounds the County on the North-East. In an Illand of the Son stands Stafford, the County Town.

The Air of this County is generally Sharp, but exceeding healthful. The Soil affords good Land, both Arable & Lasture; and even in if Moorlands, good Husbandry produces tolerable Crops. Here is variety of Earth for if best Ware, Tobacco-pipes, Ocre, & Fulling; with Channel-Coal, that bears a fine Polish, & in Litchfield Cathedral fupplies if Place of black Marble. Here are alfo Quarries of feveral forts of ufeful Stones; but if chief Commodity is Iron-Work.

Befides the two Knights of the Shire, Staffordshire fends

two Members each for Stafford),

Stafford, Litchfield, Tamnorth, and New-Castle - Under-Line.,

Stafford, the County Town, is well-built, populous, and of late much improved in Wealth by the Clothing Trade. Here is kept up the Old Custom of Borough English, by which the Youngest Son inherits what y Father possesses within y Town.

Litchfield, a City and a County, is antient and famous.

It is at present handsome, well-built, and divided by a Slow Itream into the City and the Clofe. The City is the largest and most populous; but in the Close are the best Edifices, and among others the Cathedral.

Curiofities here are Wall, a great Town in & Time of & Romans, now a fmall Vilage; Wolverhampton, famous for Iron Wares, especially Locks; feveral Antiquities; a natural Phofphorus in a Ditch near Litchfield; a remarkable Service at Hefsington to & Lord of Hilton, that has fome humorous Circumstances.

Noblemen's Seats are, Newborough, the Duke of Bridgenater's; Alston-Castle, Earl of Shrewfbury's; Elford, Earl of Berkshire's; Stafford-Caftle, Earl of Stafford's; Beaudesert, Earl of Uxbridge's; Sandwell, Earl of Dartmouth's; Envil-Hall, Earl of Stamford's; Trentham, Lord Gower's; Stourton, Lord Stourton's; Redware, Lord Leigh's; Careswell, Lord Vane's; Dudley-Castle, Lord Dudley's; Tixal, Lord Afton's; and Ingstree, Lord Chetnynd's.

Form'd Chrystal Stone found near Dudley Castle.

Formed Stone partly, Cylindrical found here.

SHROPSHIRE.

Bounded on & North by Cheshire & Flintshire; on the West by Denbighshire, and Montgomeryshire; on & South by Radnorshire, Herefordshire, & Worcestershire; and on the East by Staffordshire. The Severn and & Temdo are the principal Rivers, of which the first receives a great many of lefs note, and traverses a great Part of the County.

The Air and Soil vary according as the Country is level or hilly: But as the first is every where healthy, & generally mild; the latter is for y most part fertile. Even the rough southern and western Parts afford plenty of Pashwage for Sheep and Cattle, & abound beneath with Coal and Iron Stone. The other chief Commodities are Wheat, Barly, Wood, and Cattle.

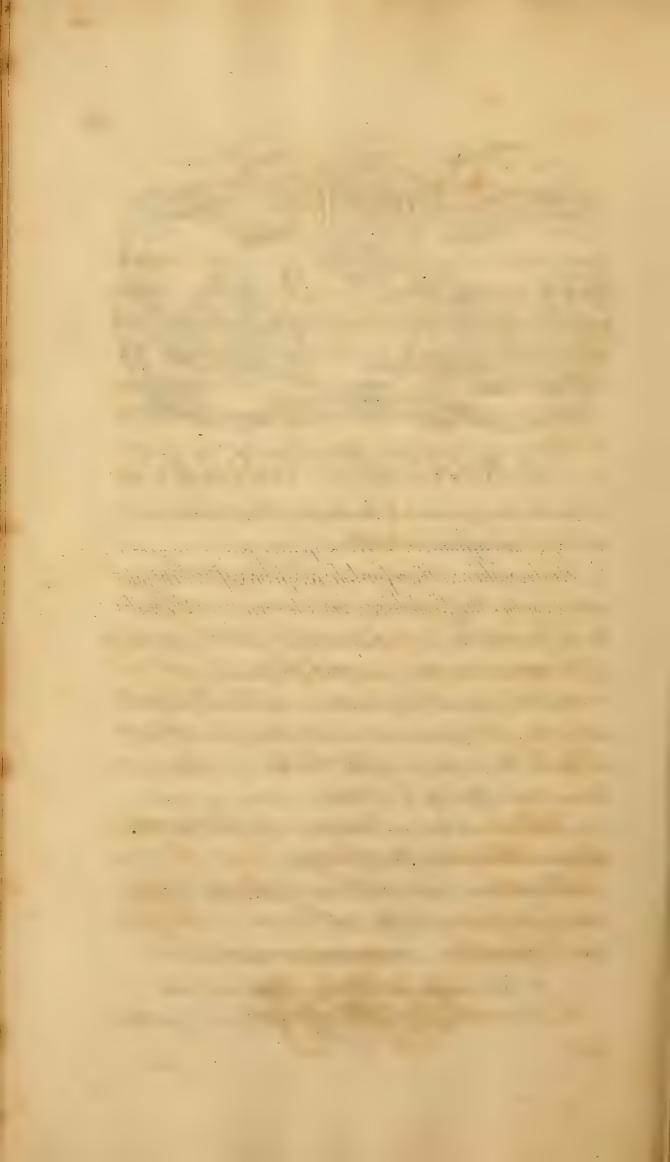

Shropshire sends to Parliament two Knights, and the following Towns two Burgefses each.

Shrenfbury,..... Bridgnorth,.....Ludlow,

Wenlock, and Bishop's-Castle.

The Severn encompasses Shrewsbury in & form of an Horse-shoe; leaving

leaving it open only on if North. This Town is antient, large, populous, rich, delightfully fituated, fill'd with Gentry as well as Fradefmen, and prides herself upon a Fradition of having once refused to be call'd a City, in order to remain the first Borough in England. The Cloth and Flannel Manufactures are here in a flourishing Condition. The Castle of Shrenysbury is entirely decay'd, and that of Ludlow is in a very ruinous State. This latter Town is well-built, and has a Wall with seven Gates. Bridgmorth is shill remarkable for its situation, as it was formerly for the Strength to which that situation contributed.

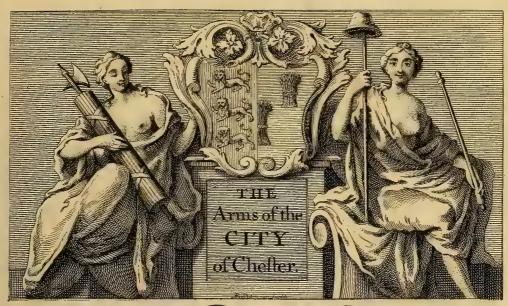

The Curiofities here are part of if Watting-street-way, fo called from its being supported by Stakes intervoven with smaller Wood; Wroxeter, the Ruins of if antient Uriconium, a great City of if Romans; a remarkable Spring at Boseley, which may be made to burn like Spirits; a Litchy Bitumen on a Well at Litch ford; a Stratum of Bituminous Matter in some Larts of the Earth; and Boselel Wood, where King Charles II hid himself in an Oak after the Battle of Worcester.

Noblemen's Seats are, Ellesmere, Duke of Bridgewater's; Pepperhill, Earl of Shrewfbury's; Tong-Caftle, Duke of Kingston's; Onslow-Hall, Lord Onslow's; Shefnal, Earl of Stafford's; Stoke, Lord Craven's; & Botfield, Lord Werymouth's.

The state of the s

rafillyanis .

Cheffire Charles

The County Dalatine of Chester, so called from the Great Drivileges it once enjoy'd under its sovereign Earls and those it now retains of having its own distinct Judges, is separated on the North from Lancashire by the River Mersey, touching a small part of Yorkshire on & North-East. Derbyshire & Stafford-shire bound it on & East, Shropshire on & South, Denbigh shire and Flintshire on the West, and on & North-West part of & Irish Ocean. Other principal Rivers are & Dee & & Weaver.

The Air is pretty cold, but exceeding healthy to & Inhabitants.

The Soil in general is good, especially for Passure, here being & greatest Quantity of good Cheese made of any County in England. The other Commodities are Salt, Mill-stones, Corn, Cattle, Fish, Fowls, & Metals. The numerous Gentry are particularly taken notice of for their Loyalty and Hospitality.

Cheshire sends but four Members to Darliament, two for the County, and two for the City of Chester.

Chester

Cheshire Q

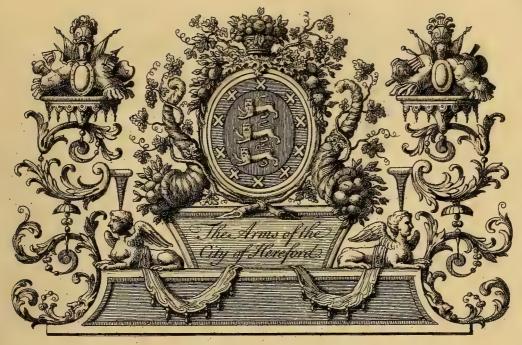

Chester City is for antient that the Date of its Beginning is loft in Fable. It is furrounded with Ramparts, has Itreets crossing each other at right Angles, and four Gates fronting the four Cardinal Points. The Choaking of the River Dee by Sands thrown up by the Sea has caused a great Decay in the Frade of this City, which the Inhabitants hope to recover by an artificial Channel. Here is a handsome Cathedral, and the Foot-Ways in the Streets are cloyster'd over, for that one may walk any where and be dry in wet Weather.

Nantwich, Middlewich, and Northwich are & three famous Places in Cheshire for making of Salt. Nantwich being in other respects the fecond Town in the County.

Curiofines here are, the Jurisdiction over Pipers, Fiddlers, Harpers, and Harlots; belonging to & Dutton Family, who had formerly Power to license either of these Prosessions; Sheep of a very extraordinary Size, in Stiperby Park, with sour Horns, and a hairy kind of Wool, seeming to be something between the Sheep and the Goat; Firtrees found under Ground, and supposed to have lain there ever since the Flood; a very volatile Spring; the Remains of Hugh Lupus, first Earl of Chester; and Nephen of the Conqueror; sound about 20 Years ago.

Noblemen's Seats are Cholmondeley-hall & Vale-Royal, Earl of Cholmondeley's; Dunham-Mafsey, Earl of Warrington's; Rock-favage, Earl of Barrimore's; Woodhay, Earl of Dysart's; and Dutton, Lord Gerrard's.

Herefordshire._

This County is bounded on the North by Shropshire; on & East by Worcestershire and Gloucestershire; on the West by Radnor and Brecknockshires; and on & South by Monmouthshire.

Its chief River is the Wye, befides which it has & Monnow, the Lug, and & Frome, all abounding in Fish. The Wye enters & County from the West, & runs Eastward by Hereford, after which its Courfe is right South to Monmouth.

The Air is healthful, which causes many of & Inhabitants to live to a great Age, and the Soil at the same time rich; these two Qualities seldom happening together. For Corn and Fruit it is surpased by no County: Such is the Excellence of the latter, and of & Cyder produced from it, that Herefordshire Cyder is a name commonly given to recommend that of other Counties. Its other Commodities are Wool, Wood, and Fish.

Befides if two Knights, Herefordshire fends two Members each for Hereford, Leominster, Weobly.

Hereford

and the first of the Part of the property of the property of the state of the property of the state of the st

Mary Dr. Ship

Hereford is a large and antient City; but not very populous, nor trading, having fearce any Manufactury but Gloves. It stands in a fine fituation. The Buildings in general are old & mean; but the Cathedral is magnificent. The Tonn of Ross, tho no Borough, is well built, populous, and much frequented.

Several Curious Antiquities have been discovered in this County, particularly once a Coronet of Gold set with Diamonds. But Marcley Hill is the greatest Curiosity, which after shaking 3 Days in 1575, began to move of a Sunday Evening, and travel'd above 200 Toot by two is next Morning, carrying with it the Trees & Sheep that were upon it, and throwing down all in its Way. Here is noted befides, Bone-Well, from which continually ifsue great Quantities of small Bones, tho' it be often emptied.

Noblemen's Seats are Akenbury, Duke of Chandos's;
Brampton-Brian, Earl of Oxford's; Hampton, lase Lord Coningsby's; Shopton-Court, Lord Bateman's.

and thought

The Arms of the Town of Monmouth.

MONMOUTHSHIRE.

This County is bounded on the North by Herefordshire, on the East by Gloucestershire, on the South by & Bristol-Channel, and on the West by Brecknock & Glamorgan Shires in South Wales. The principal Rivers are & Wye, the Mynon; the Uske, the Avon, and the Rumpney.

A temperate and healthful Air, and a fruitful, tho hilly & woody Soil, are the Characteristicks of Monmouthshire.

The Hills feed abundance of Cattle and Sheep, and the Vales—produce plenty of Grafs & Corn. Other Commodities are Fish & Fowl, and the Flannels here manufactured.

Befides the two Knights of the Shire, this County fends for Larliament only one Burgefs for the chief Town Monmouth.

This is a large handfome Place, pleafantly Situated at the Junction of the Wye and the Mynow, having a ftately Stone? Bridge? ALBERTA

Commonth hire.

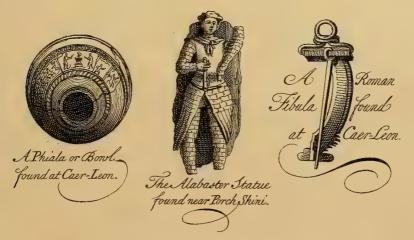

Bridge over each. The Castle, which is now in Ruins, was formerly very Strong. The East-End of the Church is esteem'd a Liece of curious Workmanship.

At Chepfton; near 60 Years ago, was defcover'd a Roman Pavement beautifully variegated. Gold-Cliff, which juts out into the Channel, in the South of the County, is fo called from the bright Glittering it reflects when y Sun fhines. CaerLeon, on y River Ufke, was the famous Isoa of y Romans, and an antient University, which is the Occasion that many Roman Antiquities are found in this County. Nant-Pentkarn, near Newport, is the Ford over which King Henry II passed when he went to conquer Walls. His freckled Face was the chief Cause of his success, Merlin having prophesied to his.
Countrymen, that when ever a Prince of this Complexion passed there, they must submit to him.

Noblemen's Seats are, Troy-houfe, & Ragland-Caftle, the Duke of Beaufort's; S! Julian's, Lord Herbert's of Cherbury, and Abergavenny, belonging to the Lord who bears that Title .

The Arms of the Town of Caermarthen.

LESOUTH WALES

To avoid being tedious, we shall describe the twelve Counties of Wales under two Divisions only, as they are taken by the Welch Judges in their Circuits. South Wales comprehends the Counties of Glamorgan, Caermarthen, Pembroke, Brecknock, Radnor, & Cardigan. They are bounded on if East by the Counties of Salop, Hereford, and Monmouth; on the North by Merioneth & Montgomery Shires, in North Wales; on the West by S! George's, & in if South by Bristol Channel. Principal Rivers are the Wye, the Ufke, the Taffy, the Tove, the Clethy, and the Tnyry.

The Air of South Wales is various, according as y fountry is more or lefs open or mountainous: But in general it is very healthful. And as to the Soil, it is in the Shires of Glamorgan, Caermarthen, and Pembroke, equal to most in England for Fertility. In the other Counties there are very fruitful Vallies, and the Hills nourish abundance of their small Cattle, which are one of their principal Commodities. Woods,

Pit-

South Wales.

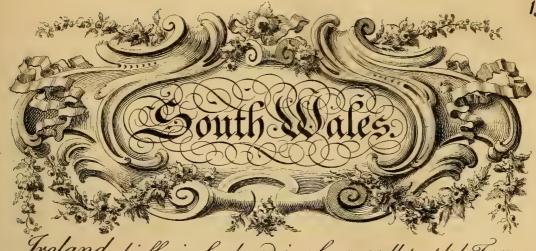

Rit-Coal, Fowl, Fish, efpecially Salmon, Corn, Goats, Fur, Horses, and Cheefe, are other Productions of thefe Counties. At Brecknock are Manufactures of Cloth and Stockings.

> Caermarthen,......Rembroke,....Haverford-West, Cardigan,......Radnor;....and Brecknock.

Thefe Places with Aberystwith in Cardiganshire, Presteign in Radnorshire, and Swansey in Glamorganshire, are the chief Towns in South Wales both for Magnitude and Trade: For as to Landaff and I! Davids; if two Episcopal Sees, they are of very little Consideration, except for the Beauty of their old Gothic Cathedrals. I! Davids stands quite at the Extremity of South Wales towards Ireland, & Landaff just upon the Borders of Monmouthshire in England.

Cardiff is well-built, indifferently large, and has a good Frade, chiefly with Bristol. Caermarthen is if London of South Wales, being the chief Resort of the Gentry, and a well-built, populous, thriving Town. Dembroke is reckoned next to it both for Extent & Riches. It stands on Milford-Haven, which is the finest in Britain, & hath fuch an extensive Commerce as to employ near 200 Ships. Haverford-West is also well-built, neat, & populous, the Seat of if Africes for Dembrokeshire, which is the only Welch County that chuses two Burgesses to Parliament. Cardigan trades to Ireland, Ireland, chiefly in Lead, and is a large well-peopled Town.

Aberystwith is an encreafing Place. Radnor is a good Town, but over top'd by Presteign both in Buildings and Reople.

Brecknock has been formerly a confiderable Fortrefs, and is at present a well-built Town of good Trade.

The Castle of Caeriphilly, in Glamorganshire, has been equal to that of Windsor both for Beauty and Strength, but is now pretty much decayed. In the Isle of Barra's People pretend to hear a fubterraneous Noise, like the Working in a Smith's Shop.

There is a circular Stone Monument on a Mountain in Caermarthenshire, resembling Roll-rich Stones in Oxfordshire; and in if fame County is a remarkable Barrow, supposed to have been the Burying Place of some antient British King,

Near S! David's was a rocking Stone, which, like that in Cornwall, has been thrown out of its Equilibre. S! David's Body lies in the Cathedral which bears his Name. From y sides of the wast Mountain of Plinlimon, in Cardiganfhire, flow three great Rivers, the Wye, the Severn, and the Rhydal. Offa's Dyke, thrown up as a Boundary between the English and Welch, runs thro' Radnorshire. Brecknock-Meeris remarkably crouded with Fish. We do not enumerate here all y antique Curiofities, Roman or British, that are found in thefe fix Counties; but must observe in general, that all Walles is full of the Monuments of King Arthur, the Welch commonly affixing the Name of that Monarch to Antiquities of nother than have no certain Account.

There are not a great Number of Novlemen's Seats in South Wales. Brecknockshire has two, Creckhowel-Castle and Tretower-Castle, both belonging to the Duke of Beaufort. In Caermarthenshire are Emlyn-Castle and Golden-Grove, the Duke of Bolton's, and Aberguilly, the Bishop of S. David's: In Glamorganshire, Swan-fey-Castle, the Duke of Beaufort's, Cardiff-Castle, the Earl of Leicester had also a Seat in this County.—We do not find any Name above a Baronet in the Counties of Pembroke, Radnor, and Cardigan.

NORTH WALES.

This Divifion, which contains the Counties of Anglesea?. Caernarvon, Merioneth, Montgomery, Denbigh, and Flint, is bounded on the North & West by the Trish Sea, or S! George's Channel; on & East by Chefhire & Shropfhire, in England; and on the South by the Counties of Radnor and Cardigan in South Wales. Principal Rivers are & Dee), the Clnyd, the Connay, y Avon, y Duyfi,and y Severn.

The Air of this Part is in general more bleak, Sharp, & healthful than in the South, tho' with like Variety, in proportion as it ismore or lefs distant from the Sea, or sheltered by Mountains. The Soil is also various; but better in Anglesea, the Vale of Annyd in Denbighshire, and fome Parts of Flintshire and Montgomeryshire, than in it rest of this Spot. The chief Commodities of the whole are Corn, Cattle, Fish, Fowl, Goals, Wood, Lead-

Ore, Butter, Cheefe, Pit-Coal, Mill-Stones, Honey, and Horses.

Anglesea is fo abundant, that the Welch call it the Mother or Nurfe of Wales: The Montgomeryshire Horses are of a larger Breed than in the other Counties.

Members_

NORTH WALES.

Members of Larliament are in all Eleven, one for each County, and one each for the Boroughs of

Beaumaris; Caernarvon, Montgomery,

Denbigh, and Flint

There is no Burgefs in all Merionethshire.

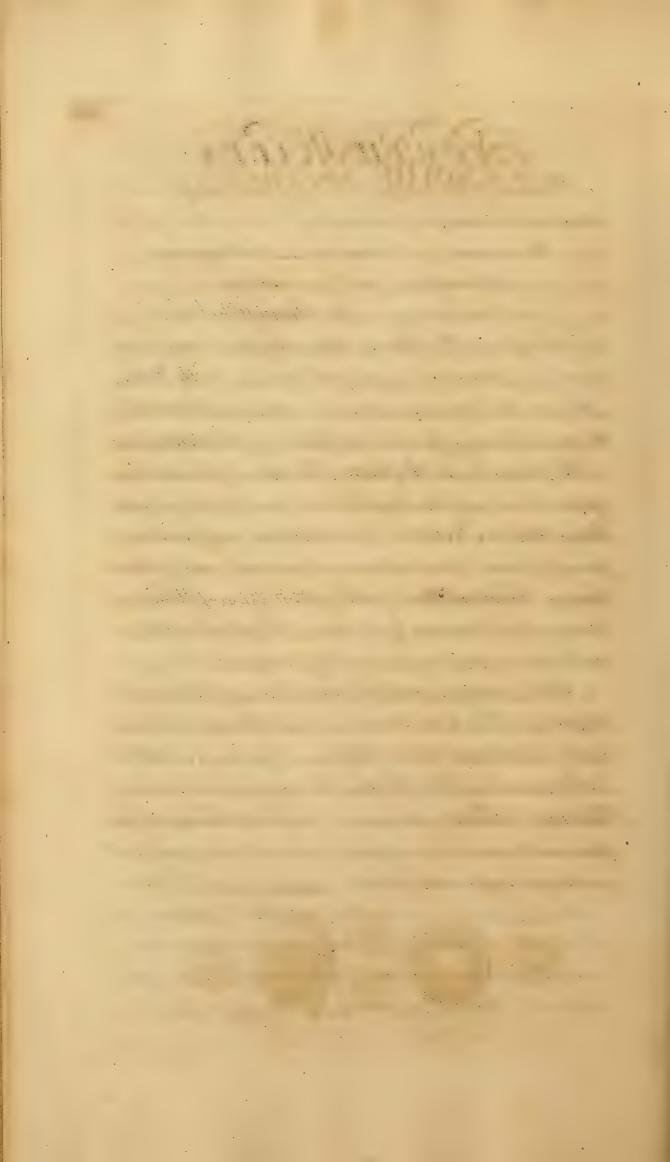

Denbigh and Wrexham, both in the fame County, feem to contend for if Honour of being if Capital Fown in North Wales.

They are both large and populous, and carry on confiderable Frades, the first in Tanning & Glove-making, & & latter in & Flannel Manufacture.

Beaumaris, in Anglesea, is handfome, populous, and has a good Harbour, bying directly in the Road for those who go by the Packet-Boat to Ireland. Caernarvon is neatly built, and strong by Nature. The Inhabitants are peculiarly noted for their Courtesy. Edward II, the first English Prince of Wales, was born in a Castle built here by his Father. Harleigh, in Merionethshire, is noted only for its strong Situation and Antiquity.

Montgomery is pleafantly Situated, but indifferently built in general. Flint, tho'a County Town and a Borough, is but mean, and has no Market. It Afaph, one of if Sees of North Wales, stands in Flintshire, as Bangor, the other See, does in Caernarvonshire: The former is pleafantly Situated, and has fome good Houses; but an indifferent Cathedral: The latter is pretty well peopled, & is thought to have if Oldest Cathedral in Great Britain.

The chief Curiofities are, in Anglesea, TrerDrun, thought to be the antient Refidence of & Druids, and feveral antient Monuments, British and Roman: In Caernarvonfhire, the highest Rock in all & British Dominions, standing upon the fummit of a Cluster of Mountains; a fort of one Eyed Trouts in Lhan y Knm Lake; Muscles with Pearls in them in y River Comway; & the Ruins of an impregnable Fortification upon Penmaen-manr, and near y) Remains of a British Temple; in Merionethyhire a livid Vapour that fometimes rifes from y Sea, & spreads Desolation over the Country, if not prevented by the discharging of Fire-Arms, or by some Means putting the Air in Agitation; and feveral Monuments, British & Roman, the Origin of which is not known; in Montgomery-shire, y Ruins of Kenn-Kaer, Meivod, and fome other Haces of antient Fame; in Denbighshire, the remarkable Cave called King Arthur's Round Table, having 24 Seats of different Dimenfions, and feveral Remains of antient Fortifications; and in Flint-

Shire, S. Winifreds-Well, or Holy-Well, famous for y Coldness and Rapidity of the Streem, and for the traditional Miracles that Noblemen's Seats Lord Bulkeley has one near Beaumaris.

Holt-Castle, near Wrexham was if Earl of Derby's. DowisCastle & Buttington-Hall are both Seats of if Marques of Powis, and Llymore Lodge and Llyssin belonging to if Lord Herbert of Cherbury. Winstay, the Seat of J. Watkin Williams Wynn, deferves to be mentioned among these, on Account of the great Wealth and Interest of the worthy Owner.

Porklhire.

This County, by much the largest in England, is bounded on the North by & Bishoprick of Durham; on & East-by the British Ocean; on the South by Lincolnshire, Notting hamshire, Derbyshire, & a Bit of Cheshire; and on & West by Lanca-Shire & Westmoreland. Drincipal Rivers are the Tees, who divides this County from & Bishoprick, & Darwent, & Swale, the Ouse, the Wharfe, the Are, the Calder, & the Don, all which after intermixing their Waters, form that great Estuary called the Humber, which separates Yorkshire from Lincolnshire.

Much Variety, both of Air and Soil, is to be expected in a Country of this great Extent. It is therefore divided into three Ridings, each of which might have been a feparate County in proportion to the other Counties of England, and are usually confider'd afunder when we fpeak of their natural Properties.

The West Riding, which includes also if most Southerly) Larts, enjoys a sharp Air, and is pretty healthy. The Soil on if Westerly

YORKSHIRE.

Westerly Side is flony, and not very fertile: But on the East & South it is rich, producing plenty of Grain. The Eaft Rid-ing, being two thirds furrounded by water, is not so healthy as the other two: But the Soil is most fertile where the Air is least wholesome, and the worst Parts breed great Quantities of Sheep. In the North Riding the Air is colder, and more falubrious than in the other two: But the Ground wants Fertility, except in its Bowels, which produce Qit-Coal, Marble, and several Minerals.

The Commodities of the Whole are Jet, Marble, and Pit-Coal before mentioned, Alum, Copperas, Sheep, Goats, Horses, Iron, Wheat, Barley, and Oats; and the principal Manufactures are Cutlery Ware, and course Cloths.

Thirty Reprefentatives are fent from Yorkshire to is House of Commons; two for the County, two for the City of York, and two for each of the following Boroughs.

Ringston upon Hull, Knaresborough, Scarborough, Rippon, Richmond, Heydon, Boroughbridge, Malton, Thirsk, Aldborough, Beverley, Northallerton, and Pontefract.

Were we look for the principal Town of each Riding, exclusive of York, which flands where they all meet, the properly in the North, Hull must be chosen in the East, in the West Leeds, and in the North Richmond, which has fometimes a lefser Division ascribed to it by y name of Richmondshire.

The other Towns are fo numerous, that our Defcription must be confined to a very few upon the Whole.

York

York is esteem'd the fecond City in England, & was anciently the Seat of the Roman Emperors in Britain. It bears a considerable Figure in History, & is at this day extensive, the' not very mercantile. The Cathedral is a noble Gothic Edifice, scarce inferior to any in Europe, and has no remarkable Deficiency but & Lanthorn Seeple, which ends very indifferently. The Castle, built by Willuam the Conqueror, was formerly a Place of great ftrength,& now makes a more commodious and airy County Jail than is to be feen any where else in the Kingdom. The City is furrounded by a good Wall, with four Gates, and five Rofterns. Over the Oufe there is a very Stately Stone Bridge, of which the middle Arch is 51 Feet in Height, and 81 in Diameter. Only 17 Churches, out of 41 that were here antiently, are now in Ufe. The Afsembly-Room, a magnificent Egyption Hall 123 Feet in length, was defign'd by yEarl of Burlington. Kingston upon Kull, more frequently called Kull only, is a Town of vast Trade. Merchants there have an Exchange, and Trinity-Houfe, in imitation of those for London. The confin'd fituation that Hull stands on, & the vast encrease of its Commerce, have made it exceedingly crouded with Buildings & Reople. The Corporahon, with fome Lands contiguous, has if privilege of a diffinct County. About Sto . Just Wet Elle.

The said of the sa

State of the said of the said

.

Discourse Part of Sugar on Suffer

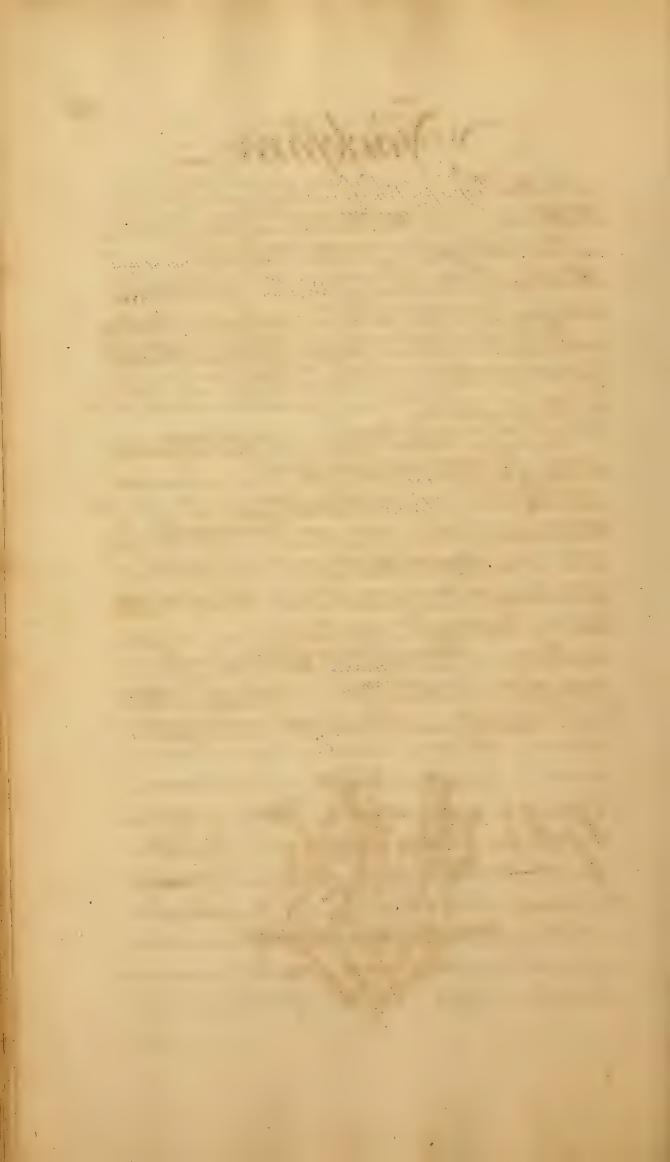

YORKSHIRE

About Leeds was the first Seat of the Cloathing Trade in England, and this Town is full remarkable for its Cloth-market, held every Tuefday & Saturday morning, at Six a Clock in Summer, and Seven in Winter. The vast Sums are here dealt for, y Whole is always over in about an Hour.

Halifax is also famous for the Cloathing Trade, the vast Extent & Bopulousnefs of the Parish. Here was formerly an Engine for the beheading of Cloth-frealers, from which was taken if Model of the Maiden at Edinburgh, erected & hanfeld by the great Earl of Morton, Regent of Scotland.

Sheffield has been many Centuries famous for its Manufactures in Iron, particularly Cutlery-ware, and Scarborough has been in the prefent Century much frequented on Account of its Medicinal Ipan, which some Years ago was buried by a Fall of part of the Cliff that hung over it, but is now recovered.

Among the Roman, British, & Gothic Antiquities here, may be reckoned, Temple-brough; y old Road from Dontefract to Doncastar; four large Stone Byramids near Boroughbridge; the Ruins of Aldborough, and the Coins, Urns, and Ravements—that have been found there; the Remains of Burgodunum near Otley; Dillars in the Church-yard of Hkeley; the Platform of an old Castle at Tadcaster, and the Coins dug up there; the Ruins of Cataractonium; a Fortification near Baintbrig; the Remains of Rock-abbey; the Tower & Spire at Laughton, and Coningsborough Castle. Modern Curiofines of Nature and Art are, the famous Yen-tree near Sandbeck; a Spring that ebbs and flows at Giglesnick; Mr. Aiflabie's famous Park

Forkshire.

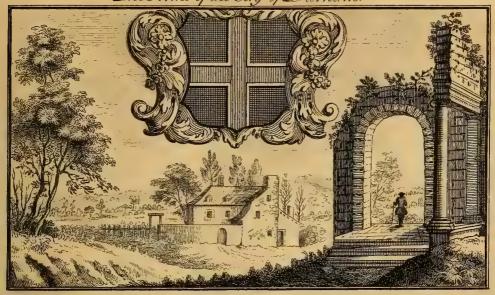

Wortly; the Quarry at Huddlestone; with y Stone of which was built Henry VII's Chapel; Robin Hood's Monument near Kirkley; large Trees, dug out of y Bogs near the Humber; the Water-fronts, called Vipfies, feen between Bridlington & Fordlingham; Star Stones found near Bugthorp; & the Rock at Huntclift, upon which the Seals sleep in Summer, having always a Centinel upon Duty to guard them.

The principal Noblemen's Seats are, Sheffield-Manour, the Duke of Norfolk's; Wrefel-Caftle, & Duke of Somerset's; Kiveton, & Duke of Leed's; Wentworth-house, & Marquis of Rockingham's; Snape, & Earl of Exeter's; Caftle-Howard, the Earl of Carlifle's; Whorlton-Castle, & Earl of Ailesbury's; Lanesborough, & Earl of Burlington's; Hornby-Caftle, the Earl of Holderness's; Stamborough, & Earl of Stafford's; Sandbeck, & Earl of Scarborough's; Wentworth-Caftle, & Earl of Strafford's; Newborough, Viscount Falconberg's; Holm, Viscount Lonsdale's; and Wilton-Caftle, Lord Cornwallis's.

The Arms of the City of Durham.

DURHAM.

The Bishoprick of Durham is bounded on the North by the Rivers Tyne and Dernvent, which divides it from Northumberland; on the West by Cumberland and Westmoreland; on the South the Tees divides it from Yorkshire; and on the East it has the North Sea, or German Ocean. The principal River, befides those we have mentioned, is y Were, which runs thro'y Heart of y Country, washes the Capital, & besides it the Towns of Stanhope, ... Wolsingham, Bishop's Aukland, & Sunderland.

The Air towards the Sea is mild, and in & Inland Parts pretty Sharp. In the Soil there is fome Diversity, & Eaftern and Southern Parts being very fertile, but & Western barren. Befides what the Earth produces on its Surface, the Bowels afford plenty of Coal, Lead, and Iron, which are the chief Commodities. Here are fome Manufactures of Linen.

Only four Members of Parliament are fent from this Bishoprick, or County Palatine; two Knights, & two Citizens for the Capital, Durham.

This_

DURHAM.

This City stands on an Elevation, surrounded on three Sides by the River Were. It was antiently populous and Strong, but is now none of the most compact Cities; its chief Advantages—being in the pleasant Situation, and the great Resort of if Gentry and Clergy. The Bishop is a temporal Count, as well as a spiritual Peer, and has still many other Privileges, tho' far short of what were injoyed by his Pedecessors before the Reformation. Durham has a Cathedral, six Parish Churches, and two Stone Bridges.

Darlington is famous for its Manufacture of Huccabacks, and Bishop's Aukland for it Bridge over it Were, the Arch of which exceeds in Breadth that of the Rialto at Venice.

Roman Coins & Inscriptions have been pretty frequently found in this County, particularly at Chester upon the Street, Lanchester, and Sheals. The remarkable natural Curiofities are the deep Dits, full of Water, called Hell-Kettles, and the Salt-pans near the Mouth of the Tyne. At Nevil's Crofs, near Durham, was a bloody Fight in 1346, between the English and Scotch, in which David Bruce, King of Scotland, was taken Prisoner.

Noblemen's Seats are, Lumley-Castle, the Earl of Scarborough's; Henknowle, Viscount Falconberg's; Raby-Caftle, Lord Vane's; and the Bishop's Palace at Aukland.

Sancas hire.

This County is bounded upon & North by Westmoreland and Cumberland; on the West by the Frish Sea; on the East by the West-Riding of Yorkshire; & on the South by Cheshire, from which it is divided by & River Mersey. The other principal Rivers are the Ribble and the Lon.

It is observed that the Air of this County is generally better than in most maritime Counties; but near the Sea or the Fens it is not free from the Diseases incident to such Situations. In other Parts the Inhabitants live to a great Age. The Soil in the level Grounds bears good Crops of Grain; in the hilly Parts, it is best for Oats; and in the Moss Grounds there is little else but Turf, and Firs buried under y furface of the Earth. Provisions of all kinds are here very plenty, & the chief Commodities are Oats, Cattle, Coal, and Flax.

The Manufactures of woollen Cloths, Cottons, and Tickens, are very flourishing at Manchester.

Befides the two Knights of the Shire, this County fends twelve Burgefses for the following Towns:

Lancaster,

LAN CASHIRE.

The Port of Lancaster, upon the Mouth of the River Lon, is fo choaked up with Sand, that Trade finds little? Encouragement there. It is however a Place where are found numerous Marks of its Antiquity.

Lever pool, by its maritime Situation, and if Industry of the Inhabitants, is grown into a very confiderable Seat of Commerce, next to Bristol of all the Towns on the Western Coast of England. The Buildings, which daily increase, are for the most part new, and confist principally of Stone.

The Inhabitants are also free of Bristol. They have an elegant Town-house and Exchange; and what at present ought not to be forgotten, they distinguished themselves by their Loyalty in the late Rebellion. We should be glad to say with Truth if same of the other great Trading Town in this County, Manchester. This Place has increased of late Years to fuch a degree, that it is supposed now not to contain less than 50,000, Inhabitants. Its chief Manufactures, which are brought to London upon Pack-horses, we have mentioned before. Here is a fine College, Hospital, Free-school, and Library; the latter containing many valuable Volumes. This Town, tho' so large, is no Corporation, nor has any Magistrate above a Constable or Headborough. Its Trade difuses itself thro' all the Country round, the Villages being full of Manufacturers belonging to the Masters here settled. Many Monuments of Roman Antiquities are visible in this Place.

Preston

LANCASHIRE.

Preston was distinguished in the Rebellion of 1715 by the Defeat and Capture of the Rebels there; and in 1745 the whole Length of the County was twice travers'd by the Rebel Army, in their Way to and from Derby.

Chatmofse, on the South Edge of this County, is famous for the fubterranean Trees we before mentioned, which ferve the Country Reople both for Fervel & Candle. Winnrick is reckoned the best Benefice in England. In y Park of Lathamhoufe is a Chalybeat Spring impregnated with Vitriol. Cannel Coal, noth is capable of being polish'd like Jet, as well as excellent for Firing, is found here in y Manour of Haigh. There is a very remarkable Spring of Salt Water at Barton, and an odoriferous bihiminous Earth about Ormskirk. At Ancliff is y famous burning Well, which hath fo firing a Vapour of Sulphur, that it will take Fire. A great many Roman Monuments are also found in different Parts of this County, which are the remaining Curiofities.

Novemen's Seats are, Afton-hall, the Duke of Hamilton's; Show-place and Worsley, Lord Willoughby's of Parham; Netherby, Lord Prefton's; Croxtath-hall, Lord Molyneux's.

The Arms of the Town of Appleby.

WESTMORELAND.

Westmoreland is bounded on the North and West by Cumberland and a detach'd Part of Lancashire, on the South by Lancashire, and in the East by Yorkshire and a Bit of Durham. Principal Rivers are the Lone, the Kan, & the Eden. The franking Waters of Winander-Mere, and Ulles Lake are also famous in this County.

The fharp and clear Air is healthy to the Natives and robust Strangers. The hilly Soil is very barren, but the Vallies are tolerably fertile in Corn and Grafs. In the Western Hills are Quantities of Copper-Ore, with some Veins of Gold, but not worth the Expence of digging. Stockings are the chief Manufacture, but Cloth, and Stuffs are also made at Kendal.

Members of Parliament are two for the County, and two for the Borough of Appleby.

This is esteemed the County Town, but is now of little Note except for its Antiquity. Kendal is large and populous, and has twelve Chappels of Ease to its fingle Church. Here are seven incorporated Companies, and a noble Free School. — A little Fray happen'd here last Year between if Rebels, in their Advance Southward, and fome of the Inhabitants.

Hest moretands.

At Clifton, between Shap in this County & Penrith in Cumberland, the Van guard of the King's Froops, under his Royal Highnefs the Duke, came up with the Rebels in their Retreat, & several Lives were loft on both Sides. The Spring that ebbs and flows near Shap is efteemed a great natural Curiofity. Here are feveral Roman Antiquities about Kendal, Ambleside, Kirkby, Thore, & Crawdundale. The British Antiquities are called King Arthur's round Table & his Castle.

Noblemen's Seats are Lendragon-Castle, the Earl of

ARoman Simpuvium out of nyhich they drank as they Sacrificed to their Gods.

G. Bickham fecit.

G. Bickham fecit.

G. Bickham fecit.

Thanet's; Beltham-Castle, the Earl of Derby's; &

Lowther-Hall, Lord Viscount Lonsdale's.

The Arms of the City of Carlisle.

Tumberland.

On the North this County is bounded by Scotland, on if West by the Irish Sea, on the South by the divided Part of Lancashire, and on the East by Yorkshire, Durham, and Northumberland. The principal Rivers are if Eden, which washes Carlisle, and the Derment which falls into the Irish Sea.

The cold Air here would be yet colder, if the Hills on y Side of Scotland overe not a Shelter. Very good Mutton is fed in the Mountains, and the Vallies produce Corn; but fcarce any Trees are to be feen. Coal, Lead, Copper, Black-lead, Lapis—Calaminaris, Fish, Wild-Fowl, and Pearls are y chief Commodities, & among them Black-lead is peculiar to this County.

Carlisle was a City of note before if Roman Invasion, and afterwards a Station for if Roman Legions. While England and famous as a Frontier Garison, and reckoned a strong Fortress. It is at prefent populous & well built; in form triangular, having a Castle at the North-west Corner, & three Gates leading towards England, Scotland, and Ireland. Here is a confiderable Trade in Fustians. But what chiefly distinguishes Carlisle in our Age is the Possession of it by & Rebels at the End of 1745; the easy Manner in which it was surrendered to them; the Recovery of it by the Duke of Cumberland; and the Number of Rebel Prisoners made therein, some of whom were the first Examples of their Country's Justice, and of Executions for High Treason, during the whole Reign of our most gracious Sovereign King GEORGE the Second.

Contraction of the

Penrith is the fecond Town of note in this County for Trade and Riches. Cockermouth is populous, & has some share of Trade. Whitehaven is of late Years much improve by the Shipping of Coals & Salt to Scotland & Treland.

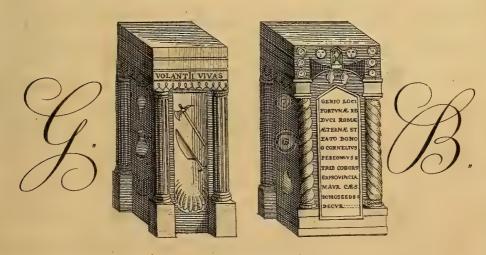

The famous Licks Wall began in this County, upon Solway Frith, and ran by Carlisle acrofs if Kingdom to Newcastle: Many Remains of it are still to be feen. Burgh upon Sands is remarkable for a Fight both by Land & Sea between the English and Scots, but more fo for the Death of King Edward Edward I, to whose Memory a Stone Pillar was erected in 1685 by the Duke of Norfolk. Other Curiosities are Altars & Inscriptions found near Elemburgh; the inaccessible Grotto near Penrith upon the River Eden; Roman Inscriptions in a Rock near Brampton; and several other antient Remains of the same People.

Noblemen's Seats are Drumburgh-Castle, upon Solway Frith, & Duke of Norfolk's; Cockermouth-Castle, the Duke of Somerset's; Nanvorth, the Earl of Carlisle's; Kirk-Ofwald and Daker's Caftle, both belonging to the Earl of Sufsex.

An Altar dug up at Ellenborough Dedicated to the Genius of the Place

NORTHUMBERLAND.

Northumberland is bounded on the North by Part of Scotland; on the West, by Part of Scotland & Cumberland; on the South, by the Bifhoprick of Durham; and on the East, by the German Ocean. Its principal Rivers are, the Tyne, the Cocket, and the Tweed, which all run eastward into the Sea.

As this County is fituated between two Seas, in the narrowest Part of England, the Air of it is left cold than might otherwise have been expected. Snow feldom liest long here, except upon the highest Hills. The Inhabitants are commonly healthy, and many of them live to a great Age without Sickness. In the Eastern Part the Soil is fertile, both for Corn and Herbage; but the Western is mostly heathy and mountainous, and confequently barren. The South-east Part so abounds with Pit-coal, that above 600,000 Chaldrons are brought yearly to London by Sea, whence it is called often Sea-Coal. Here are likewise large Quantities of Lead & Timber, of a few land or stay soil of first of a lindless of Camera for the soil of th so to the best of Every product between inco has, in the narcomplet appen the finitent Miller She Inhalletinish.

and the second of the second o

. ..

Northumberland.

and the Rivers abound with Salmon. Besides the two Knights of the Shire, Northumberland sends two Burgefses each to Parliament for the following Towns:

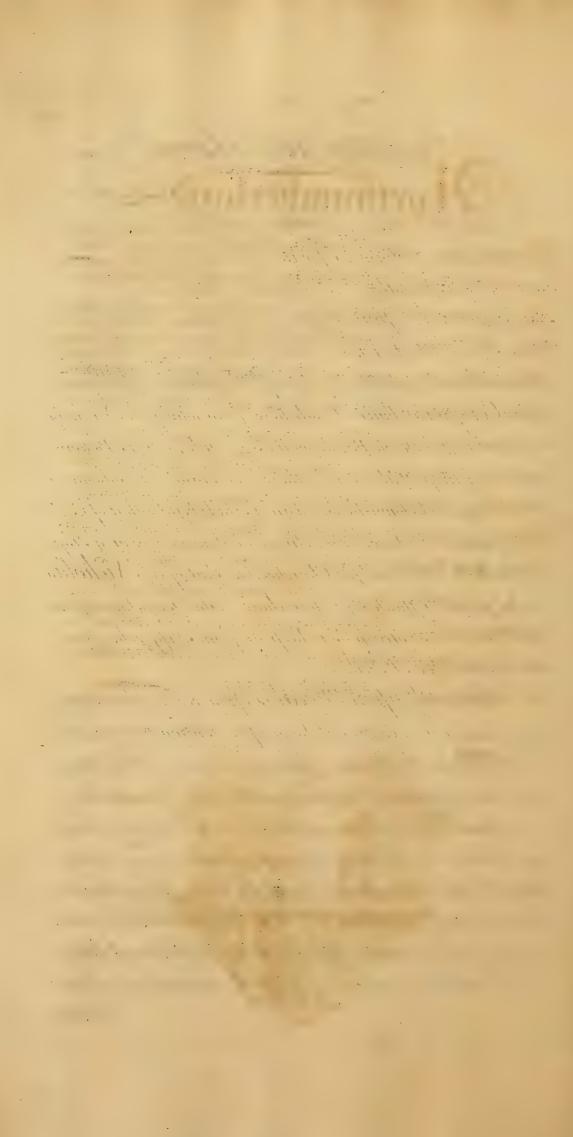

Newcastle upon Tyne stands on the North of that River, over which it has a frately Bridge to the Suburb of Gateshead in the Bishoprick of Durham. William the Conqueror built a Castle here, from which the Name is derived. The Town frands on the Top, Side, & at the Bottom of a very freep Hill. Next the River stand a handsome Exchange and Town-house; a great Trade, befides that of Coals, being carried on here. The politer Inhabitants live at & Top of the Hill. Here are fix Churches, but that of S. Nicholas only, properly freaking, is parochial. The Town has a from Wall, but not so strong as to keep us from Apprehenfions during the late Rebellion.

Bernick upon Inveed is often reckoned a County) itfelf, and was a continual Bone of Contention between the English and Scots when feparate Nations. It is ftrong, well built, populous, and frands on the North of the River.

At Alnnick whoever takes up his Freedom must go thro' the odd Ceremony of jumping into a certain miry. Bog, whis faid to be a Benalty imposed by King John, whose Royal Berson stuck fast in that very Hole. Cheviot-Hills in this County, are made famous by the Old Ballads of Chevy Chace!

Hexham, now inconsiderable, was antiently a large

Roman

2 Corthumberland

Roman City. At Flodden Field was fought that great Battle, in which James IV, King of Scotland was slain, together with of Chief of his Nobility, & 18,000 private? Men. The Remains of the Lick's Wall are to be feen in many Places. Here are several other Antiquities, and Curiofities natural and artificial. Among the former may be reckoned the monstruous human Bones, of which the Thigh measured near two Yards, that were found at Corbridge and Ailmouth; and among the latter, the Hermitage on the River Cocket, containing a Chapel and Altar, a Bedchamber and Bed, and a Kitchen, all curiously henre in a folid Rock.

Noblemen's Seats are, Alnnvick-castle, the Duke of Somerset's; Morpeth-castle, the Earl of Carlisle's; and Widdrington-castle, the late Lord Widdrington's; but forfeited in the Rebellion of 1715.

- Office observables -

and the second of the second o

ing and for the continues in

A TABLE of several Particulars relating to the COUNTIES of SOUTH BRITAIN, which are placed in the Order of their Magnitude; also South and North WALES.

				T . I .	~			1
2	Counties Names,	Area	Area in	oth	Chief Ci	ty, Fron	London	Longitude	12.	hes.	uges	Cities	Villa-	Houses	Inhabitants	Hundreds	Noof	Proper	Por	ts l	In what.
Lage	in order of their feveral Magnitudes.	in fquare	Area in fquare Acres.	len	Town	compu	in t. measuro	from London.	Latitude	ani	Can	and Market	qes.	computed	computed Do and much	Wapentakes &c.	Parti- ament	rum of Y Land	of	Lef-	Circuit.
1/1/1	Workshire				30 York.		15	-		560		Towns.						Tax.	Note.	ser.
144										563					530755		30	24	2	3	Northern.
44	Devonshire)				66 Exeter.			A District of the last				28	700	-		30 Hund.	——	21	4	_	Western.
114.	10 / / 00			 	43 Lincoln		-			_		22	1556	40590	202950	3 Hund. 25 Måpen.	12	19	1		Midland,
159.	Northumberland.				5 Newcase							5	279	22741	113705		8	_	1	1	Northern.
69.	Kent	1550	1248000	56	o Canterbury	/.C52	56-2	18.8	51-14	408	163	22	1173	39242	196210	5 Lathes.	10	22	1	5	Home?
91	Efrex)			1 / 1	to Colchest				51-56		/ -	19	1100	34859	174095	18 Hund.	26	14	1	2	Home.
57	Hampshire?	1481	1312500	62	6 Winchester	C. 52	67-3	1 W. 15	51-5	253	77	26	1062	26851	134255	33 Hund .	26	14	2	3	Western.
151	Lancushire?	1429	1150000	68 2	10 Lancaste	r. 180	232-6	2-47	54-1	36	12	17	894			5 Hund.		5	1	1	Northern.
97	Norfolk?	1.426	1148000	573	5 Norwich	C. 90	108-7	16, 20	52-42	660	164	23	14.99	47180	235,900	31 Hund.	12	22	2	_	Norfolk.
66	Jufsex 2	Andrew American			9 Chichester											6 Rapes.	_	16	_	4	Home.
40	Somersetshire			1	-1 Bristol.											37 Hund.		19	3	1	Western.
156.				-	o Carliste.						77	8			74125		6	1	1	2	Northern.
0/1		-			8 Ipsnrice						0.5	22				17 Hund.	16	20	1	1	Norfolk,
94.					6 Launceste													8	()	4
41												19				9 Hund.		0	2	0	Western.
129.	Shorofushire?				3 Shrewfbu		 			 		10				14 Hund.		1	_		Oxford 2,
53-	Wiltshire?				7 Salisbury		-				_					20 Hund.		13		-	Western.
126.	Staffordshire.				2 Litchfield							13				5 Hund.		7		-	Oxford).
72.	Gloucestershire	994	800000	62 3	6 Gloucester.	C, 1.82	102-2	2-9	51-55	280	96	19				21 Hund.		12	-	2	Oxford),
47.	Dorsetshire	959	772000	53 3	4 Dorchest	er. 100	123-	2-37	50-43	248	68	18	1006	21944	109720	28 Hund.	20	9	3	2	Western.
13 h.	Cheshire2	.894	720000	54 2	7 Chester.	C. 140	162-1	3-	53-11	68	20	12	670	24054	120270	7 Hund.	4	7	-	1	Onn Judges,
119.	Derbyshire 2	.845	680000	51 2	8 Derby.	98	122-4	1-29	52-58	106	53	8	503	21155	105775	5 Hund.	4	6	-	_	Midland.
122	Warwickshire?	832	670000	38 3	O Coventry.	C74	92-1	2-28	52-26	158	87	11	780	21973	109865	4 Hund. 1 Liberty.	6	10	_	_	Midland.
133.	Herefordshire)	820	660000	36 3	o Hereford.	C. 102	130-6	2-41	52-6	176	87	8				12 Hund.	8	5		_	Oxford,
149.	Durham Bpck				5 Durham						59	4	223	15984	79920		4	3	1	1	Northern,
	Surry					4	-2		51-31		3.5	8				13 Hund.	14	18	_		Home);
101.	Cambridgeshire						_		52-13			6				16 Hund.		9			Norfolk.
109.	Leicestershire				8 Leiceste							10	_		93510	4		9			Midland.
117.	Nottinghamshire.															6 Wapentaka 2 Divisions.		7			Midland.
106.	Northamptonshire.								52-39 52-13							2 Divisions. 20 Hund.		12			Midland.
 													_				9	0			Oxford.
124.					8 Worcester.							10			103170		9	9
74	Oxfordshire)				2 Oxford							9				14 Hund.		10		_	Caford?
60	Berkshire?				9 Reading		_		51-29			12			 	22 Hund.	9	10	-	_	Oxford?
154	Westmoreland.				4 Appleby							3	220	6501	32505		4	1	-	_	Northern
82.	Hertfordshire?	560	451000	34 2	6 Hertfor	d 20	21-6	8, 1	51-49	120	54	15	949			8 Hund.	6	11		-	Home?
77	Buckinghamshire.	.548	441000	442	1 Ailesburg	y34	44-3	W. 54	52-1	185	73	11	615			8 Hund.	14	12		_	Norfolk.
135.	Monmouthshire.	.422	270080	31 2	4 Monmou	th. 100	127	2-41	51-52	127	_	7		6490	38940		3	_	_	2	Oxford:
79	Bedfordshire	323	205120	26 1	8 Bedfore	12.40	49-1	28	52-47	116	58	10	550	12170	60850	9 Hund.	4	7	-	_	Norfolk.
104.	Huntingdonshire.				0 Huntinga	THE RESIDENCE	_		52-19			5	27.9	8217	41085	3 Hund.	4	4	_	_	Norfolk.
84.	MiddlesexO				5 LONDON.	_		First Mer.			-	7	280	120 000	960000	5 Hund. 2 Liberties.	8	80	1	_	Sessions.
112.	Rutlandshire.				Oakhan			W. 42				2	111		16315		2	2	_	_	Midland.
139.				_	3 Caermarth	_						38			189468				3	4	South W.
							_					24			152296				1		North W.
141.	Voran wates	2/29	740500	10/	2 Denbigh	4100	209-2	3-32	32-30	311		24		-0000	13 2 2 9 0

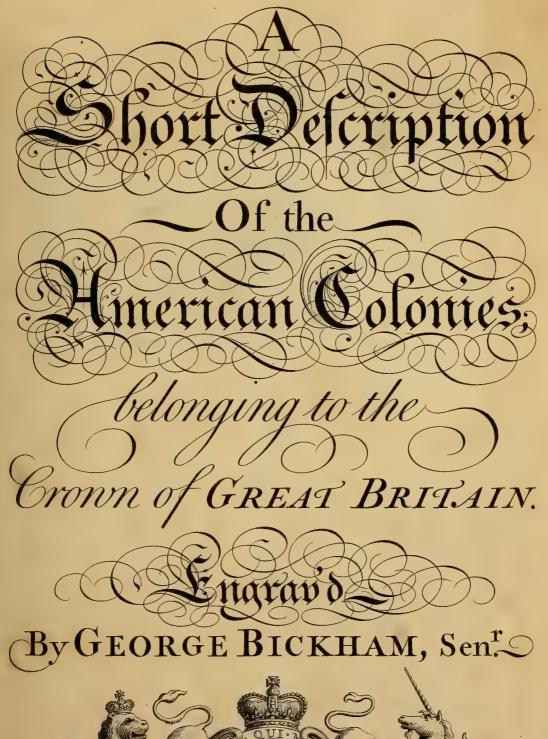

LONDON: Publish'd according to Act of Parliament, 19 Dec. 1747.

The American Colonies.

These Colonies, including the most distant Islands as well as the Main Land, extend about 40 Degrees of North Latitude on the West Side of the great Atlantic Ocean: But the Continent Part, which is, more or less, almost a Continuation of inchabited Country, lies between about 30° and 47°. As the Coast of this Fract declines near 20° from N-& to S-W, it is of greater Extent than the opposite Coast of France, Spain, and Portugal in Europe, and West Barbary in Africa, which lie parallel to it. The whole Length, in a streight Line, is about 1400 Miles; the Breadth uncertain, as the Parts are more or less inhabited, but capable every were of being greatly enlarged. We need not wonder, therefore, that for a long time past, it has been honourd with the Name of the British Empire in America.

To-proceed in our Description of this Country in the Orderit lies, we must divide it into New Scotland, or Acadia, New England, New York, New Jersey, Pensylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Carolina, and Georgia.

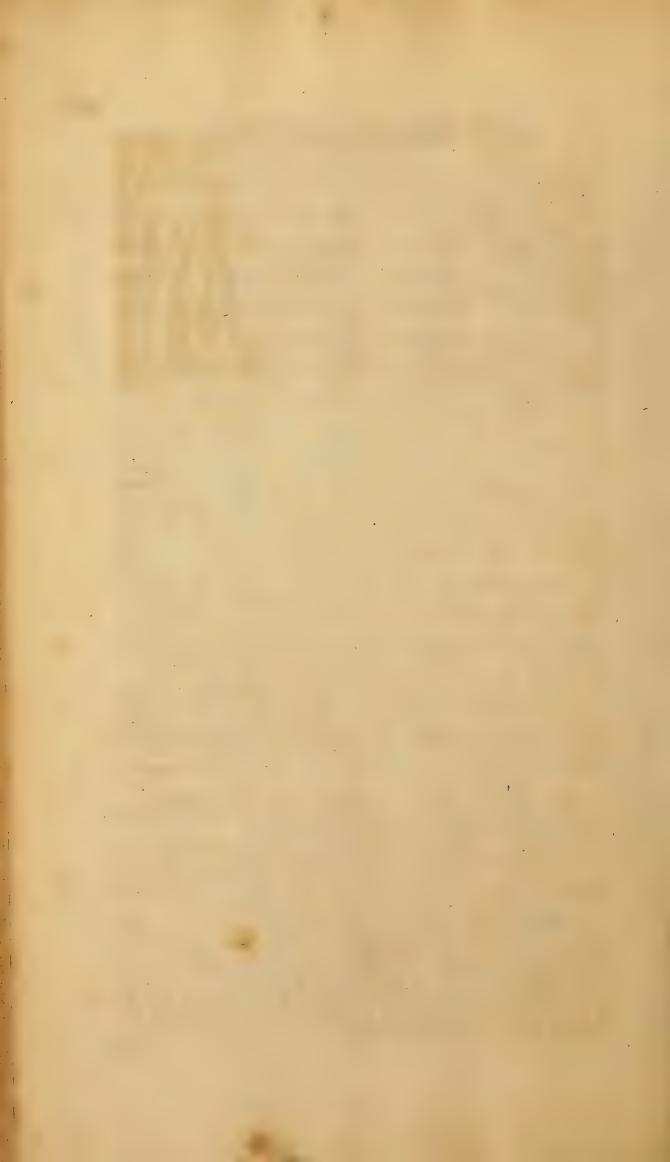

The American Colonies.

A CADIA, above 400 Miles long & 200 broad, is bounded on the East by S! Lawrence's Bay & the Fishing Seas of Newfoundland; on the North & West, by the River of S! Lawrence; and on the South, by New England & the Bay of Fundy. The Climate is cold in Winter; but the Country is in general good, and abounding in Corn.

The Right of it was long contested between the French & English, but was finally, by the Beace of Ultrecht, granted to the Latter, when & chief Town, before called Port Royal by the French, was named Annapolis Royal in Honour of Queen Anne. It has an excellent Harbour, in & most capacious Bay of Fundy, and a Fort with an English Garison: But the Inhabitants in and about it are chiefly) French & Romanists, being the Colony that was planted there by Lenvis XIV, and refused to remove upon the Cefsion of & Country to England. They have been always induly'd in the Profession of their Religion; but are fuspected, however, to be too well inclined to their native Countrymen, which occasions the more frict Eye to be kept over them fince the War broke out between the two Nations.

The other chief Settlements on the fame Bay are Chigmictor and Minas. There was also an English Fort on if Eastern Point, over against Cape Breton, called Canso; but the French took and ruined it about three Years ago.

Sebastian Cabot first discover'd this Country at the Charge of King Henry VII; and it was once inhabited by a Scotch Colony, fent thither in 1622; from whence it had the Name of New Scotland.

The AMERICAN COLONIES

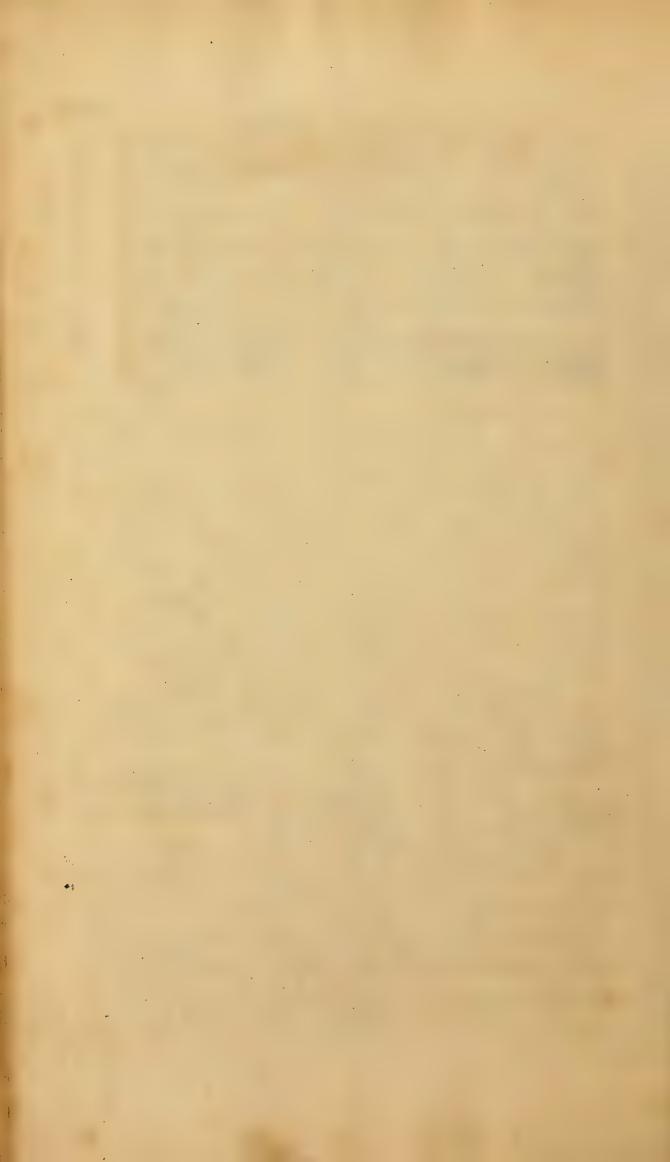

NEW ENGLAND, the most populous of all the English Settlements, has 350 Miles of Coast, between the Latitude of 41 and 46. New Scotland bounds it on & North, the Atlantic Ocean on if East and South, & New York and Canada on the West. The Inhabited Part is in fome Places 250, and in others not above 80 Miles broad. It has a temperate Air, an exceeding good Soil, & abounds with all the Necefsaries of Life: But the chief Commodities, which the Inhabitants export to Europe, are Cod-fish, Masts, Naval Stores, and Furs.

New England was difcover'd by & Two Cabots in 1497, but not taken possession of till 1558, in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth; nor much inhabited till if Time of her Successor.

The chief Rivers are Connecticut, Marimack,

Providence, and the Glass River.

New England is divided into three Colonies. The first, which is most populous, retains the Indian Name of Massachufet's Bay, and is divided into Six Counties; Viz. The Main,Cornwall,Efsex,Middlesex,Suffolk,and Hampshire. In all which above 80 good Towns are now to be feen, most of them bearing English Names: But if principal of all is Boston, in Suffolk County, a City that may be placed with those of the second Rank in Europe both for Magnitude and Commerce. It stands upon a Beninfula in a fine large Bay. The Independents, who are the establish'd Church in this Colony, have here three large Places for Divine Worship; the French Protestants, one; the Baptists, one; and the Episcopalians, one. Some Years ago the Inhabitants were computed at near 20,000. New Cambridge is an University, and has two Colleges, which are in a flourishing Condition.

The Himerican Colonies.

The Government of New England is in a Governor fent from England by his Majesty's Nomination, and the Houses of General Assembly & Council, the first representing the House of Lords, & the second that of & Commons in England:

But Appeals lie from hence, and all the other Colonies, to the Privy Council at Whitehall. The same Parliamentary Form exists thro' most of the other Colonies; but in some, as Pensylvania and Maryland, the Governor is appointed by the Proprietor.

The Colony of Plimouth is if fecond Division of New England, containing the three Counties of Plimouth, Barnstable, and Bristol, with near twenty good Towns.

Rhode Island belongs to this Division, and is inhabited chiefly by Quakers, who make fine Earthen Ware?

Connecticut Colony, the third Divilion, contains y four Counties of New London, Hartford, Newhaven, & Fairfield, in all which the Towns are about Forty.

As

The Name of this Province, given by Queen Elizabeth, was at first general to all that is now called the British Empire in North America. S. Walter Raleigh had the first Letters—Patent for eftablishing a Colony here, which he attempted to little Purpofe: But the Project had better Success, after his Death, in the latter Part—of the Reign of James I. It has continued improving ever fince, and who are chiefly of the Church of England.

This Province must therefore appear much more confiderable than Mary-land; but as that came first in order, and is Agreement betwiet them is so great, we are prevented, by what is already faid, from enlarging here in our Description.

the Inhabitants are now computed at not lefs than a hundred Thoufand,

As Virginia, on if Mainland fide, is parted from Maryland by Paton mack River; it is in if Deninfula, on the East of Chefapeak Bay, divided from it by a Line drawn from the Mouth of Docomoack to the Atlantic Ocean, which is its Eastern Boundary. On the South it has Carolina, and on the West if Apalachean Mountains.

Virginia

The American Colonies.

Virginia is divided into 35 Counties, in which are 49 Rarishes. The chief Towns in & whole are James Town,& William burgh. Tho the Name of a City be given to the first of these, it does not in the whole contain above 60 or 70 Houses, the chief of which are Taverns & Eating-Houses for the Conveniency of Travellers. Two or three Forts, and many spacious Streets, were laid out in the Original Plan: But Fires, Revolutions in y Government, y Dispositions of y Virginians to live on their Plantations, and the Removal of the Courts of Justice to William/burgh, have been y Caufes of its prefent inconfiderable State. Nor does William/burgh thrive better, tho' it has a College, a Play-house, and other Rublick Buildings, befides the Courts; for the private Houses are very few. However, as it stands in a healthier Situation than James City, it bids fairer to grow confiderable when Society may become fashionable in this Province. The College has been once destroyed by Fire, but tis now rebuilt, and differs not much in form from Chelfea Hofpital.

Carolina

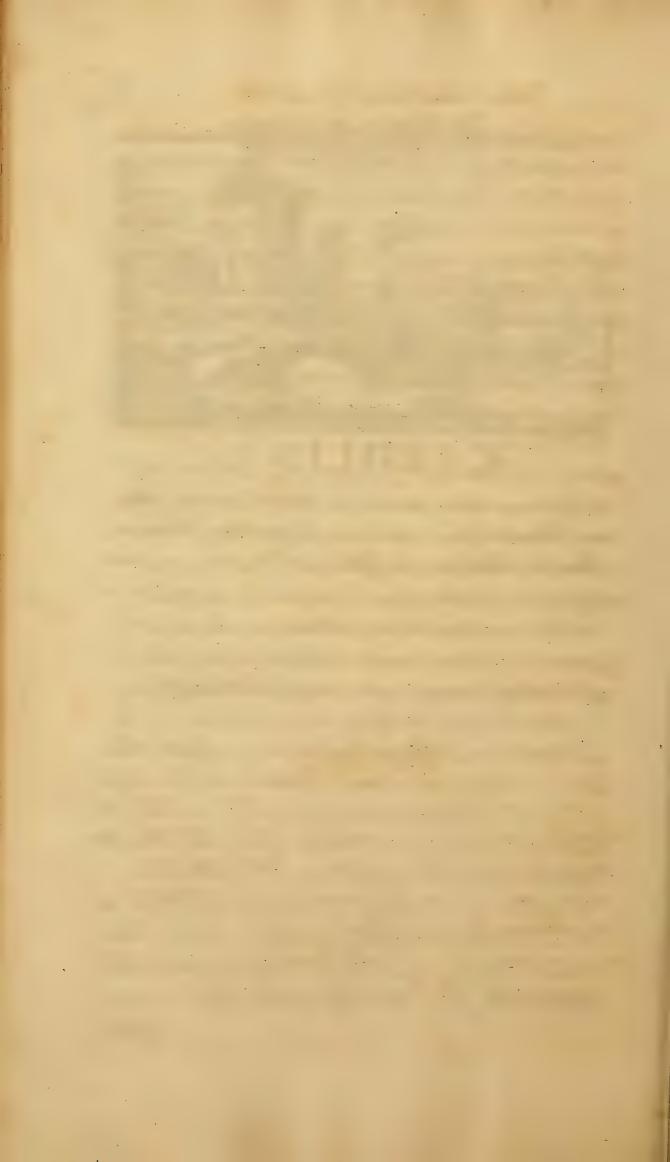

CAROLINA.

This Province, divided into North & South, is bounded on if East by the Atlantic Ocean, on the North by Virginia, on if West by the Cherokee Indians & the Afralachean Mountains, & on if South by Georgia, which, till if Reign of his prefent Majesty, was a Part of it.

Its Rivers, which all fall into if Atlantic, are numerous, and the greatest Part of if Coaft is covered with Iflands & Banks. The Name of Carolina was not given after either of if Charles's Kings of England, but after Charles IX King of France, in whole Time the French endeavoured to fettle here: But they & the Spaniards having alternately expelled each other, if English were if first that formed any Thing like a Colony, for which they procured a Charter in 1663. We had also a prior Claim to either if French or Spaniards, Selvastian Calvot having first discovered this Coast in if English Service.

Carolina was in GHands of the Lords Proprietors till 1728, when a formal Surrender, for a valuable Confideration, was made of their Charter to his Prefent Majesty, except an eighth Part which the Earl of Granville referves. Tho' the Original Plan of Government was digested digested by the great M. Lock, above 60 Years Experience flewed it would not fucceed: But the Country has flourished very much during y hventy Years that it has been under the Crown. Its Productions are various, and every Year increasing. Here are Cattle of most of y EUropean Kinds, befides those that are native. Scarce any Vegetables, either of EUrope or America, but thrive here, which is a plain Indication that both y Air & Soil must be excellent. But y Culture of Rice, Mulberry Trees for the Silk-worms, and Indico, seem chiefly to engage y Attention of the Inhabitants. As to the Temperature, this Province has rather a greater Proportion of Heat than of Cold.

THE AMERICAN COLONIES.

Carolina has feveral Towns more confiderable then those of Virginia; but Charles Town is if most northy of Notice. The Old Maps shew us a Place of this Name in North Carolina, which doth not at present seem to make any figure. But Charles Town in South Carolina, betwiet Ashley and Cooper Rivers, is a handsome increasing Place, & regularly fortified with Six Bastions.

Some Years ago a great Part of it had if Missortune to be destroyed by Fire, most of if Buildings being then of Wood. But it is faid fince to appear with more Advantage, & to contain at present above 600 Houses.

As this is the most Southerly, so it is if most Modern, of all the British Settlements on the Continent of North America. It was separated by Charter in 1732 from South Carolina, of which it contains that Part will lay betwixt the Rivers Savannah and Alatamaha, having Florida on if South, a short Extent of Coast towards the Sea, and if Creek Indians, with a vast unknown Tract, on the West. Ogechee is the next considerable River.

Logarith to the time in the first was to

The American Colonies.

The Climate, Air, Soil, and Produce of Georgia are much if fame as those of Carolina, only the more Southerly Situation must add a little to the Heat. As to Commodities and Manufactures, it cannot be expected that much should yet be faid of them. The Settlement and Government are indeed chiefly Military, to form a Barrier against the Spaniards, who made a fruitless Attempt on it in 1742, being repulsed by if English under General Oglethorpe, & a small Body of Indians under a Son of the famous Tomo-Chichi.

This Tomo-Chichi, with his Wife & Sons, and fome other Chiefs, accompanied M. Oglethorpe to England in 1734.

Savannah is the Chief Town in Georgia, and had fome time ago above 200 Houfes, built at regular Diftances.

Upon the Purchase of the Property of Carolina by his Majesty, Orders were given for building 11 Towns in Georgia & Carolina, each of which was to have 20,000 Acres of Land square, & to be divided into Shares of 50 Acres. There were many other Particulars in & Plan, which Posterity, perhaps, may see the Accomplishment of.

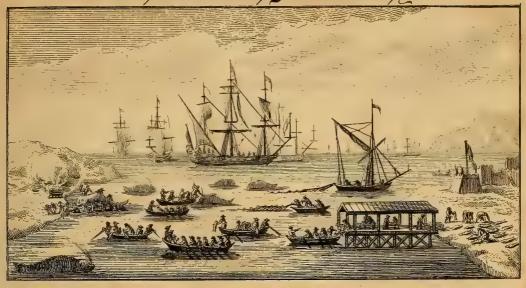

We should be blamed were we to quit this Province without taking Notice of the Celebrated M. Whitefield's Orphan-Houfe, and the Collections he has made in fupport of it in England & elsewhere.

As we know nothing certain of the State of this Foundation, we Shall not mention what has been faid in Favour or Diffavour of the Project.

The British Monarchy.

Conclusion of the American Colonies.

North of all the other European Settlements in America, a Company of English Merchants have feveral Forts and Factories on Hudson's Buy, where they carry on a profitable exclusive Trade in Furs and Skins.

he Timerican Islands.

Newfoundland is a large Island, famous beyond all others for the Cod-fishery. The fole Propriety of it, with the Fort of Placentia, was furrendered to if English by if Peace of Utrecht. The Bermudas Islands are a small Government about 300 Leagues of the Coast of Carolina. They have been famous for the Healthiness of the Climate, and contain about 5000 White People: but have little Frade or Navigation.

The Bahama or Providence Islands form one fide of the Gulph of Florida. We have a Governor and Company of

Che American Islands

Soldiers there, rather to protect them from the Spaniards, and prevent their being a Nest of Pyrates, than for any immediates Benefit that accrues from the Possession of them.

Our Sugar Islands are divided into three Governments; Viz. Jamaica, the Leeward Islands, and Barbadoes.

Sugars and Rums are at present the chief Commodities in them all, and we import from them of the former above 80,000 Hogsheads a Year.

Jamaica is a large Gland, was taken from y Spaniards in the time of Cromwell, and contains about 20,000 White Leople, and 80 or 90,000 Negroes. Kingston and Spanish-

Town are its chief Places.

The Leeward Iflands, betwixt Porto Rico & Garda-loupe, are chiefly Antegoa, I. Christopher's, Mevis, and Montserrat, who have each a Lieutenant Governor under the Governor General at Antegoa. I. John's in Antegoa, and Basterre in I. Kit's, are the chief Places. The White People are above 10,000, and the Negroes betwixt 70 & 80,000. Anguilla & Barbuda are fmall & inconfiderable. Barbadoes alone contains 17,000 White People, and at least 80,000 Negroes. It is extremely well cultivated, and has a Bridge Town for the Capital. The Governor is called Governor of S. Lucia, I. Vincent's and Dominica; but if Title to these is disputed with us by the French.

Halletong of as

These Dominions, belonging to the King, but not to the Crown of Great Britain, lie chiefly in the Circle of Lower Saxony, betwict the Rivers Elbe & Weser. They are of large Extent, but intermixed on y South with other States, particularly the Dutchy of Wolfembuttel, & the Bishoprick of Hildesheim. They are divided into the Dutchies of Calemberg, or Hanover, in which is the Hanover y Capital, and Herrenhausen, y King's Residence when in Germany: Grubenhagen in which is y University of Gottingen; Bremen, Ferden, Saxe Lawenburgh, Lunenburgh, and Zell, with Cities of y same Names, (but Bremen is Free and Imperial) the Counties of Danneberg, Hoye, & Diepholt, all with Towns likewise of the same Names.

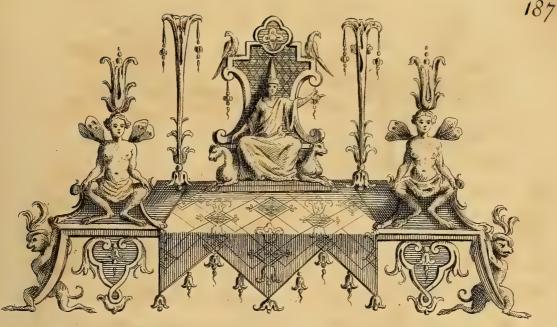

The Bifhoprick of Ofnaburg, in Westphalia, is enjoyed alternately by a Younger Prince of his Majesty's Family, and an elected Roman Catholic.

His Majesty's Electoral Revenues, great Part of them from Silver Mines, are computed at betwixt 48,500,000 & a Year. On these he can keep an Army of above 20,000 Men. But of late Years it has been much larger, near that Number having been in the Pay of Great Britain.

The African and Indian Settlements.

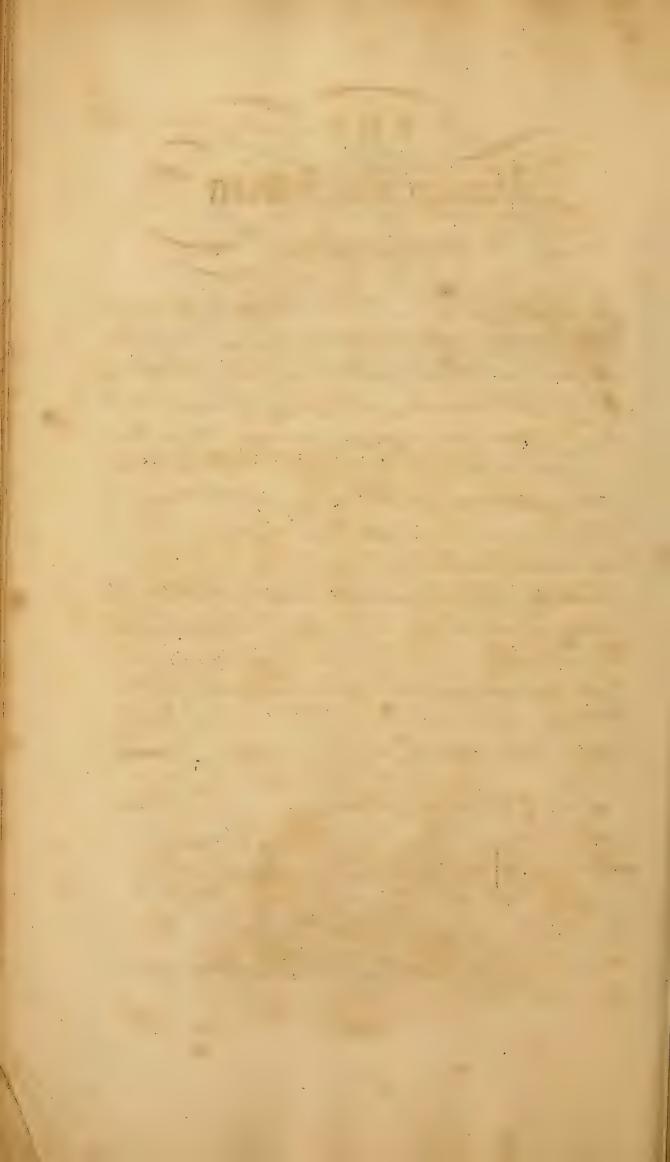

These Forts and Factories are under the Protection of y Crown, but the Property of the African and Indian Companies, who garifon them in their own Names.

The African Company have James Fort on Gambia River. Most of their other Forts, of which the chief is Cape-Coast Castle, lie from West to East on the Coast of Guinea, in about 5 Degrees N. Lat. This Company is at present so low, that it annually applies to Parliament for Money to maintain thefePlaces: But the Trade of Negroes is notwithstanding as great as ever, being chiefly carried on by private Adventurers.

The Caft India Company, whose Trade is in a very flourishing Condition, have the Ifland of It Helena, betwise Africa & South America, for their Ships to call at in their Rufsage. In India their chief Settlements are Bombay on the Malabar, and Fort I! George, or Madras, on the Coromandel Couft. Agreat Number of small Factories depend on thefe. They have also Fort William upon Hugly River, a?

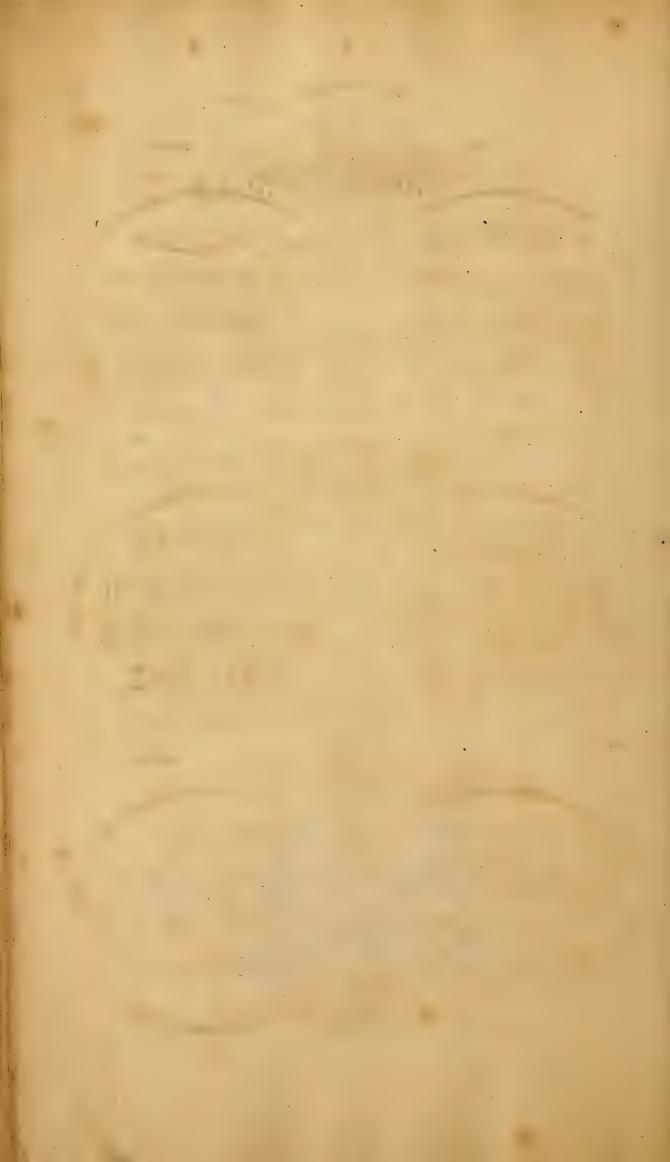

Branch

Atrican and Indian Settlements.

Branch of the Ganges, and Marlborough Fort, or Bencoolen, on y Ifle of Sumatra. The Company trade befides to Moco in Arabia, Gombroon in Persia, Surat in the Mogul's Dominions, and Canton in China. It is thought y Profits of this Company are more than a Million Yearly. The Lists of the Navy, Army, and Publick Offices, which we proposed at first to have added to this Work, are fince become so common, and are besides subject to such frequent Variations, that we have been advised by good Judges to omit them. We will only observe in general, that the British Fleet never made a greater Figure than whilf we have been engaged in this Undertaking; nor was the British Army, including Mercenaries, ever more numerous. But were we to attempt Particulars, the Reductions occasioned by the Peace must falsify many of them before they could be excecuted.

Round Band

/ Aaabbecdde eefffgghijkkllm noppggrsfsttuvv wwxxyyzzə ABCDEe FGHIKLM NOPQRSIt UVWXYYZ.

German Cext.

eefghijkklimmm noovpagrisstiw uvwwxnzz. FEBBER FEBBER RESERVE RESERVE

Italian ...

laabbeedde eefffyhhijkkllmn nooppggrsfsttuur vwx xyyyzzz. ABCDEE FGHIKLM NOPQRST UVWXYZ.

G.Bickham, Sen! Fecit.

Men Frint.

Aaabbccdde effgghhijkkllmn nnoppqqrfsfftttu uvwwxxyyz. ABCDEe
FGHIJKLM
NOPQRST
UVWXYZ

Clo Print

Aaabbeedd
eeffghhijkkllmm nnooppggrissittu uvvwwxxyyz.

ABCDE:
FGHIRLM
ADPARST
UUXIZO

Italick Frint

/ ABCDEF GHIJKKLM NOPQQRST UVWXYYZ)

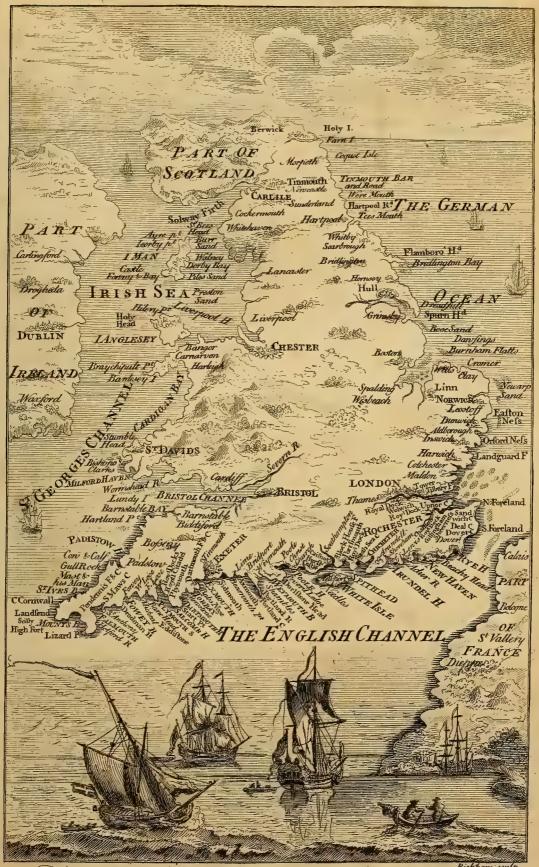

GBickham, Sen! Fecit.

The second state of the second second

A Chart of the Sea Coast.

This Chart Then's all the Sea Coasts of England and Wales with the Royal Docks, Fortifications, Harbours Sands. &c.

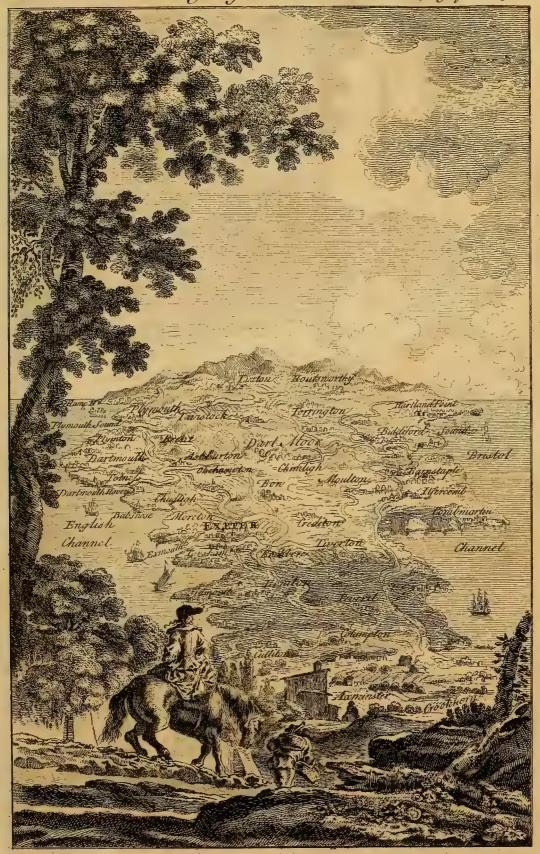

Humbly inscribed to the Earl of Radnor, Lord Licutenant se. of the County -

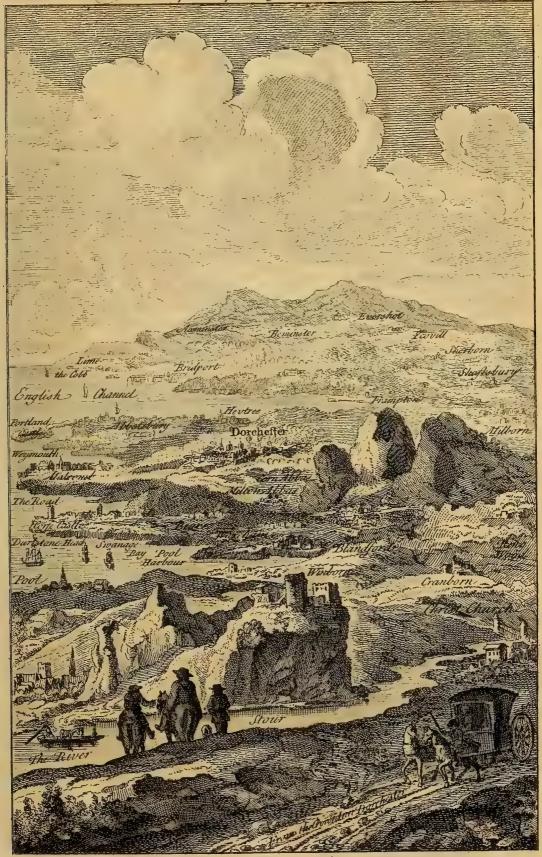

Inscribid to the Carl of Orford, Lord Lieutenant sc. of y County.

From Crookhorn to Acminster 13.2. to Honiton 9.4. to Rockberro to y City of Exeter 6.4. to Chulley 9.4. to Ashburton 9. to Bren 7.6. to Plymouth 17. in all 82 /lilas 4 Furlongs by G.Bichham according to Act 1750.

· Insoribid to y Carl of Shaftsbury Lord Lieutenant of the County.

From Cranborn to Blandford 12-2 to Dorchester 16-6. to Weymouth 8-5. to Bridport 6-1 to Lime 9-2; in all 53 in length, & 132-1 from London D. By G. Bickham according to act 1750.

AMAP of SOMERSET SHIRE West from London? Humbly inscribid to Geo. Doddington Esq. Lord Leutenant &c. of the County.

From Bristol to Bishops-Chue 7-1. to Wolls 11-7 to Glastonbury 5-6. to Greinton 6-5 to Lyng 3-2. to Wollington 7-1. to Welland 10-1. to Broadinch 5. in all 56-7. from Rondon 108 Miles.

According to Act of Parliament by G. Bichham 1750

A. M.AP of WILT SHIRE West from Low DOW. Inscribid to the EARL of PEMBROKE, Lord Lieutenant of the County -

From Salisbury to Marlborough 24-5 to Calne 12-5 to Chippenham 5-6, to— Frombridge 9-6, to Bradford 4-2 in all 57, from London >83 miles 7 furlongs By G.Bickham according to Act 1750.—

- AMAP of HAMP SHIRE. West from London. Humbly inscribed to the Lord Limington; Lord Lieut of y Country.

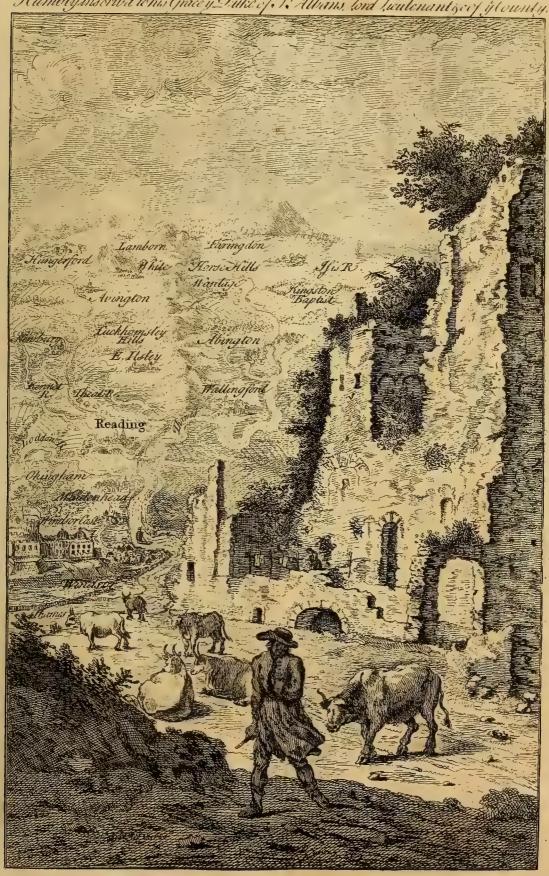

From Alton to Alresford 9.5. to Winchester 3.4. to Rumsey 12.1 to Ringwood 17.5 to Pool 14 in all 56.7, from London 54 Miles.

According to Act of Parliament by G. Bickham 1750

A. May of BERK'S HIRE. West from Condon's.

Humblyinsoribit tohis Grace y Louke of M. Albans, fond Licutenant goof y County.

From Maidenhead to Reading 12.4 to Theal 4.3 Sto Newbury 12.1 to Hungerford 9.2 in all 38 Miles 2 Furlongs in length Reading from London 32 Miles . — according to Act of Parliament by G. Bickham 1750.

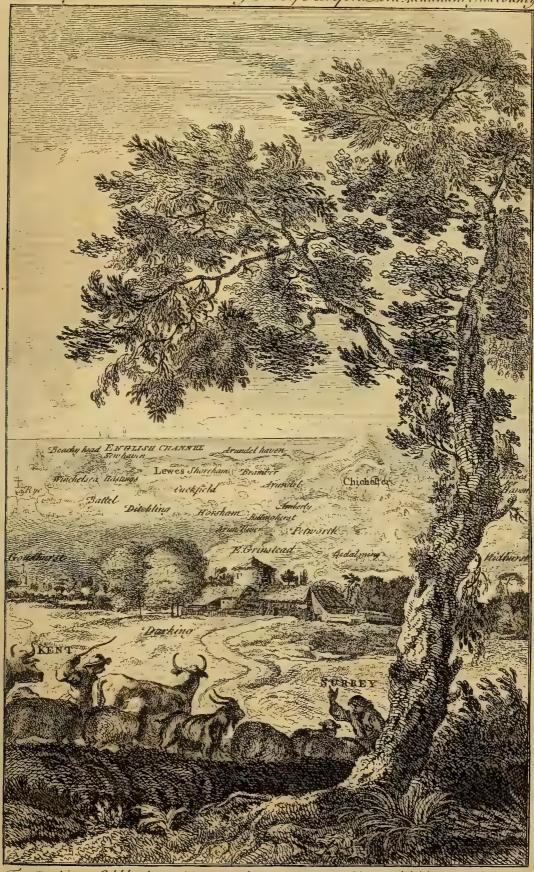

Humbly inscribed to if RI Continued Lord Onston, L. Lieut of the County.

From Southwark to Newington 1-6. to Wandsworth 4.4. to Kingston 6-2.to Guilford 17-4. to Godalming 4-4. in all.in. Length from London 34-2. to Godalming &c. According to Act of Parliament by Geo. Bichham 1751.

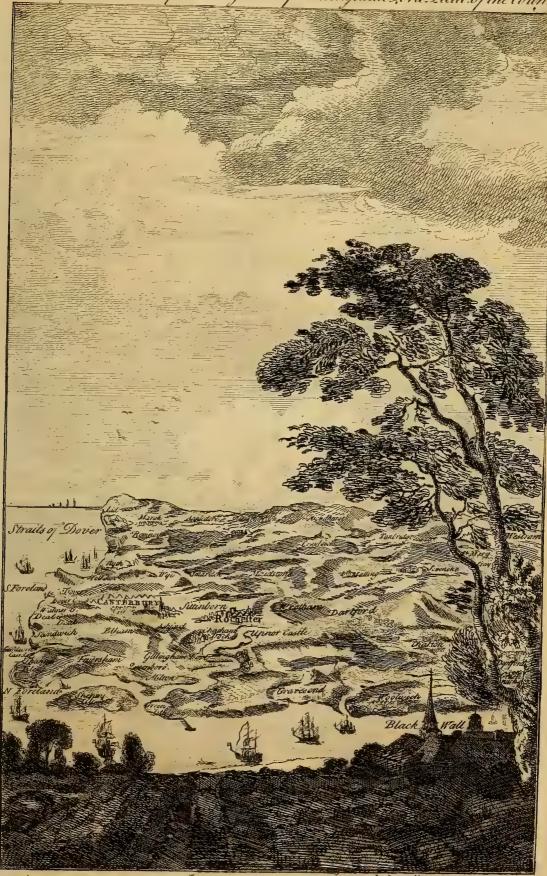

Humbly Inscribit to the R. Hon "y Carl of Hertford Lord Reutenant of the Country

From Darking to Cold-harbour Hill 3-o. to Stonestreet 2-4. to Okewood Bridge 1-7, to Nichook 3-1 to Arun River 1-4, to Buckman Corner 3 to Billingherst 1-7, to Moulsey 1-5, to Wickenholt 4:5 to Arundel 2-6, in all 31-1. Furlong , from London 5:5-4, ... According to Act of Parliament 17:51. by G. Bickham D

A Map of KENT. South from LONDON, Humbly inscribed to yR.Hon.y Earl of Rockingham Lord Lieut of the Country

From London to Deptford 4-1. to Dartford 11-1. to Rochester 14-2. to Sitting born 11 to Canterbury 14-2. to Dover 15. in all from London 69-6.

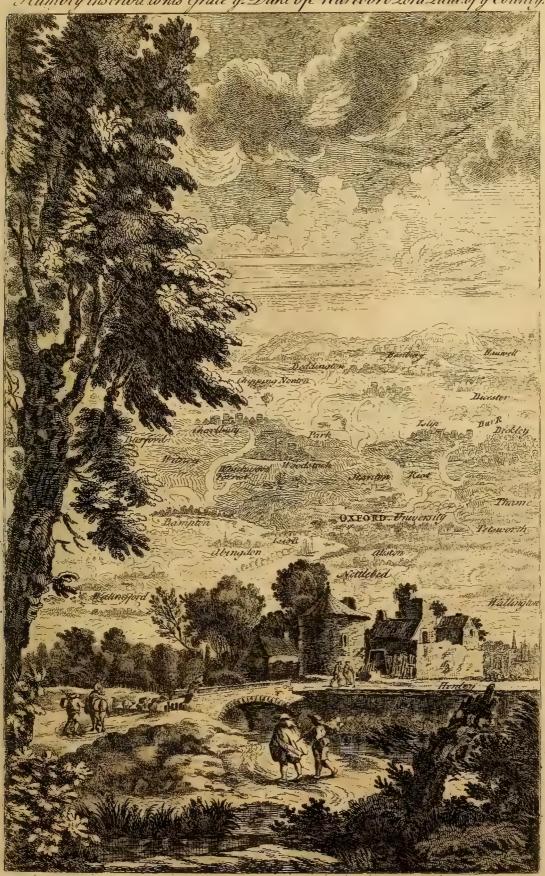

tefore page 72.
AMAJO OF GLOCESTER SHIRE N. 91 Test from London
Humbly Inscribite if Blokky Earl of Borkeloy, Lord Lieut! of the Country.

From Bristol to Sodbury 11-5, to Telbury 11-6, to Cirencester 30-1, to Glocester 20-1 to Tenksbury 10-2, in all 83-7 from London to Glocester 81 m. . According to Act of Parliament by G Bickham 1751.

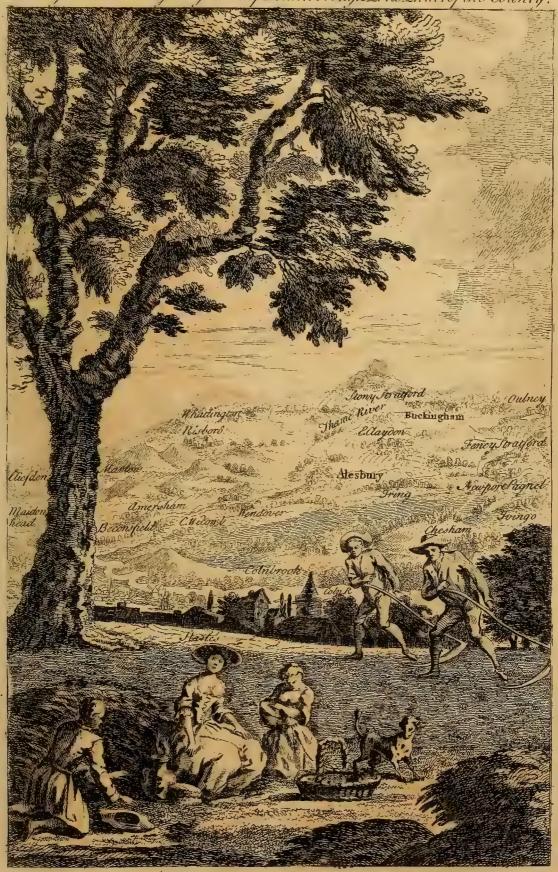

A Map of OXFORDSHIRE North West from London Humbly inscribed to his Grace & Duke of Hardbord Lord Lieut of & County.

From Henley to Wallington 8-1 to Oxford 11- to Istip 8-3 to Banbury - 17-1 in all 44-5 from London to Oxford 55-6

According to Act of Parliam! G. Bickham 1751

A Map of BUCKINGHAM SHIRE North West from London. Humbly inscribed to his Grace y Duke of Marlborough Lord Licut! of the County.

Beconsfield to Amersham 10-6 to Wendover 9-5 to Ayladrury 5 to Tham River 1-7 to E. Claydon 8 to Buckingham 6-4 from London 44 According to Oct of Parliam & Bickham

A Map of BEDFORD SHIRE North Som London Humbly Inscribed to his Grace y Duke of Bedford Lord Lieut of the County

From Market I treet to Dunstable 3-7 to Lutton 4-6 to Burton Clay 7-7 to Willsumsted 6-2 to Elvistow 2.0 to Bedford 2.2 from London 49.1 according to act of Parlam! by G Buckham

AMap of HERT FORD SHIRE North from London Humbly Inscribed to the R. Hon the Earl of Essex Lord Lieutenant of this Country

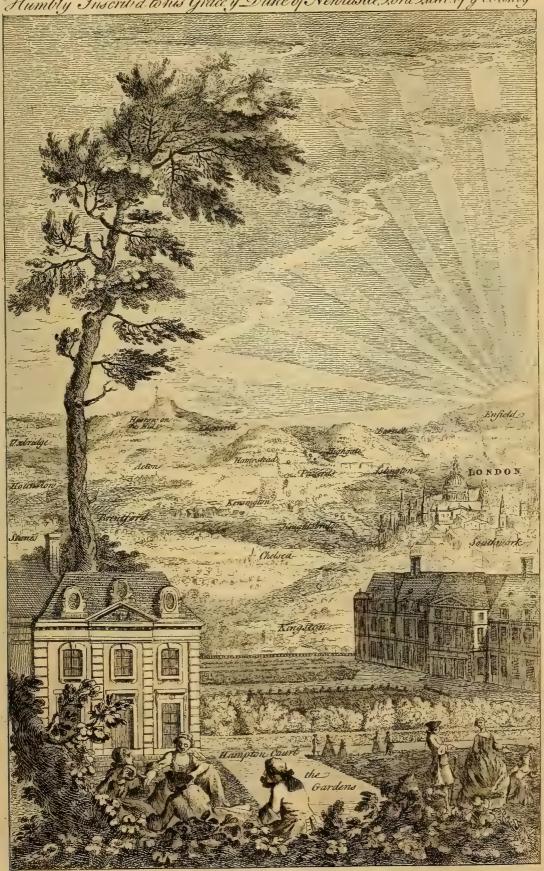

From Barnet to NMims 3-6 to Rudge Hill 1-4 to Concy 1 5 to S. Albans 2-6 to Stevenage 10-2 to Baldock 6-1 in all 26 Miles S. Albans from London 21-5 Furlongs.

According to act of Parliament by GBickham 1751

A May of MIDDLESEX N. West From Low DON: Humbly Inscribed tohis Grace & Duke of Newcastle ford Lieut of & County

From London to Stanes 16 m Brentford 8. Houns low 2 Stanes 6. from London to Uksbridge 15 m. from London to Edgrorth 12-7 from London to Enfield 11-7 from London to Islington Church 2-3 lower Holloway 1-6 to High gate 1-7 in all 5-7.

G: Bickham According to Act of Parliament, 1751.

?

A. Map of ESSEX, N. Cast from London 2. 191
Humbly Insorbed to the R. Hon Garl of Fitzwalter Lord Lieutemant of the Country

From Barking to Rumford 3-1 to Brontwood 6-0 to Chelmsford 10-5 to Witham 7-6 to Colchester 13-2 to Harwich 21-0 in all 62-6 Chelmsford from London 28-3

According to Act of Parliam by G. Buckham. 17 62.

A Map of SUFFOLK N. East from London. Humbly Inscribed to his Grace the Duke of Grafton, Lord Lieutenant of the Country.

From Newmarket to Red House 5-2 to Barton Mills 3-1 to Brandon 4 to Isworth 7-7 to Framlingham 5-6 to Leostoffe 26-6 Orford from _ London 88-2 Ipswich 68 _ according to act of Partiam: by G. Bickham 1752

A Mup of NORFOLK North from London. Humbly inscribit to the R.Hon! Carl of Buckingham Lord Lieutenant of the Country.

From London to Thetford 79 m. 5 f. to Attleborough 14. to Windham 6. to Cringleford 2-6. to Norwich 2 6 to Yarmouth 13 6 from London to Walsingham 116-3. to Norwich 108-7. to Holt 116-6.

Walsingham 116-3. to Norwich 108-7. to Holt 116-6.

according to act of Partiant by & Biokham 152

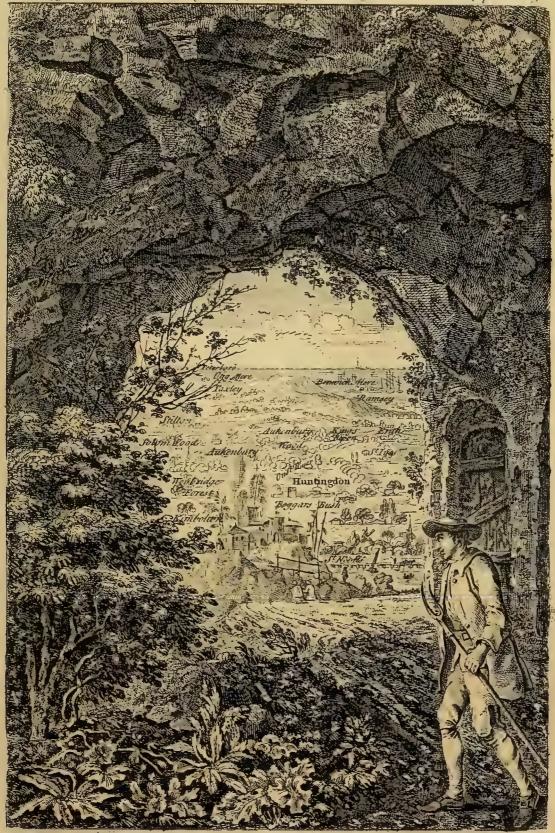

AMap of CAMBRIDGE SHIRE North from London Humbly Inscribed to the RITON Tart of Lincoln Lord Lieutenant of y County.

Royston from London 38-2, to Caxton 9, to Cambridge 2, to Newmarket 8-3, to Cly 9-2, to Wisbeach 11-2 from London to Cambridge 52. according to Act of Partiament by G. Richham 1752.

A Map of HUNTINGDON SHIRE North from London > Humbly inscribed to his Grace y Duke of Manchefler bond Land of County

Distance of the Principal Towns from Huntingdon to Aukenbury 8, to Peterborough 27, to Allerton 27, to Ramsey 12, to S. T. Ves 5 to Stilton 12, to Kimbolton 10, to Tetworth 15 to S. Neotts 10, to Yaxley 21. From London to Huntingdon 57, 2.

(Aivided into 3 hundreds, Leighton stone, Norman Cross, & Toscland)

(According to West Fartiament, Geo. Biotham 1752.

A. Hap of NORTHAMPTON SHIRE North from London Humbly Inscribed to & R'Hon! The Earl of Halifax . Lord Lieut of the County

From London to Brackley 57.3. to Towcester 3.2. to Northampton 15.5 to Kettering 3.2 to Rocking ham 6.5 to Cliffe 9.5 to Peterborough from London > 76.2.

According to Not of Parliament by G. Bickham > 17.52

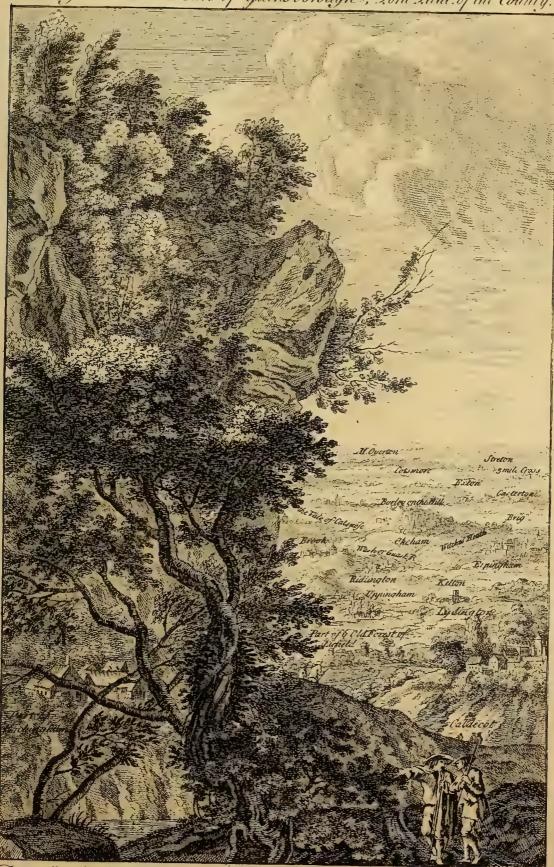

AMAP of LEICESTER SHIRE. North from Lon Don. Humbly Inscribed to His Grace y Duke of Rutland, Lord Lieut of y County

From Harborough to Great Glen 8-4 to Leicester 5-5 to Mountsorrel 5 4 to Louglorough 3-1 Principal towns from Leices! Ashly de la Louch 16 Bosnorth 10 to Hinkley to Requorth 17 to Loughboro 10 to Melton 15 to Mountsorrel 6 to Waltham 19 from London 98-6 fir Hundreds, Viz! East Goscote, Tarmland, Garteny Guthlakeston Sparenhoe & W. Goscote Publishid according to act of Farliament G. Birkham, 1752.

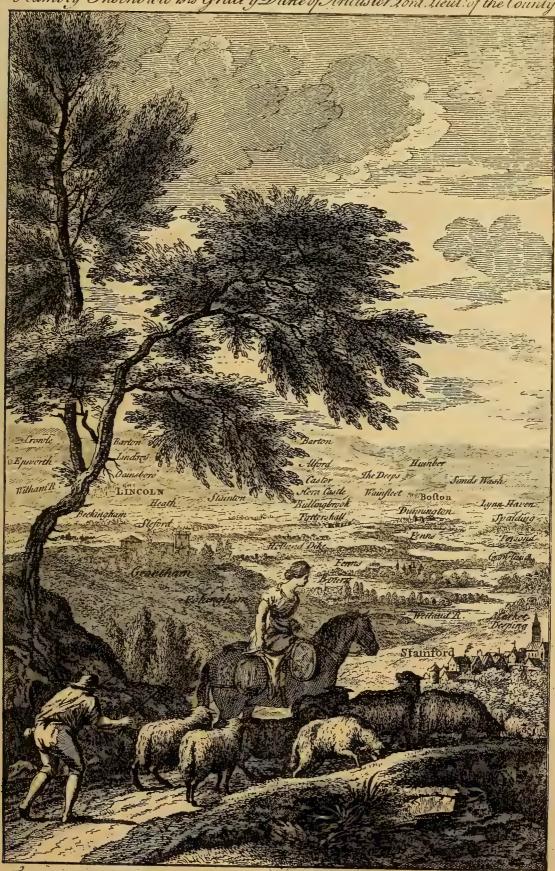

AMAP of RUTLAND SHIRE. North from LONDON. Humbly Inscribid to the Gart of Gains borough, Lord Licut of the Country.

From Rockingham to Caldecot 1-1 to Uppingham 1-3 to Brook 1-1 to Oakham 2-1 from London 9.1. There are five Hundreds, Viz. Allstoe East Martinsley Okchamsoke and Mrangedyke according to Met of Parliam by G. Bickham 1752

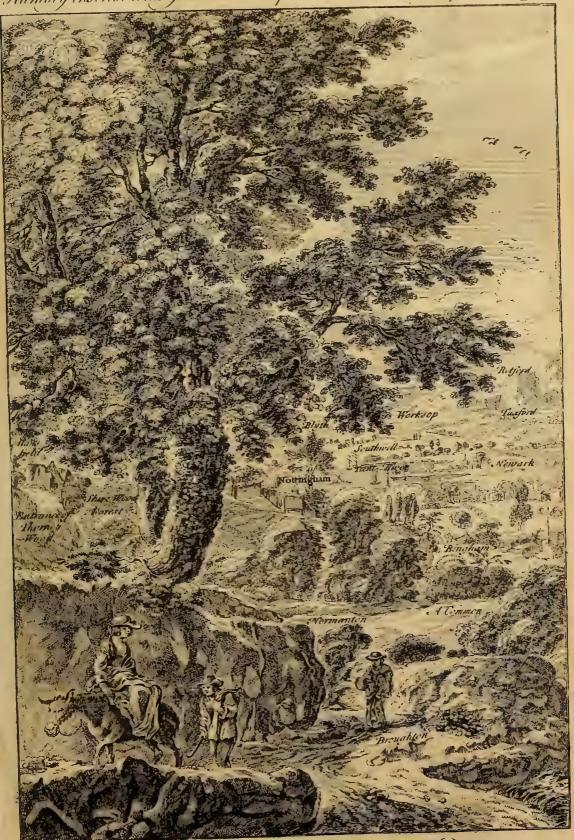

A Map of LINCOLN SHIRE North from Loude ... Humbly Insorbid to bis Grace & Duke of Ancaster Lond Lieut of the Country

From Stamford to Deeping 10.6. to Bourn 6.4 to Moreton 2.3. to Sleaford 14:5 - to Lincoln 18. 8 128 from London Slas 3 Divisions Lindsey Kesteven and Solland in which are 30 Slundreds 35 Market Towns 12 Members of Parliament of Coording to Oot of Parliament by G Buchkam 1753.

A MAP of NOTTINGHAM SHIRE. North from LONDON. Humbly inscribed to his Grace the Duke of Viewcastle, Lord Licut' of the Country.

From Northingham to Bingham 9, to Mansfield 14, to Newark 17, to Juxford 30, to Jouthwell 10, to Retford 36, to Worksop 36, to Blyth 39. Market Journs 9, Members 8. Divided into 8 Hundreds.

According to Act of Parliament by G. Bichham Jun. 1753, _

A MAP of DERBY SHIRE. North from LONDON. Humbly inscribed to his Grace the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Lieut of the County.

From London to Derby 122. 4 Derby to the principal Jowns, Wirksworth 11, Alfreton 11, Chaster. field 20, Dronfield 25, Burton 9, Winstre 17, Oshborn To, Bakewell 21, I idas well 26, Chapel in Frith 31.
6 Hundreds, Appletree, Morleston, Scandale, Highspeak, Repping ton, Wirksworth, 11 Markel Fowns.

According to Act of Parliament by G. Bickham 1753.

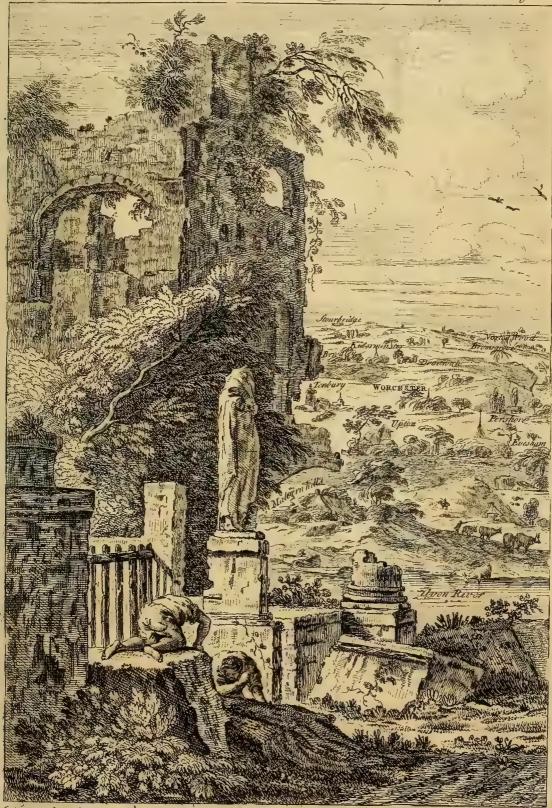

A MAP of WARWICK SHIRE N West from LONDON Humbly inscribed to yR. glonde Carl Brooke Lord Lieut of y County.

From London to Marwick 96, Principal towns from Marwick; to Utherston 24, Nuncaton 18, Heester 15, Pollsworth 28, Birmingham 28, Solihul 30, Coleshill 22, Southam 10, Coventry 10, Firstford 10, Henly-Arden 8, Sutten-Pofield 36, Hyneton 12, Tamworth 38. Twe Hundreds, Kurlichway, Knightlow, Hemling ford, Hyneton, She Silverty, of Coventry, according to the of Partison by 6 Bickham

A MAP of WORCE STER SHIRE, North West from LONDON Humbly inscribed toy Rollon the Sarl of Coventry Lord Saut'of the County

From London to Morcester 112-2, principal Towns from Morcester, Bewelley 20, Pershore 10, Bromsgrove 12, Shipton 30, Divitivich 6, Dudley 38, Evesham 14, Kiderminster 21, Stourbridge 31, Tenbury 24, Tewksbury 15, Upton 13, Five Hundreds, Blackenhurst, Stalf-Shire, Dodintree, Ofwaldestow, and Pershore.

according to Act of Parliam by G. Bickham 1753.

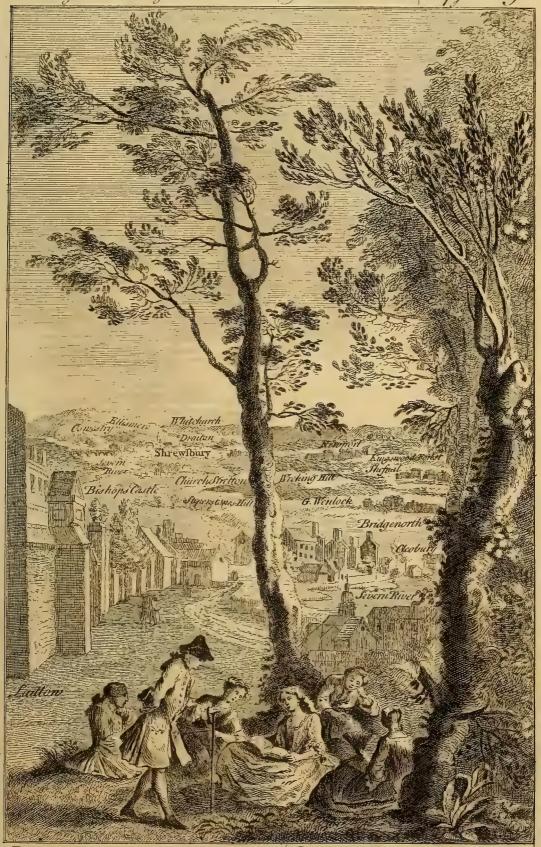

A MAP of STAFFORD SHIRE, North Welt from Don Don.
Humbly inscrib'd to y R. Hon de Carl Gower, Lord Lieut of the County

From London to Stafford 135, Principal Towns from Stafford; to Bentley 23, Newcastle 17, Brewood 11, Pagets-bromley 12, Burton 24, Tutbury 22, Tamworth, 23 Walfall'18, Dudly 22, Penkridge 6 Rugeley 9, Stone 7, Uttoxeter 12, Litchfield 16, Leck 23, Eccleshall 10. Five Hundieds; Cudleston, Offelow, Pirchill, Scisdon & Totmonslow. According to Actofforliamenely G. Bickham.

AMAP of the COUNTY of SALOP. North Welt from London. Humbly Inscribe to y Hon! H. Arthur & E. Ponvis, Lord Lieut of y County.

From London to Shronsbury 157. Principal Townsfrom Shronsbury to Ludlow 29, Bridgnorth 21.G. Il Enlock 8.Bishops Castle 24. Church Stretton 13, Newport 18. Whit - church 20 Oswestry 16 Ellesmore 16 Drayton 18.

According to Act of Parliam by G. Bickham 1754.

A MAP of CHESHIRE North West from LONDON -- Humbly Inscribe to the R. Hon "the Carl of Cholmondely Lord Licut of the Country

From London to Chester 182, Principal towns from Chester, Altrincham 30, Middlewich 20, Congleton 30, Nantwich 18, Frodsham 23 Northwich 16, Knotsford 23, Sandbach 25, Maccles field 34, Stockport 35, Mulpas 14, Soven Hundreds, Boxton Nantwich Marfield, Busklon; Northwich, Werrall, Edsbury, According to Actof Parliam! G. Bickham 1754

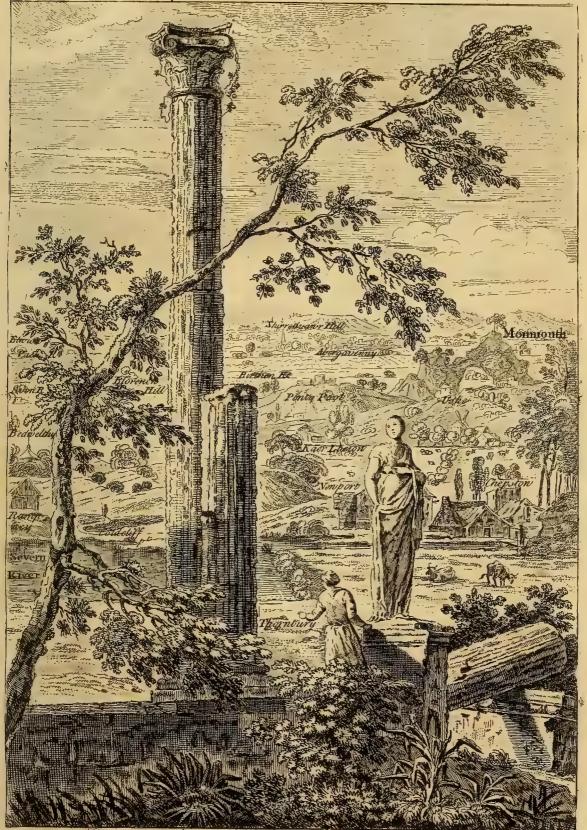

A MAP of HEREFORDSHIRE, N. Welt from LONDON. Humbly Inscribit to yR. Hondel'isc. Bateman Lord Lieu! of the County.

From London to Hereford 130-1 Principal Towns from Hereford Bramyard 222 Ryneton 18 Leominster 14 Pembridge 13 Kofs 12 Weobby 12 Cloven Hundreds Broscashe Ewaifley Greytree Grimsworth Iluntangton Radlow Stretford Webtree Wegmore Wolsey and Wormlow

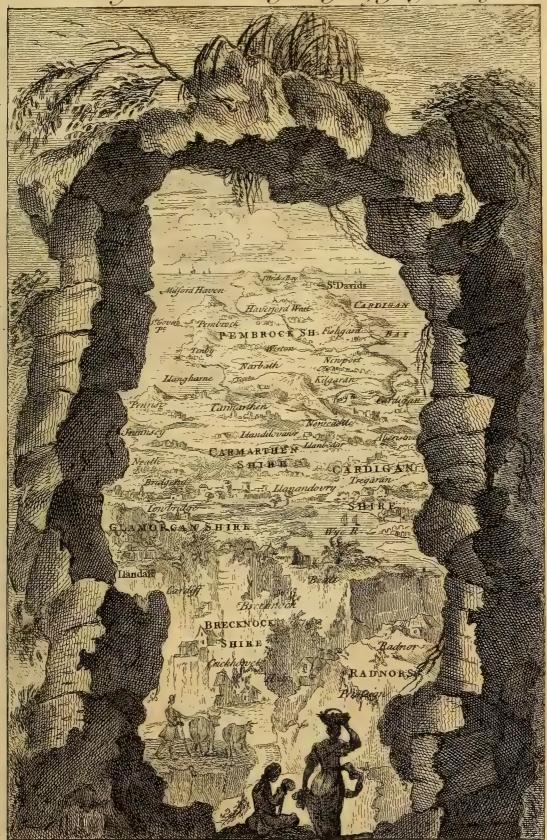

A MAP of MONMOUTH SHIRE, West from LONDON Humbly Inscrib'd to the Hondle I Morgan Esq. Lord Licut of y Country

From London to Monmouth 127 miles, Principal towns from Monmouth; Abergavenny 5, Ven port 24, Kaer Lheion 20, Ponty pool 17, Chopston 14, Uske 11, Seven Hundreds, Bergrave, Ragland, Wenlooge, Caldicott, Skenfrith, Uske, & Nyc.

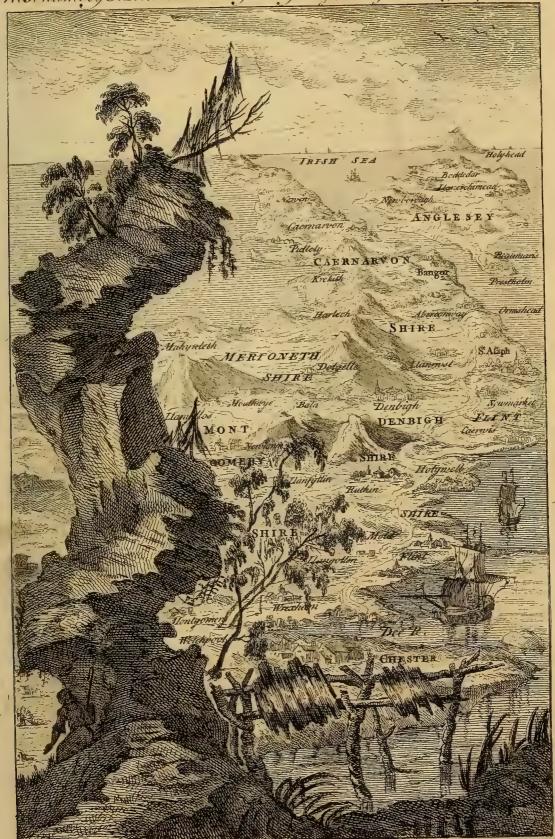

AMAP of SOUTH WALES West from London Most humbly Inscribid to his Royal High nep George Prince of Wales

South Wales is in length from Breaksea point to Craven point in Anglesey 150 m. in Breadth from Alston in Salop, in y Borders of Montgomery, to Landvaron the Sea Coast in Alerioneth Shire so in This is if narrowest part of Wales, see following Map according to Act of Partiam! by G Buckham Juni 1954.

MAP of NORTH WALES N. West from London Most humbly Inscribid to her Royal Highness Princes Downger of Wales.

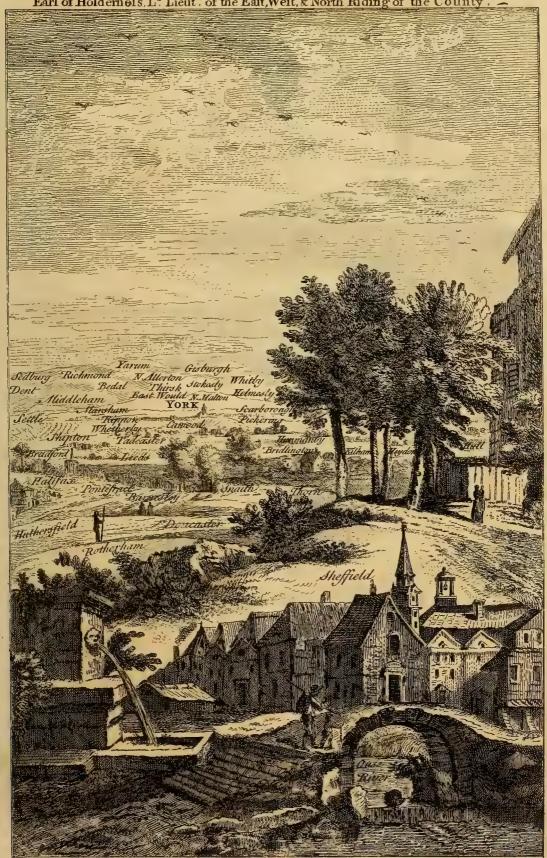

North Wales is in Breadth taking it from Crickhowelon & Borders of Brecknockshing, to I Davids head in Vembrokeshire 99 m. The Isle of Anglesey, Beaumaris & chief Town from London 241, m. & W. rexcham is & largest Town in N. Wales in & Country of Denbigh.

according to Act of Partiam! by G. Bickham Jun. 1964

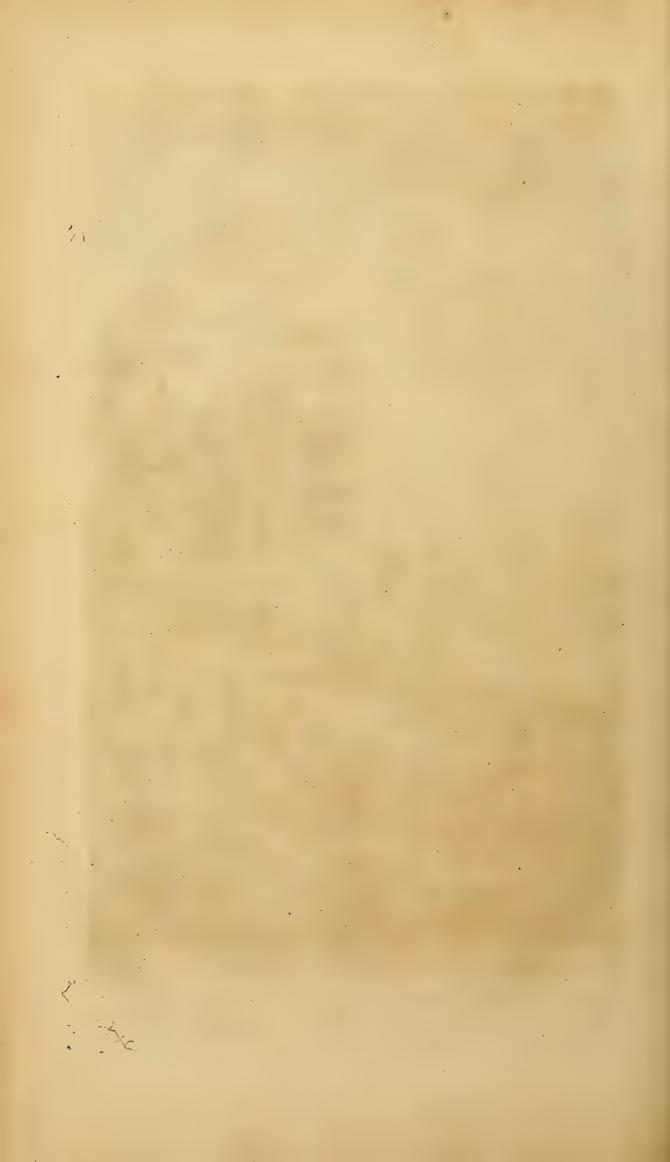

AMAP of YORK SHIRE. North from London. - Humbly Inscribed to Visc! Invin, Marquiss of Rockingham, & the Earl of Holdernoss, Lt. Lieut to the East, West, & North Riding of the County.

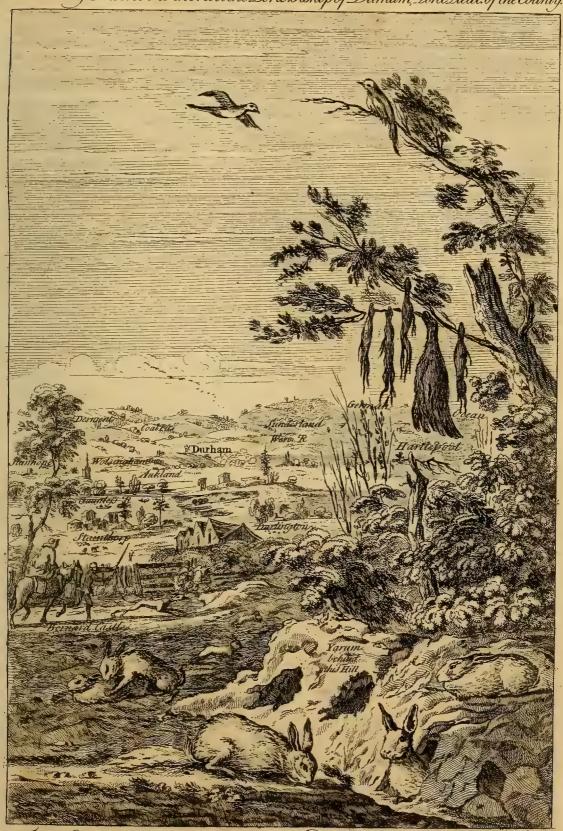

From London to York 192, Utdburgh &1, Beverley 27, Bradford 30, Cawood 8, Doncaster 29, Gisborough 40, Halifax 36, Hull 35, Knaresborough 18, Leeds 24, Pontefract 26, Richmond 49, Rotherham 34 Scarborough 43, Sheffield 41, Wakefield 24, Whitby 50, all principal Towns from York.

Whitby 50, all principal Towns from York.

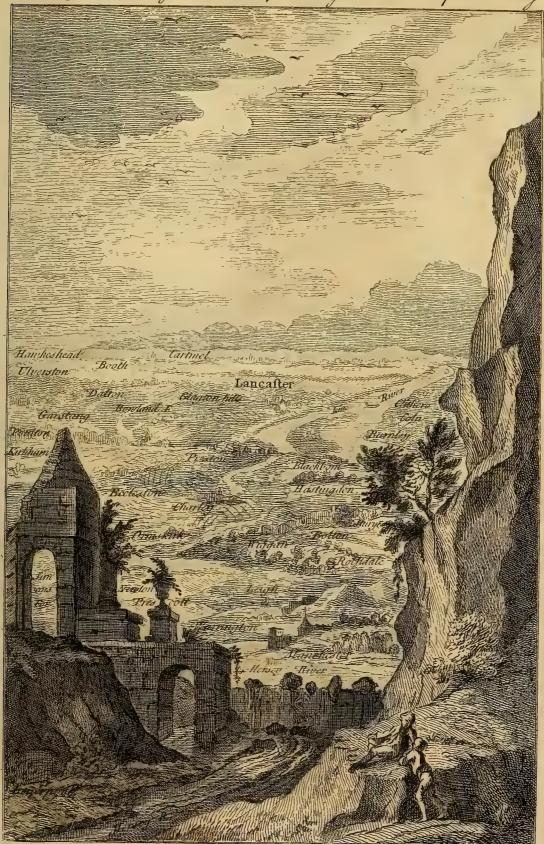

A MAP of the BISHOPRICK of DURHAM. North from London Humbly Inscribed to the Reve the Lord Bishop of Durham, Lord Lieut, of the Country.

From London to Durham 262, 4, Principal Towns from Durham Bernard Castle 19 Stainthorp 3, Benfield 12, Stanhope 13, Bishop Aukland 9, Stockton 4Darlington 14, Sunderland 9, Hartlepool 12, Wolsingham 8, Newcastle 13 Yarum. Publishid according to Accoffartiam thy G Bickham 17,53.

A MAP of LANCASHIRE. North from London — Humbly Inscribed to GRHon Carl of Darby Lord Lieut tof the Country

From London to Lancaster 232-7. Principal Forms from Lancaster Leverpool 15, Manches ter 43, Warrington 46. Wiggan 37, Bigh 46, Wirkham 18, Vreston 21, Presect 43, Hankshead 35, Eccleston 28, Cartmel 15. is Divided into 5 hundreds Amondernes, Landan, West Derby, Blackburn, and Lons dale Occording to Oct of Parliament by G. Bichham Jun! 1754 .

AMAP of WESTMORLAND. North from LONDON. Humbly Inscribed to the R'Hon "Vise Londale, Lord Lieutenant of the County.

From London to Kendall 256m Principal Jown from Kendal Ambleside 13, -Kirkby Lonsdale 9, Appleby 26, Kirby Steven 21, Brough 12 Orton 15, Burton 12 Shape 18. According to Act of Burliam! by Geo. (Bickham) 1753.

A MAP of CUMBERLAND North from LONDON
Humbly Inscriboto, the R. Hon the Carlof Gremont Lord Sweet of the County

From London to Carlisle 307, Principal towns from Carlisle, Alstonmoor 30, Kirk Oswald 10, Brampton 10, Longtown 12 Cockermouth 24, Penrith 18 Egremont 36, Ravenglafs 43, Holm Abby 15, 11 ig ton 10, 11 hitehaven 36, I reby 15, Keswick 23, Workington,

Locording to Act of Partiam G Bickham 4754,

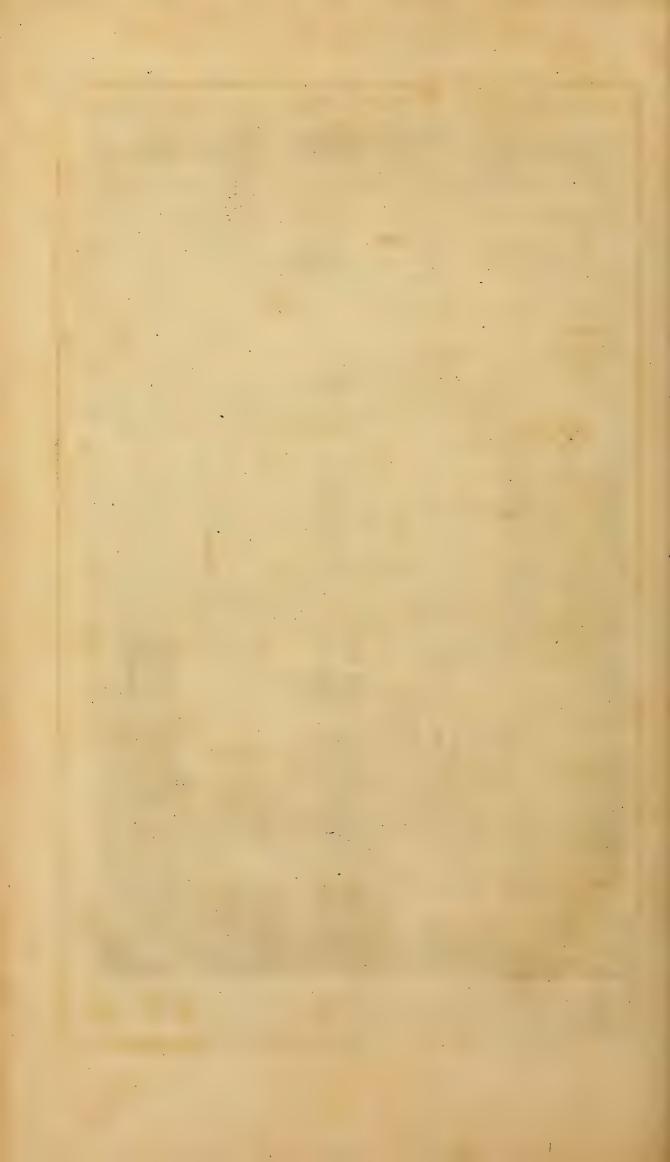

A MAP of NORTH UMBERLAND North from London Humbly Inscribed to if R. Hon Ly Earl of Egremont Lord Live of Country

From London to Newcastle 276.4 to Hexham 22,2 to Beltingham 31.2 to Haltwesel 37, From London to Berwick 340 to Cornhil 13:10 Orde 3 - to Learmouth 23.10 Helso 29 to Tedburgh 33.4 .

according to act of Parliam! by G Bickham Jun! 1754.

A TABLE of the WAGES allowed in the ROYAL-NAVY TO Romirals, Captains, Lieutenants, Warrant Officers, Petty Officers, & Private Seamen.

Warrant Stetters, 10		~~~~~	, oc II.	Lvaco
FLAG	OFF	TICE	RS&	c	SO !	\times
						- }
Admiral & COMMANDER 20	CHIEF	of the 1	FLEET	per Day	£	5 ,_,_
Do of the WHITE and VICE Admira of the RE
REAR D° of D
FIRST Captain to the Com	MANDE	R in CE	HEF		(1.15
SECOND Do				,	1	1,
Captains to the Admirals
D. to VICE D. If in small ships those Captains have this pay]_ 16
Do to REAR Do . Sfin itor 2. Rates they have y pary of such , 13
Quality
	1	2	3	- 4	5	6
CAPTAIN)	1,-,-	16	13		8	. 8
LIEUTENANT Per Day		5	_4	4	4	4
MASTER per Montb 2d D.º & Pilots of the Yatchs	9.2	8 . 8	6.6.	5.12	5.2.8	4
	3.10	3	2,16,2	2.,7:10	2 . 2	2 2 2
D.º Mate Midshipman & Cap ^s Clerk	2.5	2	1.17.6	1,13.9	1,10,_
Schoolmaiter		_/_/_		1,13,9	1.10	1.10.
Quartermafte		1,15	1.12.	1 .10	1.8.	1.6.
D° Mate	4,-,-	3.10.	3	2.10.	2.5.	2
Do Mate	1 .15	1.15.	1.12	1,10,_		1.6.
Yeomen of the Sheets & Coxfwain	1 .12	1.10	1.8	1.8	1	1.6
Master Sailmaker D°Mate	1.15.	1,15,-	1.8.	1.8.		1.8.
D. Mate.	1.5.	1.5.			1.5.	1,5,_
GUNNER	4,_,_	3.10	3,,_	2,10	2.5,_	2,
D. Mate & Yeomen of y Powder Room.	1 ,15 , -	1.15.			1,8,_	1.6.
Quarter Gunner 1 to every 4 Guns Armourer & Gunfmith	1,6,_	1 5	1.5.	1 , 5 ,	1,5,-	1,5,-
CARPENTER	4	3.10.	3	2,10,_	2.5	2,
D.º Mate	2	2	1.16	1 .14	1,12	1 .10
D.°Crew			1.5:-		2.5.	1.5.
Purser	1,5,		1,5,_
D.ºMate	1.2	1,2.	1.2	18
Cook	1,5,-	_		1.5	1 -	1,5,
D.º 1.4 Mate	5	2.10.			2,10,_
Dogd	2				2
Do 3.d 4th & 5.th.	1.10.			,,_
Mafter at Arms	2,5,_			1,13,9
Corporal Trumpeter	1:10.	1.8.	1.5.	1,5,-	1,8,_	1,4,-
				_
Midshipman Ordinary, Cooks Mate,					z Chief
Coxfwains Mate, Yeoman of the Boatfwains Store Room, Swabber,	1.1.		ADMIRA Vice & B			30 20 15
Cooper, Able Seamen CAP. Cook	, 24,				100Men.
Ordinary Trumpeter		`
CHAPLAIN & 4 da Month for ea Man.		Paid per N	Seers except	ed Adpa	tham Cheft & rfon & 2 ^d St	reenwich
Ordinary Seamen, Shifter, Barber,		3.din the A	for Widow	from Com	! & Warran	Officers
Gunners Taylor)			& Cook exc

		F	2	A	Y	-	0/	Ct.	b	e_	L	A.	W.	D	Z	70) F	2 (C_{\perp}	E	S	,	&	c.
HORSE	P	A	Y	p.	n Al War	rt	To	tal		ibfi nce		GR					R	P	ΑY	-	P.	n.Al Wai Pay	TT.	Tot	al	,	blift nce
GUARDS.				N.	Par 4.6	y ea			е	nce		U	U.	AR	D	5.						2.e
COLONEL & CAPTAIN	,	16					ž		1	7		OLO	NE:	L &2	CAF	ΑI	N	1	10		6	15	1	2 5		1	14 6
First Lieutenant Colonel	1	11			~				7	3	6 I	.ieut	Col	onel	&L	ien	ıt	1	2.	6	3	7	6	1 10	9	1	3 6
SecondD°	1	7			,			1	1	. [6 1	Majoı						1			- 1	5		1 5		1	1
Cornet	1	6		ľ				-			6 2	Lie	t &(Cap	eå 1	M	an.		17		- 1	2	_	19			15
Guidon	1	4								1	5	Guid	on.	t	-+-	• • •	. 		16		1		6	10			14
Exempt		16									1	2 Sub							10		2	2	6	12		1 1	9 6
Brigadier.	,	11								8	1	Chap							8	8				8		1 1	5
Sub Brigadier (2°4 p Day)	-1	6								4	X-21	Surg Adju										2	6	- 1 -	1,	1
out of private Mens Pay Chaplain	4	6	8					1				saju Serje						•	7		1	2		9		1 1	7 6
Adjutant		11	0				+	1		8		Corp							4					3		L	2 6
Riding Master						1		4		1 - 1		Drun							2	6				2	١.		2
Agent						8		s				Wido									1	2	6	2	6		2
Surgeon		8								6	- 1	Ridi						t t			2	5		á	5		4
KittleDrum &Trumpeter.		5								4		Recr									6	15		1.	5		12
Widows						8		8			8卦.	Agen	t								3	7	6	7	6		6
Private Gentlemen		4						4		2	107	Prive	te l	Men					2	6				2	2 6		2
Superanuated Gentlem						4		4		2	102
in Chelsea College
MarshaltoH.&Gr. Guards.		7								5	6															-
1 Mens Pay a Day Comp Inva.	1		-	ن	-	R	TR	T	7	Γ.	T S	H				T	•	 	T	F	2	T	S	F	Γ]\
6 allowd by War! Troop 29 14 of Aug. 1747. Horfe Grena	\vdash	HU) H	S	F.							TARI		7. FR-78	(AR		HOL	7.5	_	-			-	vs		50	OT to each. Guards.		A			bf.	+-	AY		ubi		PAY						PAY	_	ıbſ		PA		Su		_	AY	Sut
COLONEL & CAPTAIN	2	,	7	, ,	11	,	15	,	6	6 1	10	0 10	2	4	18	1	18	,	8 4	,	11	4	,	3 8	,	16	18 4
Lieut Colonel & Capt	4		6		2 6	1		6	18	1	17	1 1		17	13	7	5	1 1	19 1	1	19	1	- 1	47	1 1	- 1	12 7
Major & Captain		7		- }	16	1	1 - 1		15	6/1	1 1	1		15	1 - 1	5/1	26		71	- 1	17	1 1	i i	3 1	1 1	- 1	10 4
Captain		1	6	,	66		15		11		16 6	12	6	10	70	5	17		3		12	1 1		9/2		96	71
Lieuten ant		15			16		9		7		7 1	6		48	36	5	10 6		8		6	2	11	1 9	1 1	- 1	3 4
Cornet Horfe & Drag Enfign		14	-		11		S	6			510		6	3 8	3		86		6 8	,	8	2	15	3 10		2 6	210
Foot, & 2 Tieut of Marines									4		3/1	1 4			11						1					3	12/1
Quarter Master		8	l i	1	6 6	1		6	4		4	3		48	3 6	5	5		4 8		3		2	29
Chaplain	1	6	$ \mathcal{S} $		5			8 10	5	- 1		.1 1
Adjutant		5			46			18/4			6			1 1	5		68		5		0	8	13	5		6 8	5
		6				1	5	The second	4	6	4	3		4	3						1					6 8	3
Surgeon Mate		6			4 6	1	6	The state of the s		_	4	3 3		4	3		68		3		4			3		4	3
Surgeons Mate		6				1	1 [# · ·	4	_	4	3		4	3						1					4	3
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe		3					1 [-	4	_	4	3 3 2	84	4	3 2	8			3	4	1					4	3
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag!& Foot.					4 6		6	-	4	6	4 4 2 6	3 3 2	87	4	3 2	8	26		3	4	4			3		4	3 3 2 4
Surgeons Mate KittleDrummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot &			8	4	4 6		6	-	4	6	4 4 2 6	3 3 2	87	4	3 2	8	4		3		4			3		4	3 3 2 4
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag!& Foot.		3	8	4	2 6		6	-	4	6	4 4 2 6 1 9	3 3 2	87	4	3 3 2	8	26		3		4	6		3		4 2 6	3 3 2 4 8
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum of Drag & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe		3	8	4	2 6		6	3	4 4 4 1 1 2 2	9	4 4 2 6 1 9	3 3 2		4 4 2 6	3 3 2	8	26		3		4	6		3		4 2 6	3 3 2 4 8
Surgeons Mate. Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag. & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hautbois		3	8	4	2 6		2	3	4 4 4 1 2 1	9	4 4 2 6 1 9	3 3 2 2	4	4 4 2 6	3 3 2		26		3		4	6 8		3		4 2 6	3 3 2 4 8
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hautbois Private Men.		3	8		2 6		2 2 2 2 2 2	3	4 4 4 1 1 2 1 1 1	9 3	4 2 6 1 6 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 2	4	4 4 2 6	3 3 2		26		3		1 2 7	6 8 6		3	99	4 2 6	3 3 2 4 8
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hautbois Private Men Solicitor.		3			2 6		2 2 2 2 2 2	3	4 4 4 1 1 2 1 1 1	3 9 6	4 4 2 6 1 9 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 2	4	4 4 2 6	3 3 2		2 6 2 6 2 6		3		4 1 2 1 1	6 8 6		7 7 7	99	4 4 2 6 6 1	3 3 2 4 8 1 6 1 9
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hautbois Private Men. Solicitor. Deputy Marshal		3 2 3 2			2 6		2 2 2 1	9933	4 4 4 1 1 2 1 1 1	3 9 6	4 4 2 6 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 2 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7	4	4 4 2 6 1	3 3 2		2 6 2 6 1 10		3		4 1 2 7 7 7	6 8 6 4		7 7 7	99	4 4 2 6 6 1	3 3 2 4 8 1 6 1 9
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal. Hauthois Private Men. Solicitor. Deputy Marshal. Agent. Each Troop of Horfe.		3 2 3 2			2 6		2 2 2 7 7	9933	4 4 4 1 1 2 1 1 1	3 9 6	4 4 2 6 1 9 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 7 7 7 3 3 4 7 3 3 4	4	4 4 2 6 1 1 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6	3 3 2		2 6 2 6 2 6		3		4 1 2 7 7 7	6 8 6		7 7 7	9.7	4 4 2 6 6 1	3 3 2 4 8 1 6 1 9
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hauthois Private Men. Solicitor. Deputy Marshal. Accent (Each Tropo of Horfe)		3 2 3 2			2 6		2 2 2 7 7	9933	4 4 4 1 1 2 1 1 1	3 9 6	4 4 2 6 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 7 7 7 3 3 4 7 3 3 4	4	4 4 2 6 1	3 3 2		2 6 2 6 1 10		3		4 1 2 7 7 7	6 8 6 4		7 7 7	9.7	4 4 4 6 6 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7	3 3 2 4 8 1 6 1 9
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hauthois Private Men Solicitor Deputy Marshal Agent: Each Troop of Horfe or Company of Foo Widows and Trich Regime	100000000000000000000000000000000000000	3 2 3 2 2 5	6		4 6 6 2 6 6 2 2 2 6 2 2		2 2 2 7	9 3 3 9 2 2 2 2	4 4 1 1 2 1 1 1 1	3 9 6 5	4 4 2 6 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 2 1 1 3 3 4 7 1 3 3 4 7 7	4	4 4 2 6 1 1 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6	3 3 2		2 6 2 6 1 10		3 2 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	1	4 1 2 7 7 7 3	6 8 6 4 64		3 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7	Q.	4 4 4 6 6 7 7 7 3 10 5	3 3 2 4 8 8 1 6 5 1 5 5
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hautbois Private Men. Solicitor. Deputy Marshal. Agent. East Troop of Horfe. or Company of Foot Widows and Irich Regime. Allowe	an	3 2 3 2 5	6	· · ·	4 6 6 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2	47	6 2 2 2 2 7 7	9 3 9 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2	4 4 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	6 9 3 9 6 5	4 4 2 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 2 2 2 3 3 4 4 7	4 10)	4 4 2 6 1 1 6 6 1 2 2 6 6 6 1 2 2 6 6 6 1 2 2 6 6 6 1 2 2 6 6 6 1 2 2 6 6 6 1 2 2 6 6 6 1 2 2 6 6 6 6	3 3 2 2	8	2 6 2 6 2 6 1 10 4 8 ² ₂		3 2	1	4 1 2 7 7 7 3	6 8 6 4 6 ³		3 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7	UA	4 4 4 6 6 7 7 7 3 10 5	3 3 2 4 8 1 6 1 9
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hautbois Private Men Solicitor Deputy Marshal Agent: Each Troop of Horfe or Company of Foot Widows and Irich Regime. Allower Colonel Lieut Col Major &	an	3 2 3 2 5 5 CCC	6 Rec	cru	2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 2 2 6 2	47	6 2 2 2 2 7 7	9 3 9 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2	4 4 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	6 9 3 9 6 5	4 4 2 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 2 2 2 3 3 4 4 7	4 10)	4 4 2 6 1 1 6 6 1 2	3 3 2 2	8	2 6 2 6 2 6 1 10 4 8 ² ₂	FRC	3 2	1	4 , 2 , 3 DR	6 8 6 4 6 ³ 4 8 AC		3 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7	UA	4 4 2 6 1 7 3 7 7	3 3 2 4 8 8 1 6 1 9 9 9
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum! of Drag! & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hauthois Private Men. Solicitor. Deputy Marshal. Agent. Each Troop of Horfe. or Company of Foot Widows and Irich Regime. Colonel Lieut Col Major & Colonel for Clothing lost.	an	3 2 3 2 5 Dece	6 Reception	or	2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 2 6 2 2 2 2 6 2	AY	6 2 2 2 2 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	9 3 3 9 2 2 2 2 2	4 4 4 1 1 2 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	6 9 3 9 6 5 5	4 4 2 6 1 5 P. full	3 3 2 2 2 2 3 3 4 3 4 3 4 4 Y. AY.	9 Var:	4 4 4 2 6 1 1 6 1 1 6 1 1 6 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 2 2	8	2 6 2 6 2 6 1 10 4 8 ² ₂	FRC	3 2	1	4 , 2 , 3 DR	6 8 6 4 6 ³		3 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7	UA	4 4 2 6 1 7 3 7 7	3 3 2 4 8 8 1 6 5 1 5 5
Surgeons Mate Kittle Drummer of Horfe Drum of Drag & Foot. Drum Major of Foot & Trumpeter of Horfe. Serjeant. Corporal Hautbois Private Men. Solicitor Deputy Marshal Agent. Each Troop of Horfe or Company of Foot Widows and Irich Regime. Allown Colonel Lieut Col Major & Colonel Lieut Col Major &	Cap	3 2 3 2 5 Dece 2 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10	6 Reception	or cruite ea-	2 6 2 2 2 2 2 2 4 2 2 2 2 4 2 2 2 2 2 2	AY ing	6 2 2 2 2 2 2 7 7 FF600	9933 9922 222	4 4 4 1 1 1 2 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	6 9 3 9 6 5 5 5 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8 8	4 4 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	3 3 3 2 2 2 3 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4	9 Var:	4 4 4 2 6 1 4 2 6 1 4 2 4 3 4 4 5 4 5 4 5 4 5 4 5 4 5 4 5 4 5 4	Aug	8	2 6 2 6 1 10 4 8 ² / ₂	HC	3 2	1	4 , 2 , 3 DR	6 8 6 4 6 ³ 4 8 AC		3 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7	UA	4 4 2 6 1 7 3 7 7	3 3 2 4 8 8 1 6 1 9 9 9

